

People Here and There

Miles Larsen of Athena is here today.

Ralph Stanfield, of Echo, is at Hot lake for a short stay.

J. B. Bentley has gone to Seaside where he expects to remain for a couple of months.

H. J. Taylor, who with Mrs. Taylor has returned after a visit to Seaside, was on the beach when the two Portland men were drowned recently.

Dr. I. O. Temple, owner of the Hotel Dorion, returned yesterday from Portland, where he purchased furnishings for the Hotel Dorion Annex.

"I suffered three serious breaks while we were on our vacation," County Judge I. M. Schanney said this morning. "I broke my glasses, one r.b. and now I'm financially broke as well, but we had a good time." The Schanney family spent two weeks on the beach at Seaview, Washington.

William Schuening, who farms on the reservation, is in Pendleton today, bringing with him a sample of Hard Federation wheat, grown on his ranch. He grew about two acres of the wheat, which is an Australian variety and found it superior to the Jenkins, which was caught by the hot winds.

James H. Gwinn, one of Oregon's men at the supreme lodge Knights of Pythias and the grand master at Arns in the big lodge, found the San Francisco weather very cool and pleasant during the supreme lodge session. He returned home yesterday morning. During the session of the supreme lodge Harr M. Love, former grand K or R & S of Washington was elected as supreme K of R & S to succeed the late Fred E. Weston.

Dr. C. C. Sturgis, formerly of Pendleton and the son of Mrs. Lina Sturgis of this city, is considered one of the leading medical men of Boston, according to Colonel Charles Wellington Furlong, who has returned after a visit to Boston. Colonel Furlong states that Dr. Sturgis, who is at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital, has written some important papers for medical journals. He has had the offer of a partnership with one of the most prominent doctors in Boston.

H. A. Pederson is here from Weston today on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kornick have gone to the mountains for a week's vacation. They are in camp in the mountains above Pilot Rock.

Here in the interests of the Southern Pacific's contest with the Union Pacific over disposition of the Central Pacific railroad, F. J. Miller, former member of the Oregon public service commission, is willing to show people why western Oregon folk have reason for preferring Southern Pacific control. He is anxious that the side of the Southern Pacific be heard here in event this community should decide to go on record upon the subject.

News Notes of Pendleton

Will Hold Class
Mrs. Edith G. Van Deusen, home demonstration agent, will hold millinery classes in Athena August 23 and 24.

Drowned Man Known Here.
Frank K. Brown, who recently was drowned in the Columbia river at Hanford, Washington, not far from Pasco, was well known in Pendleton, according to Roy Ritter. Brown was an ex-serviceman and was a graduate of O. A. C. During his vacations for six years he worked for Ritter and Storie, and he has also assisted Fred Bennion in special work. Brown's body was not recovered for quite a while following his death. When located, it was more than 20 miles below where he drowned. He was with the U. S. biological survey at the time of his death.

Road Boosters Picnic.
A promise that he would do everything in his power to secure federal aid through the forest road funds to help in building the Weston-Elgin road over the mountain past Toll Gate was made yesterday by Congressman Summers, Washington representative, in a speech which he made to members of the executive committee of the Blue Mountain Highway association and others who enjoyed a picnic at Toll Gate. A letter from Congressman N. J. Sinnott was also read at the meeting in which he expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the gathering. Among the people who attended from Pendleton were Roy Ritter, G. L. Dunning, county commissioner; Lee Shannon, county roadmaster; and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chloupek. Many people from Walla Walla, Elgin and other points in Umatilla county were in attendance.

Holdman Wheat Tests Well
Reports from the Holdman territory are that wheat is testing well. Formerly the wheat was hauled to Vansycle but with the completion of the new Cold Spring road the grain is being hauled to Cold Springs landing.

Gets Good Egg Measure.
C. E. Powell is loud in his praise of the quality eggs he can get from the White Leghorn ranch, Simpson and Sturgis being the owners thereof. "Of two dozen which I got recently in one dozen I found 18 yolks," Powell says. "There were four double yolks and one triple in the first 12 eggs. That is what I call egg economy."

