SINNOTT ADMITS FAULTS IN LEASING RESOLUTION; SAYS HE ACTED ON WISH OF SEC. FALL

Congressman Sinnott, in a statement given out at Washington and published in the Oregon Journal yesterday admits his land leasing resolution is faulty and should be changed. He says he introduced the measure at the request of Secretary Fall of the interior department. He makes no explanation however as to why his resolution calls for irrevocable leases or why it calls for handling the unreserved lands through the land office politicians instead of by the forestry service, these being the two chief points on which the resolution is criticized. In his statement Sinnott said: "I introduced the bill as a tentative bill in the house in July, 1921, at the request of Secretary Fall. Senator Smoot, chairman of the public lands committee of the senate, introduced it there. It is the custom for chairman of committees to introduce tentative bills on the request of cabinet officers. The bill has been sleeping quietly in the committee files since its introduction without any consideration, action or hearings thereon.

"The bill covers non-timbered public lands outside of the national forests which are fit only for grazing and now under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the interior. It provides for grazing areas, taking into consideration existing grazing use now being made by citizens of the United States. "Secretary Fall requested introduction of this bill, which the secretary termed a tentative measure, because as he wrote, a great many bills have been introduced to add such non-timbered public lands to national forests under the jurisdiction of the secretary of agriculture in order to secure regulated grazing. Secretary Fall wrote that the laws authorizing the creation and maintenance of national forests do not contemplate the inclusion in national forests of lands valuable only for grazing, but he thought some general policy for handling and use of non-timbered public lands suitable for reclamation, farming or homesteading was advisable along the lines of the present regulated grazing within national forests.

"I introduced the bill as requested but suggested to Secretary Fall that if enacted into law at all the bill should be amended in many particulars. Among others, that it should give farmers, stockmen and homesteaders a preference right to the public lands surrounding their holdings; that provisions should be made for homesteading that no charge should be made for grazing by farmers and homesteaders for their farm animals and a limited amount of stock.

"I gave the bill when introduced to the Portland press, together with Secretary Fall's letter so that its provisions might be made known. "It was given wide publicity in the newspapers in Oregon. I invited criticism, suggestion and amendments and wrote a number of letters to constituents, giving them Secretary Fall's views and saying that I would not ask for consideration or hearing on the bill until I could get home and consult with stockmen, farmers and others interested. "The bill has been approved by the Cattle and Horse Raisers' association of Oregon by resolution adopted January 7, 1922."

The picture also shows Cook of Union, second; Stonebreaker of Pendleton, third; and Sandborg of La Grande, fourth. Snyder will be given a medal for winning first in the 100 yard dash as a result of the picture. FRENCH WILL NOT ATTEND POLITICAL MEET AT HAGUE

United States is Ready to Put Views to Test by Joining Investigation Body.

NEW NOTE PLANNED BY ALLIES TO UNITED STATES

Soviet Must Give Guarantees or All Negotiations Are Futile is U. S. View.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(U. P.)—The administration stood up today on its determination not to recognize the Russian Soviet. Allied dealings with the Russians at Genoa and attempts to force recognition on congress failed to change the American attitude. This was indicated today when Fucher's note regarding the invitation to the Hague conference went forward today, containing a statement that America desires no negotiations with Soviet, until the fundamental Russian reforms are instituted. The United States, however, is ready to put its views to test by joining the allied commission to investigate what is wrong with Russia and what remedies exist. It is expected that such a commission would find that the basis for economic reconstruction of Russia and the resumption of international relations lies only in soviet guarantees of safety of life and property and sanctity of contracts and rights of free labor. Until the Soviet clearly gives these guarantees, Russian negotiations are futile.

NEW NOTE PLANNED

GENOA, May 16.—(U. P.)—American refusal to approve the Hague conference may cause the proposed conference to be called off. The allies are planning a new note to Washington.

FRENCH MAY ATTEND

PARIS, May 16.—(U. P.)—The French cabinet today decided to refuse to send delegates to the Hague to consider the Russian question. If the proposed conference is at all political, if strictly to economic questions, the French will attend, however.

HOAT IS TROUBLESONE

Cows put on clover pasture now should be well filled with hay first in order to avert bloat. They should never be put in while the clover is wet. In case bloat does occur stand the cow with her head up hill and get her to chew something in order to induce belching. A trocar for letting out the gas is sometimes necessary in alfalfa districts where bloat is more or less common.—O. A. C. Experiment station.
