NEGOTIATIONS NOW GOING FORWARD TO TRANSFER POWERS

Matter of Turning Over Further Power to Irish Provisional Gov't Being Rushed.

NEW IRISH FREE STATE IS IN NEED OF FUNDS

Financial Embarrassment is Temporarily Relieved by Negotiations for Large Loan.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—(U. P.)—Negotiations are now going forward to transfer still further power from the London Irish office to the provisional government. The matter is being pushed both here and in England, with the provisional government anxious to obtain complete control for three reasons, first, to establish as rapidly as possible the Irish free state machinery so as to be ready for the fall convening February 14; second, the new provisional government needs funds, thus requiring the taxation of the machinery to be transferred from London to Dublin; third, a series of disturbances led to the belief that extreme republicans are initiating a violence campaign of obstruction against the provisional government.

Financial embarrassment was temporarily relieved following negotiations for a loan of a million pounds with the bank of Ireland by Michael Collins, the Irish premier.

GAME, FARMING AND ROADS DISCUSSED AT COMMERCIAL LUNCHEON

Three Million Trout Fry Will be Placed in Streams of County This Season.

James H. Estes, Fred Bennion and W. S. Caverhill, county commissioner from Grant county, were speakers at the weekly forum luncheon by the Commercial association today, talks of unusual interest being made by each. Bert Jerard served as chairman. Mr. Caverhill, who is here conferring with the county court regarding federal aid for the north and south road, said that in spite of the depression conditions are generally good in Grant county. There is but one family living on the charity of the county and that family is from an adjoining county. The road situation however, is not so good and there is need of signs warning the traveller to "look out" for rough places on the roads ahead.

Game Is An Asset. That hunting and fishing are real assets to the county in many ways was contended by Mr. Estes, first speaker of the day. He said that the hatchery at Bingham springs will liberate three million fry this year and that this hatchery exists because of work of the Pendleton Rod & Gun Club. Mr. Estes also told of cooperation being given at present in feeding China.

NAVAL LIMITATION TREATY NEARING FULL APPROVAL

Treaty is Based Upon Desire for Maintenance of Peace and to Reduce Competition.

TREATY PROPER DIVIDED INTO THREE CHAPTERS

America Must Scrap 31 Vessels, England 22, Japan 18 When Program is Completed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(U. P.)—The naval limitation treaty, slowly moving toward complete approval by the plenipotentiaries of the several powers represented at the arms conference, is based upon a desire for "maintenance of general peace and for the reduction of armament competition," according to its preamble. The treaty proper is divided into three chapters, the first containing 20 articles. The second is divided into four parts—capital ships to be retained, rules for scrapping tonnage, replacement and definitions; chapter three with miscellaneous provisions contains articles relative to common action should any power desire the treaty's modification or, in case the signatory power becomes involved in war. The famous figure ratios 5-5-1.75-1.75 are not included in the text due to Japan's sensitive feeling that they might connote her secondary position. A specific tonnage statement covers this ratio, however.

The preamble says: "The United States of America, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, desiring to contribute to the maintenance of general peace and reduce the burden of competition in armament, have resolved, with a view to accomplishing these purposes, to conclude the treaty and limit their respective naval armaments and to that end have appointed their plenipotentiaries, who having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in good and due form, have agreed as follows." The treaty then follows.

The article dealing with the capital ship tonnage is number four in chapter one, and reads: "The total ship replacement tonnage of each of the contracting powers shall not exceed the standard displacement for the United States 35,000 tons; for the British Empire, 35,000 tons; for France, 17,500 tons; for Italy, 17,500 tons, and for Japan 12,600 tons." Article 19, providing for limitation of Pacific fortifications and naval bases, was omitted temporarily awaiting Japan's answer regarding its acceptability. Article 24 stipulates that ratification of the treaty shall follow American constitutional methods and calls for a deposit of the ratifications as soon as possible.

The chart obtained by the United Press today shows America must scrap 31 vessels when the treaty is effective; Great Britain 22, together with abandonment of her naval program; and Japan 18, as well as abandoning her projected naval program.