To Attend Convention.
C. E. Powell, representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Pendleton will visit Spokane September 12 when a convention of agents of the entire Northwest will be held. Halg Fisk, president of the company, of New York, will be in attendance at the meeting. A banquet at the Duvenport Hotel is one feature that is being arranged for the meeting.

Pierce to Carry Eastern Oregon, Manager Insists

LA GRANDE, Aug. 21.—Hearty applause greeted the announcement at a Pierce-for-governor meeting here Saturday afternoon that a survey of Eastern Oregon shows all counties in that section of the state will probably return a big majority for Walter A. Pierce at the November election. Four times in the past have gubernatorial candidates from Eastern Oregon been nominated, only to find that the voters in their part of the state rejected them, it was pointed out at the meeting, and Senator Pierce's strong following therefore shows that the tax reduction stand he is taking meets with great favor.

TARIFF BILL BEFORE JOINT COMMITTEE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(U. P.)—The tariff bill went to the conference committee of the house and senate today. A determined fight is feared on the problem of using American or foreign valuation as a base in taxing imports. The republican faction in the senate was lining up behind the American valuation system as adopted by the house, in contrast to the foreign valuation plan approved by the senate majority. "There is a greatly increasing undercurrent of feeling among senators favoring the American valuation plan, sentiment which is particularly strong among the so-called farm-tariff bloc members," Senator Oddie of Utah, stated today.

ECHO WON CHAMPIONSHIP

home while Echo was passing the ball around. Echo had things up in the fifth. Stanfield walked, F. Hoskins singled to left field but was later caught off second by Olson, who came in from Center field to make the out. Stanfield scored on Markham's out. C. Hoskins doubled to left field and scored on Blakeley's single. Taylor was sent to the mound after this play and retired the side. The winning run was made by the Irrigators in the sixth when Youne scored on a fly ball over first base.

NEW HAPPY CANYON

is being painstakingly worked out with the idea of securing a picture which will be as nearly perfect as possible. The big stage is 185 feet long and has a depth of 184 feet. By skillful use of lighting devices, it is planned to increase the depth effect beyond what has ever been attained before. The old river will still be flowing, as of yore, but its course has changed some during the past year. Every department head is rapidly getting his part of the show into shape, according to James S. Johns, president, and the enthusiasm being put into the night show makes him optimistic about final results.

WRITER INSPIRED BY THOUGHT OF ROUND-UP

Charles Hanson Towns, who will visit the Round-Up this fall, is inspired by the thought of his Western trip to write the following, which was sent to the Round-Up Association:
The Rhyme of a Poor Easterner
I've never been to Oregon;
I've said, "It is too far." Again
I've always put it off—that trip one plans, but seldom takes.
But now I know I'm going there
I don't care if it's snowing there!
I'm going out to Oregon, and won't put on the brakes.
I've never been to Wyoming;
I often wonder why. O bring
That special car that I may go at Sixty miles an hour!
For there I'm told the maids are great.
And motor trips up grades are great,
And men true-blue, and staunch and true,
And full of strength and vigor.
I've never been to Idaho;
But now I've found a guide, I go
As fast as I can travel there, and know
I'll like it fine.
For in these dry and torrid days—
(We all agree they're horrid days),
I know I'll need no liquor, for the air
Is full of wine.
I've never been to Tacoma,
Or even Oklahomaward,
But now I'm for discovering the best
That's in this land.
And now, thank God! I'm going to,
And hope I'll make a showing, too,
I want to meet you Westerners and shake you by the hand.
Back East we think that we're the
thin,
But now it would appear the thing is quite reversed; for Westerners have got us stung a mile.
They live as folks were meant to live,
And I'd be well content to live
In any State they might create, in any sort of style.
For in the East we go so fast,
Rush, roar, and puff and blow so fast
We haven't time to make the friends
a fellow ought to make.
But out there where the West begins,
I know the very best begins
Of fellowship and friendliness. So, partner, will you shake?

