FLYER AIDS RESCUE OF BATHERS DRIFTING OUT WITH TIDE AT SEASIDE

SEASIDE, Oreg., Aug. 5.—Life preservers dropped from an airplane into the surf probably saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of the Pugs apartments, San Francisco, who were carried one-quarter of a mile from the shore by the tide while they were bathing yesterday afternoon. Earl Gray, an aviator who is conducting sightseeing flights along the beach, saw the bathers being swept away, hurriedly placed two life preservers in his Curtis machine and flew out over the waters. He threw one life preserver so close to Mr. Smith that it splashed in his face. The other life preserver hit the water about 40 feet from Mrs. Smith. Both bathers managed to keep themselves from going under, by using these floating pieces, until rescued. Harold Terwilliger, swimming instructor at the Oates maturation, and Jack Pobochno, life guard, brought the couple to shore and removed them to the maturation, where they were resuscitated.

BEAUTIFICATION OF EAST END PROPERTY AIM OF COMMISSION

Report From Prof. A. L. Peck Read by City Planning Body at Meeting Held Last Night.

Plans for beautifying the city's park property in the east end, securing a second road entrance to the city from the east whereby the railroad crossings may be eliminated, making some improvements to the land owned by the city adjacent to the city reservoir on top of the south hill and other miscellaneous business was considered last night by the members of the city planning commission in the regular monthly meeting. Efforts to secure a second visit from Prof. A. L. Peck, of the U. S. G. C., to be made by the commission, according to a report taken last night. He was here last spring and made a general inspection of the city, and later, he made a verbal report on his findings in a public meeting. Judge G. W. Phelps, president of the commission, reported that he conferred with both railroad and city way commissioners during his period of work in Portland this summer relative to securing this second entrance to the city from the east. Assurances of the interest of both were given, according to Judge Phelps. The desirability of further improving the strip of land which the water commission owns near the site of the reservoir on the south hill was presented by City Engineer Frank B. Hays. Some trees are already growing there, he said. An inspection of the land is to be made at a later date. Following is the written report from Prof. A. L. Peck which has been received by the planning commission: The following is a brief report or memorandum with reference to my visit this spring, which was requested, for the purpose of advising and checking over with the members of your Board a few of your city problems.

On looking over the plantings along the public streets, I was impressed with the great value of the larger tree plantings which you have in the older parts of Pendleton. Situated as you are, geographically, city street plantings should be one of your most earnest efforts. Tourists coming into or leaving your city will be more strikingly impressed with the wealth of shade which you have on your streets than with any other one factor. It is, therefore, highly important that you organize your city planting, as far as streets are concerned, holding it within the control of your City Planning Commission and requiring that certain trees be used and

Shapeliness of Blonde Clerk Blocks Work of Collecting Municipal Taxes

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 5.—Swimming like bees to a hive, taxpayers besieged the desk in the lobby of the City Hall here, where sat a golden-haired blonde, Mrs. C. Terreling, engaged in the prosaic task of receiving municipal taxes. Many eyes were fixed upon her shapely figure; her hazel eyes, beaming with vivacity, hypnotized others, while many additional onlookers were mesmerized by the plink of her shell-like ear. But others—and they were mainly men—fastened their gaze on the floor beneath the desk, where reposed two dainty feet and two dainty ankles. Other clerks lolled. The big business went to the blonde. The city treasurer, indicating that one clerk should do so much work, decided that action was needed to make the other clerks earn their pay. A large posterboard map was placed in front of the lower part of the blonde's desk. Other clerks are now doing their share of the work.

