CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

"THE CHILD'S FIRST SCHOOL IS THE FAMILY"—Froebel.
 Issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 3 West 40th Street, New York City. These articles are appearing weekly in our columns.

THE WIND
 By Alice Winuate Frary
 The wind's activities hold the small child's attention,—the clouds, the flying flag, windmills and pinwheels, clothes swaying on the line, the blowing of children's hair and the tails of the fowls, the swaying trees and grass, while the weathervane.
 There are a number of verses easily memorized which will make the wind seem a friendly element: "That Weathervane" by Laura E. Richards, "I Say You Toss the Kites on High" by Stevenson, and Christina Rossetti's "Who has seen the wind?"
 Neither you nor I,
 But when the trees bow down their heads
 The wind is passing by."
 As the child makes these verses his own, listens to stories such as "Jan" (in Mother Stories by Maud Lindsay), and "Aeolus and the Bag of Winds" and learns what the different winds bring, he is being awakened to a finer appreciation of a force that can be so gentle and yet so mighty.
 Was there ever a child that did not ask, "Where does the wind come from?" It is part of the high office of parenthood to deepen a child's inherent sense of reverence before the elements, to prevent if possible its deterioration into empty wonder or morbid fear. It is well to cultivate the feeling of awe, teaching the careless child that the piling up of thunder clouds and the bowling of wind-swept trees are to be appreciated, by this same appreciation leading the timid one out of his fear.
 The wind signifies the spirit. No mother who desires a well-rounded development for her child will fail to recognize his need of inner strength, his misconceptions that need straightening. While the kingdom of heaven is the inheritance of child-like hearts, children have need of guidance, and they guide us, too, when we are clear-sighted enough to respond, but our emphasis upon values which are unseen helps to raise our children's standards. Froebel's Mother Play of the Weathervane brings to the child its tale of the wind's work and play; to the mother it brings a reminder of the inner forces that must be strengthened, the inner light that may illumine puzzling situations. Two books which are helpful in this respect are "The Notebook of an Adopted Mother" by Eleanor Davis (E. F. Dutton Company, New York) and "The Spiritual Care of a Child" by Anna Robertson Lindsay (T. Y. Crowell Company, New York) the latter with its vigorous reassurance of a truth all too easily ignored.

 "Only God can bring up a child. Nothing will bridge the abyss of the actual and the ideal except faith, hope, love, work, and the immediate help of Divinity."

SCHOOLS

LINCOLN SCHOOL

First Grade
 Mrs. Graves, primary teacher of Hermiton, was among the visitors in room one on Friday afternoon. Wilbur Campbell's new item is the arrival of a little sister who "has no age and no manners, but makes work for the whole family."
 Orval McCormach has re-entered school after two weeks of illness. Harold Seearcey is still unable to be in his class.
 In the bean board number game the score is a tie for boys and girls.
 George Schuyler, Charles Kirby, Eric Stringer and Marguerite Murphy have the best writing record.
 Daily physical examination is bringing satisfactory results.

Second Grade
 The second grade succeeded in winning the Parent-Teachers pennant last Friday. The pennant has been in the possession of the fourth grade and as that class is a bunch of wide-awake hustlers, the second grade found it to be no small job to take the pennant from them.
 The second A class has completed all work assigned for the month in reading and in addition has read a supplementary reader. The second B class has completed two readers since entering the second grade. They are now reading Merrill Second Reader and are quite delighted with the stories.
 Elizabeth Corrmann has been the champion speller in the Second A class this week.

Third Grade
 In the third A class Gordon Kirby won in the Arithmetic match and Glen Snyder in spelling and good language matches.
 In the third B class Emil Geist won in Arithmetic; Lowell Gault in spelling and Sue Winters in good language.
 Alice Inlow has the greatest number of better health gold stars in the A class and Wilma Peterson in the B class.
 Jack Stangier has come back to the third A division after having spent several months in Saltford.
 Pussy willows and robins are a true sign of spring and our room is decorated with drawings of them.

Fourth Grade
 The fourth grade's grieving for the loss of the Parent Teachers' Pennant, the second grade having triumphantly carried it away.
 The attendance is now back to normal, only two pupils now being absent. Nadine Griswold leads in the Curtis practice work, with Grace Hale a close second.
Fifth Grade
 Helen Rugg, having visited in Washington, D. C., gave an interesting talk about the Washington monument. She showed pictures and answered the questions asked about them.
 Lloyd Caldwell has moved to Eugene.
 Lee Hutchinson went to the country last week where he will attend school. The fifth grade base team won the game Wednesday evening.

Sixth Grade
 In Arithmetic the Sixth grade has gone into the insurance business. They have insured everything they own against fire, water, theft and careless loss.
 The assessor is ready to make his rounds. Clell Rae being elected to fill that important position. They are finding that the insurance and taxes together come from five to ten cents.
 The posters are nearly finished and have received a great deal of praise. They show careful and patient work.

Seventh Grade

Eighth Grade

Mrs. Jennie Kearns is now teaching history, civics, spelling and writing in the eighth grade, each afternoon. This arrangement gives Miss Della Rush, principal of the building, an opportunity to supervise the work in the other grades.
 The eighth grade has completed all the work assigned in history this month. Review is being carried on by each pupil reporting upon some special topic. Much research work is being done.
 On Monday morning an excellent program was given at the meeting of the eighth grade student body. Mildred Eberle, Gladys Snyder, Rosemary Whiteman, and Marguerite Jack in costume, gave several vocal numbers which were greatly appreciated.
 Robert Robbins then gave a splendid talk upon "The Irrigation Project at Hermiton."
 We all are sure that spring has come as our competent janitor, D. P. Hicks, has started washing windows.

NEW AIR LIGHTHOUSE
 PARIS, March 4.—(U. P.)—It has been decided to erect on Mount Arfrique, near Dijon, the most powerful air-lighthouse in the world, which will be visible to night-flying airplanes as far as 250 miles. The new air-lighthouse will have the enormous candlepower of one billion—more than ten times as powerful as the great Navesink light at the entrance of New York bay with its 60,000,000 candle-power. In ordinary weather conditions the range of the light will be from one hundred to two hundred miles, but in clear weather at great heights the range will reach two hundred and fifty miles.

Purses and bags mean much in the making of Milady Lovely! And quite the most fascinating thing in the way of a dress purse is the more envelope case, slim and trim. Bead bags of the drawing type are good and then there are the clever, little fabric bags for evening shopping.
