U. S. Bonds Are Feature of Market.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(A. P.)—United States war flotations, as represented by liberty and victory issues, were the outstanding features of yesterday's bond market. Dealings were extensive and nearly all of the two series closed at gains.

French government 7 1-2s, and 8s again gave way to realizing sales and French municipals seemed to be affected for the same reason.

In the domestic list, most of the day's higher prices were made by speculative bids, including Erie, St. Louis & San Francisco, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Chicago & Alton and New Haven, the latter rising on the strength of the stock.

Sales, par value, approximated $18,021,000.

Aside from a score of favorite issues, in which bullish activities were again a striking feature, trading on the stock exchange was uncertain and obviously professional and transactions fell below the million share mark.

Prices were most uneven in the final hour, when the rate for call loans, gradually rose to 4 1-2 per cent, as against the initial quotations of 2 1-2.

Stocks such as Bethlehem Steel and Public Service of New Jersey owed their consistent strength to good financial statements. These favorable incidents were offset to a degree by adverse labor developments in the textile and leather industries and the call suspending work in the coal mines on April 1.

Movements of seasoned or representative rails, steels and equipments were unusually narrow. Motors as a group were firm to strong, but oils and affiliated issues showed no very definite tone.

Sales amounted to 900,000 shares. Dealings in the foreign exchange market were unusually light, being made up largely of British, French and Dutch bills. Sterling rose slightly over yesterday's highest rate. All continental remittances were moderately better.

D. A. R. GETS GIFTS.

TACOMA, Wash., March 21.—(A. P.)—The National Museum of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D. C., will soon be enriched by a number of gifts from the D. A. R. women of Washington state. Mrs. William Sherman Walker of Seattle, state regent, announced the gifts at the recent state convention here and said she would present them at the national convention in April.

Included in the offerings is a book containing priceless autographs of famous men associated with the Revolutionary war. One of these autographs is of King Louis XVI of France, written December 8, 1779, during the American revolution and a decade before the French revolution, in which he lost his head. Other personal signatures are of King George III of England, General Lafayette, Mirabeau, Feydreaux de Marville, Moreau de Beaumont, and several American officers in the Continental army.

Another gift will be a well preserved copy of the Geneva Bible, printed in 1610. This Bible was translated by John Wycliff in 1400, and is often called the "Breeches Bible," because the third chapter and seventh verse of Genesis reads that Adam and Eve gathered fig leaves and made "breeches" to cover themselves. Other translations refer to the garments as aprons.

We're all confused. Will it be proper to call the lady jurors veniremen?

The young lady next door says she's much interested in the Portland grand opera season. "Especially in Mary Garden," she confides. "She makes such good face powder."

One of the saddest cases we've seen is that of a man who has a comb in his hair frob sitting on the porch reading spring poetry.

Incurable

"Let me kiss those tears away, sweetheart," he begged tenderly. She fell into his arms and he was very busy for a few minutes. Still the tears flowed on.

"Can nothing stop them?" he asked breathlessly.

"No," she murmured. "It's hay fever, but go on with the treatment."

A wonderful singer was Mamie McGee. She never was known to get off the key. She never was known to get off—aw, gwan!

How could she get off when she never got on?

THE FIREFIGHTER

Going at top-speed thru crowded streets, then into smoke, fire, collapsing roofs, explosions, high voltage wires and gas, none of that stops the wiry looking fireman, he goes to it with remarkable confidence. His big human hand drives him through scorching fire, past tumbling walls to save who ever may be in danger.

We, average persons, living in safety, well-housed and well-fed, will do well to heed these brave men, and then refrain from complaining, finding fault and letting trifles worry us. Why not try to be human, neighborly and keep a savings-account accumulating, for it will make the load seem lighter and the world seem rosier.

This bank starts savings accounts for people every day.
