A Sunday visitor here was C. R. Lisle of Echo.

Sam Willy was here from his home at Stanfield Sunday.

C. L. Kitchey of Stella Waila was a visitor in Pendleton today.

H. A. Street of Westport Mountain was a business visitor in Pendleton Saturday.

T. S. Gibson, who runs sheep on East Birch creek was a visitor in Pendleton Saturday.

H. E. Bickers has recovered from an illness which lasted several days and is able to be in his office again.

Charles Gerking has returned to Pendleton after a trip to Bend. He accompanied his father home. The senior Mr. Gerking has been a visitor in Pendleton for some time.

J. A. Funk is a wool buyer for Hollowell, Jones, and Donald, a Boston wool firm. He was in Pendleton today on wool business and expects to make Pendleton his headquarters throughout the heavy buying months. During the past 10 days the demand for wool has been on the dull order, Mr. Funk says.

THE CHURCH AS IT OUGHT TO BE' TOPIC

(Synopsis of Sunday morning sermon by W. A. Gressman, at the First Christian church, the subject being "The Church as It Ought to Be.")

Every nation that has fallen has done so by three steps—godlessness, moral corruption and loss of patriotism. These very things the message of the church tends to develop. Godness, moral character and patriotism. The worst critics of the church are those who knew least about its teachings, aims and work it is doing.

What the church ought to be is what it can be. It ought to be ideal in its worship. "All that is in heaven is indicated in the church." "We are all here, in the sight of God, to hear all things of God." Here is the local attendance—"all here"—in body thought and devotion. Also, true reverence—"in the sight of God." And finally, consecrated purpose—"to hear all things of God." Thus we have the intellect, heart and will united in worship.

The church ought to be ideal in its character. This is stated by Paul in Eph. 5:27—"a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish." The world is objecting not to Christian teaching, but to the way many professing Christians live. The church, when ideal in character, will be a united church. Christ must be exalted above human creeds and forms of worship. The time has passed for the preaching of the glories of denominationalism. The church will be one in unity of spirit, unity of doctrine and unity of life as soon as all church members are willing and ready to place all love and authority in Christ, as set forth in the Scriptures.

Then, too, the church should be ideal in its service. The church of today faces the greatest problem in its history. In the first century, it began a new work, and its ideals far overshadowed everything about it, so it grew with leaps and bounds. In the Reformation, it was restored to purer life. Now, it must re-establish confidence in its mission in that its character and mission are of God. The great body of organized labor thinks that the church is its enemy. This is not true, except in exceptional cases.

Almost the entire membership of all local churches, for example, is made up of laboring people. And wherever a church may be found that looks down on the man of toil, that church ought to be spurned. In America, 45,000,000 persons above childhood are not Christians. This, too, presents a problem which challenges the church to aid in Christian Americanization.

ATLANTIC FLEET PLANS BIG ATHLETIC MEET

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba, Feb. 27.—(A. P.)—A lively program of athletics for the benefit of the crews of the United States Atlantic Fleet, now in Cuban waters on its annual cruise, has been arranged by Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Hilguy P. Jones.

The event will include not only the usual competitions such as rowing races and those between sailing boat crews but also a schedule of baseball games for the fleet championship. The Guantanamo naval station is especially well equipped with baseball fields and there is ample opportunity for both practice and competition. All the teams already are putting in most of their spare time after working hours at practice and the crew of the Delaware has rigged up a miniature diamond on the deck of the battleship surrounding it with netting.

For the purpose of elimination games the fleet has been divided into five sections. Winners in each of these divisions will, if practicable, play a series of two or more games with the remaining four teams and the championship will be decided on percentage.

As the fleet of gift of the Atlantic Fleet championship pennant restricts the holding of this trophy to battleships, additional baseball trophies have been provided for the destroyer and mine squadrons and the vessels of the train. These trophies are now held by the destroyer Graham, the cruiser Olympia and the Shawmut, of the mine force.

In addition to the baseball pennant, the Athletic Challenge Trophy, the Aueland Cup and the correspondents

Cup will be awarded to the champion battleship teams and the crews.

Championship belts are also offered in boxing and wrestling. Now belts will be offered in cases where the holders of the championship in their respective classes have either left the fleet or have been discharged from the service.

Medals will be given to winners of swimming races. A race for the Danlay Cup, now held by the Delaware will take place here.

The preliminary games and contests already are being attended by thousands of vigorous spectators but all these spectators and enthusiasts are officers and men of the Atlantic Fleet.

