

A startling new fact about tire rubber

"SEE the rubber of that tire? It looks pretty much like any other tire rubber, doesn't it? Yet if you compared it with an ordinary tire under a microscope, you would see a great difference. Ordinary tire rubber is filled with 'lumps.' Thermoid Rubber is even and fine-textured. That's a very important difference. It is the whole secret of the long wear of Thermoid Tires.

Two chemists and two practical tire-builders in the Thermoid Rubber Company spent months in laboratory work and road tests. They finally perfected Crocidide—a rubber compound that reduces "lumpy" formations to a minimum.

Crocidide Compound is to-day used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid Tires. Made with Crocidide Compound, Thermoid Tires are protected against rapid wear—against unnecessary sand boils, blisters and blow-outs. You are invited to call and see these tires for yourself—also the famous Crocidide Compound Tubes.

Spend Money to Advertise Coffee

RIO DE JANEIRO. (By mail to United Press.)—"There's a reason" for Brazilian exporters, especially the coffee men, to spend large quantities of money in the United States and Canada to counter the propaganda against drinking the juice from the coffee bean, and further advertise Brazilian products.

This was the substance of a speech before the Brazilian Commercial Association by William Mazzoco, prominent business man.

Mazzoco suggested that Brazil send an exhibition ship to the United States and Canada to advertise Brazilian coffee and other leading products.

He stated to the association that on a recent visit to the United States he saw plenty of advertising for Colombian and West Indian coffee. However, Mazzoco said, "propaganda for the Brazilian bean is conspicuous in the United States because of its absence."

Mazzoco pointed out that Brazilian coffee is being advertised in leading North American cities, but not in a satisfactory manner. He suggested that the Brazilian coffee grower and exporter get their heads and pocket-books together and cut loose a big campaign in the United States for larger consumption of Brazilian coffee.

French Newspapers Oppose Oil Claims Sought by America

PARIS, June 14.—The nationalistic press is criticizing severely the report of M. Laurent Eynac on the petroleum situation made after his return from Genoa, in which he urges that France support American claims and points out that the interests of the United States and France in petroleum concessions are identical.

Eynac is accused editorially of defending Standard Oil interests against Shell interests and playing an American game against England, a violation of French neutrality.

"If France declares war in Europe, as our born reactionaries dream," asks Gustave Tory, in Oeuvre, "can one seriously believe that the United States will nourish our airplanes, our tanks and our submarines with petroleum, the very United States that denounces our militarism as with a flail?"

And again: "The true French policy should consist in profiting by the rivalry of the Standard and the Shell and while there is yet time to assure to France, under the most advantageous conditions, that petroleum production which is not less indispensable in peace than in wartime."
