Major Gilbert is Inspiring Orator and Tells How Folk of World Are Learning.

Cooperation for the progress and development of the community was the uppermost idea at a joint dinner Sales Tax or Some Plan, for the Rotary and Progressive Business Clubs last evening, the Rotaria, s being hosts to the more recently formed organization. The Elks dining room was filled to capacity for the occasion and a general spirit of good fellowship prevailed. J. R. Raiey, G. M. Rice and Major W. S. Gilbert were the chief speakers of the evening, Major Gilbert giving the main address which has been classed as one of the best talks ever given in the city.

the purposes of that organization and ead its code of principles. Mr. Rice held that such an organization carries power that involves responsibilities that must be faced in a serious man-aer and that the combined forces of the two organizations makes for added power and responsibility. He also raised the question of one's obligations to the community and the community's obligations to its citizens.

Major Gilbert spoke of "The Larger Horizon" and on being introduced the members rose and applauded him strongly. The substance of his address was that people the world over are getting out of old ruts and are learning of one another. He told in teresting anecdotes of the world war and of the Spanish war in both which he participated as chaplain. The major is a speaker of unusual force and eloquence and his appear ance added much to the program. During the evening selections were given by the McElroy orchestra and also by the "Inharmonious Quartet" composed of Messrs Dickson. Thompson, Baer and Jerard. Early in the evening each member introduced his neighbor on the right giving his name and business classification. The introductions provided much amusement.
