MIDDLETON PLEASES

Arthur Middleton, baritone, who appeared in concert Monday evening in Portland, was very well received. The following regarding Mr. Middleton, who will sing here Friday night at the Elwyn under the auspices of the Pendleton Women's Club, is from the Portland Oregonian:

About as perfect as a singer can be and blessed with a fine bass-baritone voice that is skillfully placed and trained and with a distinctness in diction that is a joy and a rest to hear, Arthur Middleton, bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company, New York, appeared in concert Monday night, in the public auditorium, under the auspices of the Elwyn concert bureau. He was cordially received by a friendly audience.

It seemed to the audience that Mr. Middleton never sang better in this city. There were the same graceful style of singing, the big, noble voice and the strong masculine style in phrasing. Imagine then the surprise of Mr. Middleton's listeners when in concluding the second last group of songs on his programme he said he would gladly sing extra songs as requested. If he were not then suffering from laryngitis, the audience would not have been aware of this vocal trouble. Mr. Middleton had not mentioned it—so splendid was his singing.

Oratorio gems were chosen by Mr. Middleton to begin his programme, the loved recitative and aria leading into "Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves" (Handel). This number was sung with a reverence and suppressed awesome feeling that struck home. The pure legato of "Where'er You Walk" was so cool, so refreshing that it will live in remembrance. "Three Fishers Went Sailing" (Hullah) had the note of impending tragedy sharply and powerfully accentuated and the message gripped.

One of the greatest songs in all the world and known practically to all singers and students, "L'aul dal car bene" (Rechi) was grandly sung and headed Mr. Middleton's Italian group of songs. His extra song in reply to calls for an encore was "Ma Little Baulo," written by Dichmont of Vancouver, B. C. It was delicately and finely rendered.

Breitenstrater was injured during the war on the Isle of Man and it was during his imprisonment that he took up boxing. After his release he went to Berlin and in his first public appearance knocked out Harold Holph, who was considered as pretty good by the Germans. Later he did not fare so well, however, as he was knocked out by Tom Cowler and Harry Drake.

RAILWAY WORKERS ASK ONLY FOR MORAL HELP

WILDE WOULD LIKE TO MEET BUFF BEFORE HE QUILTS BATTLING GAME

England's Little Scrapper Not Yet Ready to Get Away From Ring Career, He Says.

BY JACK McAULIFFE
(Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion.)
(Written for the United Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Jimmy Wilde, England's only pugilistic consolation, is not yet ready to retire.

The little world's flyweight champion told me the other day that reports of his plans to get away from the ring were not true. He would like to retire as the undefeated champion, but he figures that his ring days will not be over for several years.

Wilde really wanted to meet Johnny Buff for the bantamweight champion and he was seriously disappointed when the little American suddenly tired of European atmosphere and grabbed a boat for home.

Joe Beckett, the champion knock-out champion of the world, still has a following over here. It does not make a bit with British fans to refer to him as the "Count of Tens." Of course, the real fight fans do not regard him as a ranking world's heavyweight, but he is still the champion of England.

Beckett has been dug up to meet George Cook, who was the last victim of Carpentier's right. The two have been matched to meet on March 27 in the Holland Park rink. A. F. Bettinson is promoting the match. He is also dickering for a match later between Roy McCormick and Jack Bloomer, for the Lonsdale light heavyweight belt. Although Kid Lewis stopped McCormick sometime ago, it seems that official weights weren't made and McCormick still holds the title. A tentative date has been set for early April.

Hans Breitenstrater, heavyweight champion of Germany, is feeling out London promoters for a bout with one of the leading English battlers. If any of the promoters feel that the fans

Run Down?

Kidney and bladder troubles are not limited to men. Housework, or work in office or factory, causes women to suffer from weak, overworked or diseased kidneys. The symptoms are—puffiness under the eyes, sallow skin, constant tired feeling, lack of ambition, nervous condition, headache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff joints.

Foley Kidney Pills

get right at the cause of suffering and misery, regulate the kidneys and bladder and restore the diseased organs to sound and healthy condition.

Mrs. Wm. Fischer, 209 Woodbourne Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes: "I am just getting along fine. I am taking Foley Kidney Pills every other night. You should have seen me before I started. I was as white as gold, now my eyes and skin are all cleared up. My kidneys do not bother me at night any more. It will help some other poor soul who is suffering the same 'run-down' time wherever your medicine is advertised."
