

ITALIANS MAKE NEW KIND OF AIR SHIPS

LONDON, Feb. 17.—(L. N. S.)—An airship which, it is declared, will revolutionize not only "war in the air" but air transport generally is to be constructed and tested in Italy.

The ship is the invention of Sizer Sizer, who, instead of using a gas-filled container to make his airship, uses a vacuum inside the envelope, which consequently becomes lighter than air.

For hundreds of years experimenters and scientists have been working on these lines, but always when success has seemed near at hand their models have collapsed owing to the enormous pressure of the atmosphere, amounting, with a perfect vacuum, to much as 15 pounds to the square inch, on the outside of the ship.

Signor Vaugan, however, claims to have overcome this difficulty by building his airship, one hull inside another. The space between the outside airship and the first interior hull is partly emptied of air, still more air exhausted from the next space, and in the center compartment of the ship the vacuum is made as perfect as possible.

Pressure is Distributed. By this means the pressure of the outside atmosphere is distributed over the surfaces and is reduced to less than five pounds per square inch on any portion of the ship.

The airship now to be built is to be equipped with four engines, each of three hundred horsepower, of a type invented by Professor Garuffa. These engines, instead of burning gasoline, use heavy oil, thus, with the absence of hydrogen in the ship itself, eliminating to a certain extent the risk of fire.

ENGINEERS BUY COAL MINE; TO OPERATE IT

HUNTINGTON, W. V., Feb. 17.—(L. N. S.)—An enterprise unique in the coal mining industry of West Virginia and Kentucky is revealed in the plans of the Coal River Collieries Company, a $2,000,000 corporation with headquarters in this city. The company is virtually owned by the locomotive engineers throughout the country belonging to the National Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Warren S. Stone, chief of the brotherhood, is chairman of the company's board of directors and William B. Prenter, also an executive of the brotherhood, is vice-president.

The engineers' company has acquired control of 5,334 acres of coal land in Boone County and has recently taken over the Eureka Coal and Mining Company's operations at Prestonsburg, Ky. The company has planned to establish its own retail yards in Cleveland, O., and in several advantageous spots throughout the middle West.

GONE ARE RED FLANNELS OF DAYS OF LONG AGO

By HEDDA HOYT (Written for the United Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(U. P.)—Lingerie of crepe de chene and georgette has completely wiped the Sisterhood of the Red Flannels off the fashion map. For no article in feminine apparel has undergone the rapid change in recent years as has the undergarment. From clumsy, be-ruffled, starched cambrics they have grown more sheer each season until now one could easily hold a week's end supply in the palm of one's hand.

In fact, one Fifth Avenue house which specializes in lingerie has a tiny, patent leather suit case about eight inches long called "Le petit trousseau" which holds a nightgown, undershirt and a combination set for the bride. Imagine a bride of a few years back trying to crowd her nightgown into it! One of the loudest laughs in the Ed Wynne show is occasioned by the appearance of a show girl in a nightgown of a decade ago.

The rise of the crepe de chene and georgette in the making of undergarments has been interesting to watch. How shyly we put aside our white linens and nainsooks as we gently stepped into our first pink crepe de chene! As we have grown bolder, pinks have given way to more vivid colors and what we considered rather venturesome in former days we now cast aside as passe.

Matching underwear to the shades of one's gown is fashion's latest whim and no shade can be too colorful for the lingerie of this season. Hoses of grey fade into bloomers and petticoats of the same tone. For the navy blue costume there are lovely shades of lavender and purples.

The envelope chemise seems to have been discarded for the present and the chemise with bloomers or step-in-drawers is the favorite sort of lingerie for just now. This combination is extremely practical for the chemise can be made long enough to take the place of a petticoat or short enough to be worn with the heavier gowns and suits. And as all gowns are made on straight body-fitting lines, these garments do away with all unnecessary waist bands.

These chemises are all made with the short Empire yokes with straps over the shoulders, the straps being made of the same material as the garment rather than of ribbon. They are made in gold and silver cloths to match the evening gowns as well as in the practical black. For the girl who dances there is one model that is entirely delightful judged from a utility viewpoint. To the Empire bodice are attached ten panels, each one overlapping another, so that when standing a straight petticoat effect is obtained, but one can dance the "riddle" with the assurance that one's petticoat can not rip. The panels can be made in varying colors.

Most of the American made lingerie is made of crepe de chene, georgette or radium silk. From Paris we have the triple voile which closely resembles chiffon, but has body enough to give it wearing qualities. Another important material is printed linen in colors, the printing being placed as a border in a black silhouette design.

Simplicity is the keynote found in all the newest models. There is very little lace except on some of the more expensive bridal outfits, where baby Irish crochet is used as a yoke foundation. Ruffles and tucks are passe. Hemstitching in three closely placed rows is the favorite finishing for edges.

In using georgettes, usually two colors are placed one over the other, giving a two-toned effect. French blue over marjatta gives a charming shade, as does the palest green over rose. Night gowns and negligees of this type are peccot in scalloped at the bottom and the two layers of georgette are joined only at the neck a bit of old Paisley among one's hair and armholes by peccot. One sees georgette finished in a running stitch of wool yarn a shade darker than the georgette. Heavy allover lace is dyed and finished this same way in chenille. Printed voile over plain voile gives a veritable soap bubble effect.

If Madame is ultra smart nowadays she uses the tiny bottles of perfume which come in sets of twelve bottles and perfume her lingerie according to its colors. For a violet robe she uses violet, for the pink or flesh toned garment she has the rose or carnation to choose from and for the two-toned effect she selects cashmere bouquet or scents of oriental mixtures.

MRS. ANNA E. HUGHES, Mrs. Anna E. Hughes, 22 West Elm St., Chicago, an artist who enjoys a wide and enviable reputation for skill in china painting, in relating the facts of her remarkable experience with Tanlac says:

"I haven't enjoyed such good health or felt so well in every way in years as I do now. Before I took Tanlac I was so run down that half an hour at my work would tire me completely out and I was actually so nervous and weak that at times the brush would fall from my hands and I would have to quit work for the rest of the day. Every night I would lie awake for hours, miserable and nervous. "My improvement after the first few doses of Tanlac was rapid and constant. I'm happy to say I'm well and strong now and feel better than in twenty years. Tanlac deserves every word of praise I can give it."

looms, the spring frock can hold no terrors, for some of the choicest of black satin gowns are trimmed solely with Paisley bands.

Straw hats studded with sea shells are worn with sport suits at the ocean resorts by some of the smartly gowned women.

Panel can do as many tricks as the long tailed Marmoset. They are worn as side drapes, trains, looped up to form pockets and in some cases are used as sleeves.

In discarding the winter fur coat for garments of lighter weight, one must not make too sudden a change. It is best to choose a garment that will do duty in the early fall as well as in the first spring months. Long coats of woolen material which closely resembles the steamer blanket are fringed at the bottom and hang in loose abandon like the London top coat. They certainly have a style all their own and the necessary warmth for the crisp spring mornings.

STARTS MUCH SICKNESS

A clogging mass of undigested food that remains fermenting in the stomach or intestines sends the poisons it develops through the entire human body. "Keep the bowels open." is one rule of health recognized by all schools of medicine. Foley Cathartic Tablets cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach and benefit the liver. For indigestion, biliousness, bad breath, bloating, gas or constipation, no remedy is more highly recommended. No griping or nausea.
