

People Here and There

S. D. Sanderson, publisher of the Freewater Times, was a visitor in Pendleton today.

"Do you know where a fellow might get a mound of harvest bands?" queried Henry Barrett of Athena, who was a Pendleton visitor today. "Farmers up near Athena could use about that many, I think. My outfit has been short ever since we started, and a number of my neighbors also need help. The tourists don't stay very long. As soon as they make enough to buy gas to the next station they are usually ready to quit."

Crops in the vicinity of Nampa, Idaho, are looking good, and prospects for better prices are strong this year, is the report brought to Pendleton by Thomas Hill, who with Mrs. Hill is a guest here at the home of his brothers, James Hill and Dr. David B. Hill. Hay is in much keener demand than it was last year, he says. Mr. Hill is in the sheep business. He reports there are a lot of men in the Nampa country who are greatly interested in polo. He is one of the "bugs" and expects to start riding his neck in the game as soon as he can find suitable horses to make up a string.

T. C. Newsome of Arlington is in Pendleton today. He and W. I. Cumming are the proprietors of a fine new garage in Arlington. The building is at the lower end of Main street near the Columbia and attracts much favorable comment from tourists. Both the owners of the building formerly lived in Pendleton.

The other day a pair of boys named Henry Taylor and J. W. Maloney slipped quietly out of town. They were garbed in their old clothes and refused to talk for publication about their destination. They are back now and still refuse to talk, but it has become known that they went after huckleberries. They didn't get many. "But we had a lot of fun camping," Mr. Taylor says.

News Notes of Pendleton

Harvesting Finished
Henry Struve finished the harvesting yesterday of his 640 acre ranch in the west end of the county. This is the first wheat grower to report the completion of harvesting.

Brothers Are Held
L. C. Miller and Earl Miller are held by the sheriff's office as a result of charges preferred against them for the alleged theft of some gasoline at Elletts. The arrest was made yesterday.

Says Show Is Fine
That the Frontier Days show at Cheyenne is a huge success this year is the statement made by H. W. Collins in a telegram which he has sent to Judge C. H. Marsh. The steer roping and bulldogging is particularly good and the attendance is excellent, according to the message. He reports that the Pendleton men in attendance at the show are having a fine time.

EUROPE FACES

orders. The marks fluctuations meant a vast export of German capital and for that and other reasons Germany is beginning to be gripped by what promises to become an extreme credit stringency. The lack of credit with which to carry on domestic business will immediately cause unemployment, which means disorder under food conditions now existing in Germany, and disorders among the sixty millions of persons in the center of Europe means contagious consequences.

FISHERMEN ARE HOPEFUL

ASTORIA, July 25.—With the purse seine menace disposed of, and a change in the tides now due, fishermen of the lower Columbia are more hopeful of securing better catches. It is estimated that 60 per cent of the entire pack of last year was caught by purse seiners operating off the Columbia river, and fishermen conclude that a larger catch by the gillnetters will be the result of a ban placed upon the purse seiners.

The action of the federal court in regard to the "black feet" caused a change in the spirit of the gillnetters. Many of them were preparing to dispose of their gear and quit the business, but they have decided to remain during the rest of the season.

The launch Phoenix will remain on duty to see that none of the illegal craft operates inside the three-mile limit, and will make regular trips outside to keep an eye on the fleet. In the opinion of those connected with the fishing industry, the purse seiners cannot operate profitably outside the three-mile limit.

WHALES ARE NUMEROUS

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 25.—Seventy-three whales have been landed this season at the Pacific American Whaling company's Bay City plant. The catch is larger than the average for this period of the season, but a little smaller than the catch in 1920, the banner year, for the Bay City plant. This season was five weeks late in opening and much foggy weather has been encountered. Weather conditions, however, are now ideal, with whales plentiful. It is expected the number taken will be larger than in 1920.

SALT LAKE CITY TOLD OF THE ROUND-UP

Scores of business men in Colorado Springs, Colorado, and Salt Lake City, Utah, and hundreds of tourists in the Colorado and Utah territory have heard the story of the Pendleton Round-Up and have received an invitation to attend, during the past week, as a part of the 5000 mile publicity campaign which is being conducted this summer by Art Rodd.

Since the beginning of the tour, July 19, publicity matter has been left in a score or more auto camps, in two state capitols, in half a hundred of the biggest tourist hotels of the west, including the Brown Palace in Denver, the Broadmore in Colorado Springs, the Utah and Newhouse in Salt Lake and The Reed in Ogden, Kiwanis, Rotary and Progressive clubs in several of the larger cities have been reached and the famous Round-Up invitation extended to the members.

Work is being carried on this week in the Idaho country, the main towns to be reached being Pocatello, Weiser and Boise.

A feature of the Utah campaign was the circulation of the Round-Up literature among the visitors at the great Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake and at Saltair pleasure resort.

President Barnes of the Pike's Peak Rodeo at Colorado Springs, has visited both the Pendleton show and the Cheyenne attempt and is quoted in one of the Colorado Springs papers as saying that the Pendleton Round-Up is undoubtedly the best wild west epic he has ever seen, according to a report received at headquarters this morning.

EXPECT PASSAGE BY AUG. 15

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Prospects for passage of the tariff bill about August 15, were made bright today by announcement from the democratic members of the finance committee that they will offer no further organized opposition to the bill, which has been before the senate since April 20.

The democratic members decided in conference to concentrate their opposition henceforth on attempts to amend the administration provisions of the bill and to make little resistance to the other schedules which remain to be considered. There will be some amendments offered to the wool and silk schedules and to the duties on " sundries," after which attention will be given to amendments to enlarge the powers of the tariff commission to give it power to investigate tariff conditions and adjust rates.

GERMAN MONARCHISTS PLOT DEATH OF PREMIER

State Aid For Housing To Be Urged

By HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, July 25.—Not at all discouraged by the failure to bring about European reconstruction by means of the Genoa conference, Italy will immediately tackle another world-wide problem via the international congress route.

This time it will be the housing crisis, which, as a result of the war, remains as acute in the western hemisphere as on the European continent. With an international congress for the economical and co-operative construction of apartment houses, to be held at Rome, September 21 to 28, Italy plans to show the rest of the world just how she has solved the problem herself and put the fruits of her experience at the disposition of others.

Own Apartments.

The congress will be able to see at Rome whole quarters and suburbs composed exclusively of huge apartment houses, covering acres and acres of ground, which have been built, for example, by certain co-operative categories, such as the state railway employees, employees of various ministries, government employees generally, etc. Simultaneous with these workmen's suburbs, the congress delegates will be able to see other high grade residential quarters composed of great apartment houses of the most modern luxury, in which, in turn, every apartment is owned outright by the tenant. In fact, so successful has this form of building become at Rome and other Italian cities, that there is practically no construction whatsoever now for renting purposes. Houses are built only for the actual sale of the apartments to the tenants. While this form of building originated in Italy with co-operative societies, it has become the accepted basis for building for all big construction companies who only build apartment houses for the sale of the apartments. Naturally, this form of building has become of the vast scale on which it is promoted and the vast amount of capital necessary, only been possible in Italy by means of governmental co-operation. ESpecial building laws, exemption from taxation for long periods, free importation of building materials and even financial help is part of the Italian government's contribution to this solution of the crisis. Italy will insist before the congress on this necessity of government intervention in order to provide the world with enough houses whereat to live.
