Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

THE GALENA

Last night we heard a lady sing a glorious lullaby,
A simple little song of faith which drifted through the sky,
The music of a violin, the voice of a choir,
The coding of a merchantman expressing his desires;
The air was filled with wondrous things of hope and joy and fear,
And these when we were once in tune come down for us to hear.

Now there's a very little piece of metal shining bright,
Which is the radio's soul, I think, for if it's touched just right
The air gives up its harmonies—but nothing will it give
Unless you reach the very spot where it is sensitive.

Men call it the galena, and the school boys, very wise,
Will tell you in its tender spot the radio's secret lies.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

THERE are times when one is moved to protest that the Spokane police are overofficial, as, for instance, when they resuscitated that automobile driver who, while in the 33d degree of intoxication, drove his car over the curbing into a citizen's garden, uprooted a tree in collision, became entangled in the clothesline and when the officers arrived was nearly dead from strangulation.

There are several hundred different varieties of fools, but fortunately most of them are harmless. Among the dangerous and deadly fools must be listed those men who drive an automobile on the streets and highways when in a visible state of intoxication. They not only endanger their own lives—a peril that could be contemplated complacently—but they put in jeopardy the lives of helpless women and children.

In every instance where the guilt is established the authorities should summarily deprive the offender of the right to drive a motor vehicle.

There should be no intermediate shuffling of white, blue and yellow cards.

Men who have no more regard for the public right and safety than to attempt to drive a high-powered engine of destruction like the automobile when their faculties are befuddled by alcohol are entitled to no leniency or patience.

The law gives the proper authorities full discretion in dealing with the evil. It provides:

"It shall be unlawful . . . for any person holding a license issued under the provisions of this act to drive or operate any motor vehicle while intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic drug or while mentally or physically disabled; any person violating the provisions of this section shall, in addition to the other penalties provided by law, forfeit his license."—Spokesman-Review.

Millionaire's Son Must Make Clean Breast

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 25.—(U. P.)—Walter Ward, son of a millionaire banker, must "come clean" to save himself from a trial on the charge of killing Clarence Peters, an important ex-mayor, whose body the police found in a country lane near here. The following discrepancies are found in Ward's story: Peters' body was found fully clothed, but with coat and vest showing no bullet holes which the police found in the shirt, no revolver was found nor was an empty shell found near the scene of the shooting; no signs of a struggle and there were tracks of but one automobile in the vicinity, although Ward's story told of a car containing black-mailers which followed him; no people in the vicinity heard a shot; no broken glass was found in the vicinity, although Ward told of a window in his coupe being shattered by bullets. Considerable sympathy is expressed for Ward throughout West Chester county, where the youth was popular, but there is universal demand that he make a clean breast of the story.

Two Cubs With Barnes Circus

Every kiddie loves baby animals, and here we have two baby bears, little baby arizates and they are having their dinner out of a pail that is filled with bread and milk. They are called Nip and Tuck and have no worries except when they are put to bed and then there is a nighty night for Nip and Tuck love the people and want to play with all the little boys and girls who come to the circus. So next Sunday when the two big circus trains come to Pendleton you will see Nip and Tuck and Monday at the performance of A. S. Barnes Circus you will have a chance to play with these two and many other little babies with the Barnes Circus.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Many a man who thinks he was a fool when he married hasn't changed. These old stock smelters would better let wells enough alone.

Every day the miter strike continues we predict a harder winter.

When a man says he can't do a thing that proves it.

The more crops come up, the more prices go down.

June brides think a hitch in time is fine.

All the world's a stage; but it isn't a sicut drama.

Many a man who gets like a big gun can't loaded.

It costs more to live now, but it's worth more.

After a girl gets made up you can't tell her a thing is as plain as the nose or her face.

Germany and Russia think two debts are better than one.

Woman's place may be in the home; but it doesn't hurt her to get out of place occasionally.

They say tobacco smoke kills germs, and there are germs in kisses, so what could you expect from a flapper?

