CONVENTION PLANS MADE

Members of the Church of Redeemer are now making plans to attend the National Episcopal Convention to be held in Portland September 6 to 23. The matter is to be discussed at a called meeting of the Parish Aid and Auxiliary on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in Parish Hall. At this time the Round-Up benefit dinner will be discussed also.

Among Pendleton women who hope to attend the convention are Mrs. Frank Frazier, Mrs. Charles H. Marsh, Mrs. J. F. Robinson and Mrs. Lee Moorhouse. A number of former Pendleton matrons and maids are active in the convention plans being made in Portland. Among them are Mrs. Thomas Halley, Mrs. J. R. Dickson, Mrs. Robert N. Stanfield, Mrs. Henry Clay Judd, Miss Elizabeth Hall and Miss Barbara Stanfield.

Interesting and attractive exhibits from the Philippines and Alaska have already arrived in Portland and will be shown at the convention, according to word received here. There are unique baskets of every description, both useful and ornamental, made by the Igorots and Filipinos; also artistic fans, trays, brooms, coasters, jar-diners, vases, etc. There are also the exquisite finely woven baskets with their intricate designs made by the Alaskan Indians who weave traditions and history as well as beauty into their designs. Some of the cultured women who have been training the natives will come to the convention and will be able to give the message of the music appeal that is in these articles.

An additional afternoon tea has been placed on the long list of teas which will feature the convention. This tea will be held Wednesday afternoon, September 20, at The Auditorium, and will be in the nature of a farewell party to all the women delegates and their friends. The farewell to women delegates must be held before the adjournment of the general convention, as the triennial meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary is officially ended September 21, whereas the convention lasts until September 23.

ipped over. The combine was completely wrecked and Riggs' chest was crushed when he fell beneath it as it lurched over. He died about five minutes later from internal injuries.

None of the harvest hands on the machine were able to account for the accident, except by steps of the sidehill on which the machine was operating. Riggs was employed as separator man on the outfit. His home is in Salem, Ore., where he has a wife and children.

The driver was thrown clear of the machine when it tipped over but aside from minor bruises was unharmed. Riggs, who was operating the leveling device, was hurt, according to the report, when the reel and sickle bar broke from the machine.

UNLIKE ENOCH ARDEN.

PORTLAND, Mich., Aug. 21.—(U. P.)—William Hughes, 42, returned home after deserting his wife 20 years ago for a gold prospecting career in Alaska, to find her married to his brother David. Unlike Enoch Arden, he could not reconcile himself to the marriage. He shot and killed his brother and then killed himself. David's little daughter Gertrude, was slightly wounded.

TAILORS ABANDONING OLD 'HOOK AND EYE'

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(I. N. S.)—The last "hook and eye" manufacturer in London has gone out of business! Think of this, all harassed husbands whose recollections can go back twenty years!

"Where we bought hundreds of thousands of hooks and eyes ten years ago," said the manager of Harrod's Stores, "we don't buy five thousand in a twelvemonth. The poor old hooks and eyes have been superseded."

"The first thing to take their place was the press-stud (commonly known as the 'popper'). This is remaining increasingly popular because it is much neater and easier to adjust. Elastic is another substitute which is being increasingly used."

"But what really sounded the death of hooks and eyes was the slip-on dress, which is becoming increasingly popular and, of course, requires no fastenings at all. But don't worry about the departure of hooks and eyes. They were both clumsy and ugly."

"Other articles have suffered a similar eclipse. Years ago we used to buy huge quantities of buttons for sewing on costumes. No tailor-made garment would have been complete without them. Today they have come completely, their place being taken, either by buttons of the same cloth as the coat or, if bone buttons are used, only one is required."

The old dwelling of George Neal in Salem, erected in 1850 and still in a fair state of preservation, is being torn down to make room for a business structure.