Heart Wood Best for Posts
Fence posts made of the heart wood of mountain cedar will last from 25 to 30 years, as compared with 6 to 7 years for those made of sap wood. Heavy posts having a circumference of 2 1/2 inches are the most economical to buy. Red juniper posts, split, will last much better than the same sized round ones. Nothing but a good post should pay in a permanent fence.—O. A. C. Experiment station.

GREEN HATS FOR NEW IRISH FREE STATE ARMY

By CHAS. McCANN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
DUBLIN, Feb. 27.—(U. P.)—A half dozen young men in unpressed, civilian clothes and leather leggings—some even wearing derby hats—patroling the sidewalk before the city hall, rifle on shoulder, mark the death and birth respectively of the era of war and peace in Ireland.

They are the "murder gangsters," the "assassins" and "ruffians" who won for Ireland the recently signed treaty of peace—the city hall guard of the Dublin brigade, Irish republican army.

They are also part of the nucleus from which will be recruited the new Free State of from 20,000 to 30,000 men that Ireland will equip under the treaty.

Like their leaders, they are rather disappointing to anyone who has read about them and their exploits. They are very much like the ordinary American, big or small town youth, except that they don't have their clothes pressed or their hair cut so often.

Within a few weeks, Minister of Defense Mulcahy plans to have enough uniforms for all the R. A. men on active service. They will be identical with the few uniforms now in existence—hats of the same pattern as those of the British and American armies for enlisted men and of the British army for officers. All will wear leather leggings and felt hats, similar in pattern to the campaign hats in the American army, but green in color and with one side turned up and fastened with a great—now that of the republic; later probably that of the Free State.

The army probably will be equipped with British service rifles and pistols, with which most of the men are more or less familiar.

BUICK AGENCIES HELP RECOVER STOLEN CARS

BUICK owners receive just as much thought after they have purchased their cars as they did prior to joining the large Buick family, when they were in the market figuring upon buying an automobile.

In addition to the many advantages which are offered the Buick owners by the local agencies, such as up-to-date service buildings, parts departments, etc. there is now conducted by the Buick Motor Company, Flint, Mich., a special bureau for the handling of all theft cases.

Through the inauguration of this system practically all stolen Buicks are quickly recovered. With the aid of the field representatives, the police departments and federal authorities are able to place these stolen cars back in the hands of their rightful owners.

The owner should immediately report the theft of his Buick car to the nearest Buick agency, which in turn sends word to the theft bureau of the Buick Motor company, Flint, Mich. and then the wheels of the great service machinery are set in motion to trace the stolen car.

With the most expert detectives on the job, in conjunction with the bulletins which are sent to every distributing agency, the police and federal authorities, the country is thoroughly covered and a net is woven around the avenues through which the thieves endeavor to dispose of their stolen cars.

With the aid of the field representatives, the regular authorities are in a position to secure valuable information regarding the cars for which they are searching, and according to the advice just received from the factory, many stolen cars have been traced and returned to the original owners, and the department can be materially aided by the owners who lose their cars through the prompt reporting of the theft, giving the description of the car, license number, motor and frame number.

YOUNGEST MINISTER HAS DELICATE JOB

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 27.—The direction of the foreign policy of Chile, and at present the handling of the communication with Peru, which may result in terminating the forty-year-old Tacna-Arica controversy, is under the guidance of the youngest foreign minister in Chile's history.

Ernesto Barros Jarpa, the present head of the foreign office, is only twenty-eight years of age. He has held his post for six months. He was the only member of the preceding ministry to continue at his post when the new Tocornal cabinet was formed two months ago.

The youthful chancellor rose from the ranks of journalism to his present high position. He was appointed under-secretary of foreign affairs when President Alessandria took office a year ago, and was later elevated to the head of the department when Alessandria's first cabinet fell.

The honor of having been the youngest cabinet minister Chile has ever had falls to President Alessandria himself. He was minister of public works when only twenty-three.

Many of the under-secretaries are in their twenties and early thirties. Under Secretary Cruzado, of the ministry of foreign affairs is no more than thirty, the under-secretary of justice is thirty, the under-secretary of war is in his twenties.

The selection of young men to fill these high governmental positions is a feature of the policy of President Alessandria. "It's justification is the popular approval which it has encountered.

So far, however, the ministry of the interior—ex-officio head of the cabinet—continues to be entrusted to one of age and experience. Don Ismael has grown grizzled in the political service of his country, and his ability to keep located the various warring party factions motivated the president in seeking him to form the cabinet recently when it appeared that the government coalition was on the verge of breaking up.
