NOTRE DAME COACH REFUSES TO WORRY OVER HIS PROSPECTS

Rockney's System Provides for Developing Second String Men While Making Eleven.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Loss of thirteen first-string players would suggest bankruptcy as a way out for most football coaches.
If not desperate, the situation at least would be regarded as critical.
Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's "mirage," is not even puckering a brow over this plight.
"We'll be there with another winner next year," Rockne said at the recent meeting of football coaches here.
After a glimpse at Rockne's record, his outward calm cannot be taken as an assumption of bravado.
When the great George Glipp died after the 1920 season, the sages pronounced, "There goes Notre Dame."
But the Hoosiers came east last year with an even greater team, one that was pronounced the finest seen around the Atlantic seaboard.
When Rockne says he is not worried, it means something and when he goes out and books games with Nebraska, the Army and Indians and runs after Iowa for another game, it means more.
Prominent among the thirteen that will leave the university in June are Glay and Anderson, the great pair of blockers, and Johnny Mohardt, the brilliant pass-throwing back. Mohardt is going to Harvard to study medicine but he will not be eligible for participation in varsity athletics.
Rockne probably will build his backfield around Gus Desch, the world's champion hurdler and one of the fastest running backs ever seen in the gridiron, and Paul Castner, the ambidextrous passed two-footed kicker and brilliant open field runner.
When the Notre Dame team came east last fall, Desch and Castner were used as substitutes. After the brand

SUBMARINES HAVE COME TO STAY, ADMIRAL BALLARD, OF ENGLISH NAVY, DECLARES

'We Must Avoid Attitude That These Vessels Are Subject for Contempt,' He Says.

BY EARLE C. REEVES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
LONDON, Jan. 21.—"Submarines have come to stay, whether we like it or not," is the emphatic declaration of Vice Admiral G. A. Ballard, former director of operations in the British admiralty.
In more dramatically phrased, if less vigorous style, he is taking up the cudgels after the fashion of the late Admiral Fisher who conducted a famous letter-writing campaign on the thesis that submarines and aeroplanes had negated the capital ship. His war cry was "Scrap the lot!"
Ballard does not go so far as his one-time chief, but he is hammering relentlessly into the British public his belief that the empire must have submarines.
"We must avoid the attitude that these vessels are subject for contempt," he declared, referring to the case against them presented by Mr. Balfour at Washington. "They are formidable engines of war, requiring to be treated as such."
Useful Mine Layers.
"Although in the war not a single British or French battleship was sunk by German guns more than a dozen met their fate either in direct encounter with submarines or by mines that submarines alone could have placed where they were."
"That in itself furnishes conclusive evidence of the effectiveness of the submarines, even when used in a perfectly legitimate way, as we used them ourselves. Moreover, this evidence does not stand alone, for the moral effect of submarines is very great apart altogether from their threat to merchant ships."
"Had they never existed it is almost certain that we should have forced our way into the Baltic, and by attacking or menacing the German rear, altered the entire course of the war."
Movements of Fleet.
"Again, it was the fear of submarines that affected the whole movement of the Grand Fleet and compelled us to drain all other war areas of destroyers in order to protect our battleships, with the result of serious weakening our position in these areas. And yet again, it was the German submarines that forced the withdrawal of our heavily-armed ships from advantageous bombarding po-

FOREIGNERS DEMAND U. S. SPORTING GOODS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—Increasing world wide popularity of all athletic sports is reflected by official figures of the department of commerce showing an ever increasing amount of exports of American sporting goods.
As a result of the recent successes of American Davis cup teams, tennis goods are in greater demand than those for any other sport at the present time.
Sporting goods manufacturers in England and Germany are striving for the world's markets and they have a favorable situation on exchange rates. As a result they are commanding many of the cheaper markets, for American goods are superior and command the respect of those able to pay, and the leaders in various lines of sports.
American consuls were recently asked for reports on the development of athletic sports in the countries to which they are accredited, and the markets for American goods.

RADIO EQUIPMENT INSTALLED.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—Radio equipment for gathering and disseminating crop news in the state of Missouri will be installed in the very near future at a cost of $3,000. The government and many other states are using such instruments for collecting and distributing crop information.

PLANS REORGANIZATION OF THE FUR EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—Proposal for reorganization of the International Fur Exchange, drawn up recently, will be presented to stockholders of the concern within the next few weeks. Though the issuance of $410,000 preferred stock and $410,000 common stock, the company will be recapitalized.
By absorbing the common stock, stockholders of the old company will have the opportunity to purchase a half interest in the new firm. The creditor banks, which have been liquidating the assets of the company will be turned over to the new company by the banks.
Negotiations are underway to amalgamate the New York and Montreal Fur Exchanges with the International Recent conferences of bankers in New York resulted in the re-establishment of the Exchange.

S. S. SECRETARY SINCE 1871.

NAVASOTA, Texas, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—One position for fifty-one years, without a break. That is the record of W. W. Stacy, 57, retired contractor and builder of this city. He has been the secretary of the Baptist Sunday school here since 1871.
Beginning the second half of his century of service, Stacy continues to show as much enthusiasm over his church position as when he first assumed the duties. "Rain or shine there is no need for one to disregard his work," Stacy declares.

JESSE L. LASKY... PRESENTS
in
"At the End of the World"

All the men she had ever known were the guzzling, gambling rabble that drifted through her father's den in Shanghai.
And when she was left the prey of three who loved her—a wandering writer, a sailor and a thief—
Come see the rivals' primitive struggle that ended—how?
Cast includes Milton Sills, Mitchell Lewis, Casson Ferguson and Joseph Kilgour
Based on Adelaide Heilbron's Adaptation of the Noted Play by Ernst Klein
Directed by Penrhyn Stanlaws
NEWS WEEKLY

A melodramatic film sensation of underworld, wreck and glorious regeneration. Suffused with the lure of the sea and the Unknown East.
Another heart-filling Betty Compson triumph like that in George Loane Tucker's "The Miracle Man."