NO COWBOY CAN TEACH 'ROUGH WRITERS' HOW TO THROW THE BULL

A bunch of rough writers are off for the West. Over many a border they'll travel with zest; And save their typewriters, they'll But the drumfire of those many battles his won; They can shoot in a column as quick as you please; Three never were any rough writers like these; weapons have none, NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(Special.)— Everything is coming along excellently well for the "rough writers" trip to the Pendleton Round-Up, according to George Putnam, the publisher, ex-Oregonian, who is organizing the junket. The personnel of the party, as it at present stands, includes in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Putnam, George S. Chappell, the humorous writer, who actually is Dr. Walter E. Trumbull of Kawa; James; then there will be Wallace Irwin, and Charles Hanson Towns, editor and poet. Charles Hanson Towns, the nervy cuss, 's sitting pretty on Pegasus, which is rarin' up on lumbic feet, But Charlie rides him—and he rides him neat. The member of the party who perpetrated that refusal to reveal his name—personally fearing personal violence. Definite word has just come that Frederick O'Brien, the famous South Sea author, is coming up from California to join the party at Portland and go to the Pendleton Round-Up. Walter Trumbull, sports writer of the New York Herald, will diagnose the sporting feature of the Round-Up for the Easterners. He, by the way, was brought up on a ranch in Texas and has a youngster could ride as well as the best of them. Then there is Ruth Hale, dramatic and literary critic and feature writer for Judge. And Hubbard Hutchings, the novelist. And probably John Held, Jr., the illustrator, with whose funny drawings reads of Life, Vanity Fair and other periodicals are familiar. "And of course out in Pendleton," said Mr. Putnam, speaking of the trip, "we will be joined by my friend Charles Wellington Furlong. So far as Eastern readers are concerned, the Round-Up and Furlong are two names which are pretty nearly synonymous, ever since the publication of his book "Let 'er Buck." It is understood that, in addition to the indirect publicity results of the trip, a good deal of definite publicity is assured the Round-Up and the Pacific Northwest through articles which are now being arranged. In addition to stories in the New York Herald and the New York World and the New York Times, which are to be written by various members of the party, it is also expected that articles regarding the trip will find their way into Judge, Town and Country, Vanity Fair, and a couple of other national periodicals. Which outlook caused one of the members of the party to perpetrate the following verse:
Herewith we make a little speech
Of truth and wisdom brimstone full:
There is no cowboy who can teach
Rough writers how to throw the bull.
These generations of the family of the late Morcer Thompson, pioneer farmer of the Shedd district, held a reunion in Albany last Sunday. More than 50 relatives of the early settlers were present. A response authorizing the council of Eugene to loan bonds in the sum of $15,000 for the purchase of new fire apparatus will be on the November ballot.

NEW CRUISER WILL GET OLD NAMESAKE'S SILVER

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 21.—Inquiries regarding the disposition of a silver service presented years ago by citizens of Cincinnati to the old cruiser Cincinnati have elicited the information from R. E. Coontz, Acting Secretary of the Navy, that the articles in question have been in storage and will be forwarded to the navy yard at Puget Sound for installation on the new Cincinnati (light cruiser No. 6). The service consists of two fruit dishes, one salad bowl, one tray, one platter, one punch ladle, one pair of sugar tongs and one punch bowl.

RIVOLI TODAY

Picture-goers will have no regrets in seeing Monroe Salisbury in "The Great Alone." The confirmed fan who has seen this virile star in "The Barbarian," "The Man in the Moonlight," "The Sleeping Lion" or other of his pictures will find even greater delight in this latest of his films, than the occasional playgoer. As "Silent" Duval in "The Great Alone," Salisbury reaches the apex of his screen career, giving an interpretation of the character of the half-breed which is a polished bit of acting. We must pause to mention a name new to us, but which we believe will be one conjure with—Marla Draga, Salisbury's leading lady in this production. We are told she has not yet celebrated her sixteenth birthday, a fact which is easy to believe. But her emotional powers are so great and her artistry so perfect that it might well be the envy of more mature actresses, and we predict stardom for her.

ARCADÉ TODAY

Full of fast and snappy action, genuine comedy packed in every scene and a story that kept the audience in constant laughter until the last foot of "The Foolish Age" had been projected, Doris May's first starring vehicle opened at the Arcade Theatre last night to a crowded house. It is the ultimate in up-to-date comedy drama, embodying situations and business of startling originality and presents Miss May in the sort of genial role that has made this girl such a favorite with movie fans throughout the country.
