100 CITIZENS WANTED FOR TRAINING CAMPS

PORTLAND, Ore., April 17.—The summer camps for citizens of Oregon and Washington will be organized under the direction of the Chief of Staff, 96th Division, Headquarters, 325 New Post Office Building, Portland, Oregon.

The camps will be located at Camp Lewis, Washington, and at Fort Worden, Puget Sound, Washington.

Camp Lewis will require about 960 students and Fort Worden about 40.

At Camp Lewis, Red, White and Blue courses will be given for infantry, cavalry, field artillery, air service, engineers and signal corps, the camps opening July 27th and closing August 25, 1922.

At Fort Worden, White and Blue courses for coast artillery corps, instruction will be given from July 27th to August 25th, 1922.

Citizens' military training camps are conducted by the war department under the National Defense Act. The object of these camps is to bring together young men of high type from all sections of the country on a common basis of equality under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life; to stimulate and promote citizenship, patriotism and Americanism; and, through expert physical instruction, athletic coaching and military training, to benefit the young men individually.

The practical military training given at the citizens' military training camps will consist of a series of three courses, known as the Red course, the White course and the Blue course.

The Red course provides basic training limited to the simple fundamentals. In the infantry Red course are included the mechanism of close and extended order drills, ceremonies, preliminary instruction for target practice, rifle practice on the target range, musketry and fire problems. The programs of the Red course for the cavalry, field artillery, air service, engineers and signal corps will be confined in general to basic disciplinary and practical training of the same elemental character as prescribed for the infantry Red course, physical development, personal hygiene, care of equipment, discipline and morale will also be stressed. Age limits for the Red course are seventeen to twenty-five years.

The White course is intended to qualify students to become noncommissioned officers of the organized reserves. Students for this course will ordinarily be selected from enlistees of the National Guard, organized reserves or qualified civilians who have had prior military service equivalent to the Red course. Students will be instructed partly by actual performance of the duties of noncommissioned officers, and partly in schools of application established at the camps. Age limits for the White course are eighteen to twenty-six years. However, no student who successfully completed the Red course in 1921 will be barred from White course in 1922 on account of age.

The Blue course provides more advanced training for warrant officers and selected noncommissioned officers of the regular army, National Guard and organized reserves, and for qualified civilians, with a view to their appointment as officers in the organized reserves. This course includes specialized instruction in the duties of a junior officer in the branch of service, selected by the candidate and for which he is considered qualified by reason of previous experience and education. All candidates for this course must have completed the training prescribed for the Red course and the White course or the equivalent thereof. Age limits are nineteen to twenty-seven years.

Mrs. Mary A. Spencer of Watertown, N. Y., aged 75, who declares she gained fifteen pounds on Tanlac and feels just fine all the time. Was in badly run-down condition.

"Just think of it, at seventy-five years of age to be made well and strong again and gain twelve pounds in weight, but this is exactly what I did after taking Tanlac. Not only that, I feel years younger," said Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, East St., life-long resident of Watertown, N. Y.

"For over a year I was in a terribly run-down condition and I was so nervous and restless that many a night I would hear the clock strike every hour. I was able to eat very little and lost strength right along, finally becoming so weak I could hardly walk from one room to the other."

"On account of my age," thought my declining health was natural, but Tanlac has proved that I was mistaken. I can do all my own housework now, I sleep all night long, wake up in the morning feeling refreshed and just feel fine all the day long. Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompsons Drug Store and by leading druggists.

Applicants who have had prior military training in any of the three components of the Army of the United States, especially veterans of the World War, may be accepted for any of the three courses if not over thirty-five years of age.

Physically fit male citizens between the ages indicated for the various courses are eligible to attend these camps, provided they are of average intelligence and good moral character. No particular educational qualifications are required, except that applicants for the White course must have a grammar school education or its equivalent, and applicants for the Blue course must have a high school education or its equivalent.

Automobile licenses issued by Clarke county this year number 4315, about 1900 under the total number issued last year.