America's Youngest Mother 11 Yrs. Old

HARDIN, Ohio, Aug. 5.—(U. P.)—"My baby's coming is a mystery to me," Elizabeth Irwin, "America's youngest mother," today celebrated her seventh birthday by making that one reply to the grinning county prosecutors seeking to determine the paternity of her nineteen days' old baby. Steadfastly the girl, mother refused to lift even one corner of the veil of mystery in which the affair is shrouded. "I didn't know anything was going to happen until I got sick and then the baby came," she told Prosecutor Lip-nest. "He's the best dad I ever had." The child's parents urged the authorities to neglect every effort to penetrate to the girl's childish innocence. Her step-father, declaring he would demand the prosecution for the man responsible for the child's plight. The girl was fearless in the face of questions hurled at her and talked freely to the officers for over an hour. She asserted repeatedly that she had no romances or boy friends.

During the morning count Hall lost one, Olcott losses and gains equalized. Circuit Judge Bingham announced that he would require Hall's attorneys to make specific charges against each person on the list of 300. The same will apply to Olcott forces when they file a similar list, Monday. A new method of counting was adopted because of the confusion in similarity of sound between Hall and the first syllable of Olcott.

A special train load of Spokane boosters and business men are expected to come to Pendleton this year to attend the Round-Up, according to information that has been received by the Pendleton Commercial Association from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. The move to accept the invitation and bring men over was made by the executive committee of the Spokane body recently. T. S. Lane, a past president of the Spokane chamber, is head of the special committee in charge of arrangements. HELP KEEP STREETS OF PENDLETON CLEAN IS PLEA OF CRABTREE Street Commissioner Declares Many Laws Violated by Residents Who Are Thoughtless.

The Macedonian cry for aid has been sent out by E. A. Crabtree, city street commissioner. All good Pendletonians are included among those to whom the cry is aimed, because it is only through their aid, the city official says, that his aim can be attained. And his aim? It is to keep the streets as clean as possible with the limited number of helpers available and the small amount of cash that can be spent in his department. He has several specific requests which he makes of residents. "There are a great many people who are constantly violating the laws by sweeping either with broom, rakes, or water, their old dead leaves and grass into the gutters where it is carried down to the sewer intakes when the streets are flushed," he states. "Such practices more than double our work, and they violate the law. People who wouldn't faintly dream of leaving their garbage in the gutter for the city to take care of are had offenders in respect to leaves and grass. "There are many vacant lots within the city limits which are never cleaned up by the property owners. The practice of leaving the weeds standing is a constant menace to health, loss from fire, and to the beauty of the city." The street commissioner also declares that property owners in one of the best residential districts in the city along the river on the north side are guilty of dumping trash and refuse on the banks of the mill race. Many demands for street sprinkling in the unimproved sections are constantly being received, but the budget of the city will not permit of any sprinkling here, according to Crabtree.

CENTENARIAN READS WITHOUT SPECTACLES

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 5.—(U. P.)—To be able to read without the aid of glasses, although she is eight years beyond the century mark in the journey of life, is a daily habit with Mrs. Lemuel Shadlock, of this city. She is a staunch advocate of smoking. "For enjoyment nothing can compare with smoking a cob pipe," the aged woman declared. "I learned to smoke when I was seven years old. "When people learn to laugh sufficiently and to look at the bright side of things I am sure their earthly career will be of longer duration," she concluded.

HOPES FOR PEACE GREW BRIGHTER WITH CONFERENCE

President Anxious to Settle Strike Before 'Big Four' Brotherhoods Walk Out.

MAINTENANCE OF WAY UNION STRIKE OFF

Seniority Question May be Left for Labor Board to Settle According to Rumor.

(By United Press.) The hope for the settlement of the railroad and coal strikes grew brighter again today. President Harding met representatives of the striking shopmen in a conference at the White House this morning and will meet representatives of three of the "Big Four" brotherhoods later in the day. The sessions may result in a general conference with the strikers' leaders and the expectation at which a new peace plan will be brought up. Every effort of the coal operators in Illinois to negotiate a separate peace with the miners of that state seemed doomed to failure when Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, said that no action would be taken until after Monday's meeting in Cleveland headed by the miners and operators' spokesmen, when an effort would be made to agree on the settlement of the whole controversy.
