ADMINISTRATION JOINS IN ATTEMPT TO CUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Guilty Profiteers Will Receive Jail Sentences; Secret Service Men Lend Assistance.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—President Harding and his cabinet today issued an order that all forces of the federal government be used to force down prices. Guilty profiteers will receive jail sentences. Federal district attorneys were ordered to hasten prosecutions against building material manufacturers. The department of justice, labor and commerce entered an investigation of high prices. Secret service departments of labor and justice are cooperating to convict profiteers.

REOPENING OF GERMAN CONSUL OFFICE QUIET

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Bus, bustling Lower Broadway paid no heed to the reopening of German consular headquarters here. The streets resounded with only the usual workaday din as Karl Lang took over his office at No. 11 Broadway.

Just a few short months before, skyscrapers had thrown to the four winds echoes of the trample of marching feet and clamors and shouts for victorious generals.

Before 1917 the opening of an important office of the German empire would have been the occasion for ostentatious ceremony, and the world and Broadway, would have stopped and taken notice.

After-the-war opening of the offices was modest. Chairs, desks, filing cabinets and typewriters were dragged across the hall from the Swiss consular offices, dusted off and put in their places. Broadway paid no notice. Broadway had applauded when the Imperial German flag was hauled from the flag pole at the top of the building on the opening of hostilities.

One decoration of the old German offices was missing after the rooms had been prepared for occupancy. It was an oil portrait of William Hohenzollern, stored with the furniture in the Swiss offices. It was "gone" workmen told.

Other Changes, Too. Outside the building there were changes from the pre-war order of things.

At No. 45 Broadway, a few doors north of the newly opened offices, the former Hamburg-American Steamship Company had headquarters. Today all floors of that building are occupied by United States Shipping Board offices.

Members of the German consular staff formerly looked out of their office windows, across North River to Hoboken piers, where German flags flew from the masts of innumerable liners and freighters. Today some of the same shops may be seen, but there is no German flag. Ships like the Vaterland, now the Leviathan, now fly the American or some other flag.

In the old days the Germans used also to look down at the statue of Germania in front of the Customs House. The war, aided by a sculptor's chisel, altered that block of marble to make out of it a representation of the heroism of Little Belgium.

Less than three months ago Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies, rode up Lower Broadway and was applauded to the echo. Germany's re-entry into intercourse with America was unheralded and unnoticed.

MAKE FIELD MUSEUM GREATEST IN WORLD

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—An expansion program, covering a five year period, today was assumed by the Field Museum—one of Chicago's show places.

Guarantees were announced which are expected to rank it foremost among similar institutions in the world.

President Stanley Field gave $200,000 to clear the building deficit and $6,500 to wipe out the year's operating debt. Captain Marshall Field promised $50,000 a year to be used for improvements and additions to the exhibits.

Arthur B. Jones pledged $25,000 for an ethnological expedition to Borneo, Java and Sumatra, under the direction of Dr. Fay Cooper Cole.

Completion of the work of Dr. Charles H. Cory's "Birds of America," who died without finishing the work, was assured by a $30,000 donation from Charles R. Crane.

MONTANA EXPECTS BIG YEAR IN STOCK RAISING AND MINING INDUSTRY

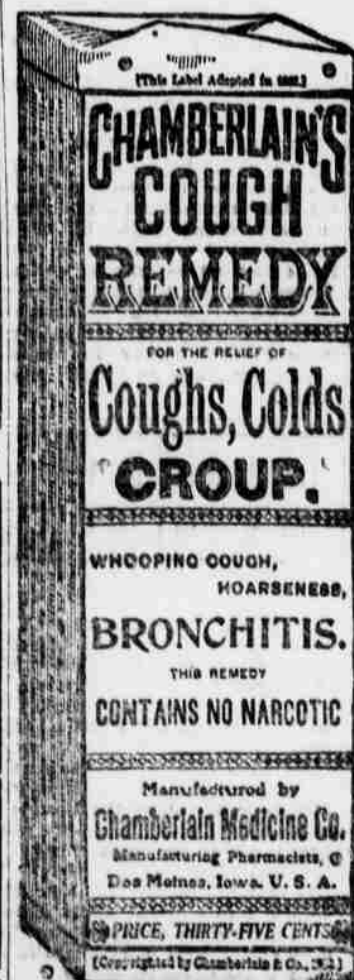

State Greeted New Year With Open Arms and Looks Forward to Rapid Improvements

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Montana greeted the New Year with open arms and is looking forward to rapid improvement over the conditions which were confronted twelve months ago.