They say Uncle Sam's expenses are shrinking. Perhaps they mean from the limelight.

The "obey" is being taken out of marriage rites. Some take it out of the prohibition law also.

'GLAD RAGS' DUE TO EVOLUTION, IS CLAIM

All the clowns are not with a circus.

Since they bring home by airplane, the upkeep of the overhead is what makes it expensive.

CHICAGO, May 25.—(U. S. S.)—You may have never thought of it before, but you owe your present-day "glad-rags" to evolution—social evolution.

The sum total of biological evolution, according to Professor E. C. Hayes, of the University of Chicago, is naked savages.

But social evolution, he says, has produced the trades and arts that have made possible suits of clothes, Methodists, the Republican party and every refinement of our civilization.

"Biological evolution," says the professor, "produces a human species closely related to the chimpanzee. But the suit of clothes we wear embodies a great number of arts.

"Biological evolution never produced a methodist or a Republican. Federal courts, Methodists, stand not only useless, Luther and Christ, but the piety and devotion, longing and aspiration of uncounted nameless souls."

FOR BETTER HIGHWAYS

EDMONTON, Alberta, May 25.—(U. P.)—Highway improvement is going forward rapidly in Canada. Ten per cent of the Dominion's road mileage has been gravelled or surfaced, says the annual report of the Canadian Good Roads Association, and there is one mile of road for every twenty-one residents. In the western provinces road building has been subsequent expansion of agriculture. Thousands of motor trucks supplement the horse-drawn vehicles. Canada's highways represent an investment of $574,000,000.

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian, May 25, 1894.)

Governor Sylvester Pennoyer and Jo Wadrop arrived from the East Thursday evening and went from the Union Pacific train to the Golden Rule Hotel.

Next week W. M. Pierce and W. W. Brannin will go down the Union Pacific road and hold a series of meetings, addressing the voters on the issue of the day. They are billed to speak from a democratic standpoint at Cascade Locks, The Dalles, East Portland and Astoria.

The city treasurer's books are now at Mayor Taylor's office, where holders of scrip may have their warrants registered.

RIVOLI, TODAY

GREATEST EVER PRODUCED

'The Three Musketeers' Places Fairbanks in Class by Himself as Actor-Producer

The audience at the Rivoli Theatre yesterday was transported backward into the ages a distance of three hundred years through the medium of Douglas Fairbank's current picture, "The Three Musketeers," showing at the Rivoli today.

Flashing swords, great sacrifices and daring deeds of heroism make this one of the most thrilling pictures ever viewed, previewed or reviewed. The production is perfect and the direction all that could possibly be asked for. The photography is so good that one is never conscious of it, which is the greatest test of camera work.

Didst?

Didst ever lamp the awful tramp who swings three lousy bats about. With this much done he picks up one and then proceeds to strike right out.

The Thrifty Citizen Who Caught the Plugged Nickel

MR. BROWN had swallowed his lunch and had paid his bill. Cautiously he counted his change. "Here!" he said, sharply, "Take back this plugged nickel and give me a good one!"

Mr. Brown walked proudly out. They couldn't fool old Brown.

But old Brown had fooled himself.

Brown's day was heavy and dull. He lacked "pep." There was a mid-afternoon drowsy spell when he needed to be awake—the direct and natural result of heavy, starchy breakfasts and lunches, taken on faith and without question as to value—just because the food looked and tasted like food.

Grape-Nuts is a scientific food whose delicious, appetizing flavor and crispness are an introduction to well-balanced nourishment—a nourishment easily and quickly assimilated, so that body, brain and nerves are well fed and kept free of the stored-up poisons left by so many ill-selected foods.

Thousands of shrewd business men who count their change, take their food for granted.

Served with cream or good milk, Grape-Nuts is a complete food, always ready, always a delight to the taste—and always a safe selection for the man who thinks his stomach is entitled to some of the same protection he gives to his pocket.

That's what builds up the sanitarium business, and puts the tired "all-done" feeling into the mid-afternoon of a business day.
