AMERICAN WOMEN ARE CARELESS.
Women are too apt to overestimate their strength and overtax it. When feeling well they take unnecessary chances, which in the long run cause much pain and trouble. Wet feet, exposure to cold, lifting heavy burdens and overwork will often develop troubles which cause no end of suffering. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to this fact who have regained health and strength by its use. If you are suffering it will pay you to give it a fair trial.

This is the home in Athena that Dr. Watts wishes to sell or exchange for Pendleton residence.

HOME DEMONSTRATION IDEAS FOR HOUSEWIVES

- Children enjoy eating the same kinds of food over and over again. They do not require as much variety in diet as adults do. If the results of carefully feeding children were apparent at once mothers would be more careful. Unfortunately the evidence of poor nutrition are concealed for some time, often under an excessive layer of fat.
- Keeping hunger satisfied should not be a mother's aim, but rather to provide suitable growth material for healthy little bodies.—V. D.

U. S. WILL REDUCE ITS HOUSE SHORTAGE IN '32

All signs point to 1932 as a big year for home builders, according to the Department of Commerce. The department's division of building and housing has studied reports of contracts awarded, analyzed figures on building permits and consulted with builders and real estate men from scores of cities, and concludes that before the year is out the United States will have begun to reduce its housing shortage of about one million homes.

Some very simple figures tell the story. In 27 northeastern states, in which over two-thirds of our people live, the F. W. Dodge Co. reports that contracts for 75 million dollars worth of residential construction were awarded in February. The figure was the same for January, while December showed a total of 101 million dollars. These figures compare with a monthly average for the year 1919 of 71 million dollars and for 1921 of 73 million dollars. The showing is very remarkable, as normally December, January, and February are the three lowest months of the year, and it is especially encouraging since the later summer and fall months showed an unusually large number of building projects started, to be carried along during the winter season. Everything points, therefore, to an active spring building season.

The situation varies greatly between different cities, of course, a few even having a surplus of homes, but a number of places apparently will build to the limit of their capacity. In view of general business conditions it does not seem likely that there will be any great general increase in building material prices or building trade wages. In fact, the steady activity during the fall and winter months indicates that the demand for new construction is of a steady, healthy nature, that would probably slacken in case of any marked advances.

Movements in the building industry during the next few months are expected to be rather steady.

Measured in floor space, the average contracts awarded during the past three months stand well above the 1921 average and very close to the high year of 1919. With such a start the year 1922 could easily rank ahead of any year since the beginning of the War.

Residential buildings have accounted for 47 per cent, or nearly half of all new construction during the past three months, whereas during the years 1919 to 1921 residential construction was only 31 per cent, or less than one-third of the total. Home-builders are having first call on the resources of the construction industry.

Must Eliminate "Pork Barrel" Says Redfield

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(U. P.)—President Harding and Budget Director Dawes are on the wrong trail in their hunt for governmental economy, William E. Redfield, secretary of commerce under Woodrow Wilson, believes. Harding and Dawes, "irritably or otherwise" are raising false hopes among the people, he said.

"They are hunting at the wrong end of Pennsylvania Avenue," Redfield said. "In the halls of congress is where the solution can be found—not in the departments. I have a great admiration for Mr. Dawes, but he is barking up the wrong tree—the littler tree. And he is helpless to do otherwise."

Only limited temporary economies, which in the end cost the people more, can be achieved by trimming departmental budgets, he said.

"There are certain fixed charges which the departments must meet if they are to function as the people and congress demand," he said. "These charges can be cut very little. On the other hand, congress dips into the 'pork barrel' for hundreds of millions of dollars for projects of all sorts to appease the demands of their constituents. That is where governmental extravagance is being practiced. And that it where it must be stopped if economy is to be effected and taxes reduced."

"First of all the people, represented by the chambers of commerce and other bodies, must stop their pressure upon congress for new buildings, new roads, new river improvements and the thousands of other demands that constitute a drain on the national treasury. Congressmen must subordinate selfish interests to national service by turning their backs on appropriation demands."

"We will have economy and lower taxes when the people and congress keep their hands out of the 'pork barrel.'"