In agriculture, in spite of scanty prices, efforts are being made with a good acreage in fall grains, to make the most of a winter which so far has brought plentiful moisture to every section and, with deep snows in the hills, insures an abundance of water for irrigation throughout the coming season. Livestock prices continue to show little improvement, but many of the larger owners of sheep and cattle point to the lower costs of production, with an abundance of cheap hay, little winter feeding this year and lower costs of labor. Several of the far-sighted cattlemen are now quietly picking up all the breeding stock available and at pre-war prices, basing their judgment on the proposition that the world must eat and will continue to eat meat. While the wool growers, many of whom have not yet disposed of the 1921 clips, storing them instead, are complaining of lower prices for wool, they are also congratulating each other on the passage of the era of $100-a-month shepherders and spending half as much again to feed each man. Hogs are slowly forging to the front as a source of revenue in Montana, and more are being raised in this state each year. Poultry and dairy products are finding ready markets, and their production is also on the increase.

Camera Story of Thrilling Rescue in Gale

Here's the news picture story of the thrilling rescue of six men from the French fishing smack "Reine Desperes" in a gale at sea, by Captain A. B. Randall of the S. S. Hudson, recently accused and acquitted of leaving ignored fishermen's signals of distress. His wife's joy at his proved heroism is shown in the picture on the right. The picture on the left, taken from the deck of the Hudson, shows the rescue.

East Helena, which increased its forces a few months ago, doing a big custom business from many small independent producers who shipped there.

Officials of the bigger operating companies, including the Anaconda, however, held out much better prospects for the new year, with the surplus copper being absorbed, the Anaconda finding a steady outlet for much of its production in the recent announced merger with the American Brass Company and a slight increase in price of copper. New Year's messages to several Butte organizations also point out the possibility of resuming work at least on a small scale in the near future.

Montana's newest industry, oil, is closing the year with sixty-nine commercially producing wells, two in the Devil's Basin field, where oil was discovered, four in the Soap Creek field, the last field to be brought in and the Cut Creek field, with sixty-three wells and a production, with the recent increase in price to $1.90 a barrel, being increased rapidly. In addition to production, two refineries have started operations in or near the Cut Creek field, two more have started at Lewiston, one at Billings, another is being completed at Miles City, and one each is proposed at Great Falls and Round-Up. In addition to the work in the producing oil fields, many tests will be started in "wild cat" territory in the spring and a number of others are now being carried on.

BUFFALO HERDS ARE INCREASING RAPIDLY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Within a few years, buffalo meat ought to be fairly plentiful in the markets of the United States and Canada.

With the decision of the Canadian government to kill a certain percentage of the bulls in the buffalo herd at Wainwright, in Alberta, comes the announcement that Wenas range, a wild, unfenced tract of 25,000 acres in Washington, between the Yakima and Columbia rivers, is to be turned into a buffalo ranch, with young Indian bucks employed as herd riders.

The buffalo that will form the nucleus of the proposed herd are already on the range and are a selected lot from the herd of the "steaky" Philip estate at Pierre, S. D.

The Philip herd is the largest privately owned herd in the world. It, likewise will be in charge of the Wenas range buffalo ranch.

The Wainwright herd roams a fenced-in pasture of more than 100,000 acres in the heart of the pioneer trapping ground of the Hudson's Bay company.

It numbers 5,000 and is the largest herd in the world. It has demonstrated the fact that buffalo under present day conditions, will increase at a rate far greater than is necessary for the preservation of the species. So also has the Philip herd, which grew from five calves captured wild on the Dakota plains. The Philip herd is now being broken up and sold because it has outgrown its range.

FROCK DOCTORS MAY BE FASHION CRITICS

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Should every fashionable house have a doctor attached to its staff, prepared to give his opinion on the hygienic point of view of every new garment that dress designers create?

A medical expert selected to fill such a position could be present at every dress parade and advocate or ban each model, drawing up charts to show its hygienic advantages or disadvantages. Millinery might be subjected to the same inspection, for many women discover that their increasing tendency to headaches is caused by wearing a hat that is too tight or blocked so that it presses the head in a particular way.

"I think the idea of a doctor for every fashion house is an admirable one," said Miss Olga Netherdale, founder of the People's League of Health. Women and men, too, are far too apathetic with regard to the effect of their dress on health. I should like to see not only medical experts on dress houses, but I should like to see them watching the workers in every large firm and advising the people what to buy.

"I have never yet heard a woman inquire about the hygienic advantages of a dress," said a prominent member of Lucile's staff, "but it is the fabric, the color and the style that count in every instance, for women are slaves to fashion."

COLD CELL FOR LANDLORD

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Mariano Marsalis, agent for an apartment house in the Bronx, failed to furnish heat when the thermometer registered round the near-freezing point. Haled to court this "warm-hearted" landlord was sentenced to five days in a cold cell by a city magistrate. His tenants will have heat from now on.
