Crowded to Point of Suffocation Jammed to the Doors

AGAIN I CAN TRUTHFULLY SAY—That the prices we make would fill this store—with buyers who would buy real quality merchandise at wonderful savings. AND THE STORE WAS PACKED SOLID—HOUR AFTER HOUR THEY CAME—those wise folks who know this store and its merchandise. Tons of goods were carried out into the towns and country for miles and miles around. NOW LISTEN! I am going to sell one half this great stock and price will do it. Those of you who have already been here KNOW WE CERTAINLY UNCORKED A FLOOD OF BUSINESS. But really this Sale has only started, for I've got to move a mountain of merchandise before I'm through. NO PAST ACHIEVEMENT OF THIS OLD FIRM CAN COMPARE WITH IT. I'VE SIMPLY LAID WASTE ALL SEMBLANCE TO FORMER PRICES. Ever alert people needn't be told twice to take advantage of these price concessions.

NEW WORLD PERIL IN VOLCANOES SAY FRENCH

PARIS, Aug. 22.—If all the volcanoes in the world were to become active at the same hour the earth or any large part of it, would be no nearer being "destroyed" than it is at this moment.

Professor acroix, of the French Museum, whose field is mineralogy and whose pet subject is volcanoes, made this astonishing statement in reply to the recent prophecy made by Dr. Milton Nobles, of Philadelphia, that volcanic action would wipe out the Continent of Europe within a month.

Budapest to Be Centre
The centre of destruction, according to the prophecy, was to be Budapest. So when, the very next day, reports came from Hungary that tremblings of the earth's surface had been felt, while simultaneously there were small earthquakes in France and in Spain, many good souls of Paris flocked to the church to await the Last Judgment, and the witty paragraphers of the Paris dailies prepared their last barbs.

Professor acroix interviewed M. le Professeur Lacroix.

"Pessimists who have already permitted themselves to rejoice at the idea of the approaching end of the world, announced by an American geologist, will find in the words of this volcano authority new cause for lamentation," says that journal and quotes the professor:

"It is true that the region around Budapest is highly volcanic. Of course the volcanoes are old, dating from the tertiary period.

"But supposing they start all at once to spit forth lava. Even supposing—you see I am generous with suppositions—that all the volcanoes of the world began to erupt at once. All that would not affect the solidarity of our planet."

M. Lacroix showed his interviewer a map of Europe.

"Those red spots indicate the regions where there are volcanoes, extinct or active. You see what a small area they cover in comparison with the stable regions of the continent."

Italy Has Only Active Craters

"The only really active volcanoes in Europe are those of Italy—Vesuvius, Stromboli, Vulcano and Etna, in particular."

"The axiom is: The effects of all volcanic phenomena are essentially local."

"Add to this that the units in most volcanic groups, for example, Etna, Stromboli and Vesuvius, are separated by scores of miles as the crow flies, and the fact that when one of these neighboring craters is in eruption the others are inactive, thus proving that their reservoirs are independent, and the idea of a universal eruption becomes ridiculous."

"One of those American journalists who knew how to 'create events' like Napoleon himself wirelessly over the world that a certain savant announces

It's an Ill Wind That Blows Nobody Good

Two hundred striking rail workers at Childress, Tex., are working overtime—and for no pay. They're helping sick farmers work their crops. Here are some of them who in four hours worked 80 acres of cotton for Claude Tucker.

"Tell your readers they may sleep soundly with both eyes shut."

Newspaper Scouts Idea

Le Temps didn't bother to consult a scientist. It scouted the prophecy, and with it all prophecies—except political ones.

"One of those American journalists who knew how to 'create events' like Napoleon himself wirelessly over the world that a certain savant announces the approaching eruption in the neighborhood of Budapest of no fewer than seventy craters," ran the account.

"In the year 2000, so close that our children will live to see it, we can measure the progress of humanity by observing the survival of the same panic fears of which the year 1000 leaves us a legend."

"In ten centuries science has mastered nature, but not the imagination of men."

GOOD WAY TO KEEP MONEY IN THE BANK

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 22.—Vincent Roda saw one of two negroes stoop and pick up a cigarette box from a doorstep. When the finder turned the box upside down to get a dime lying in the bottom Roda protested against this robbery of some child's mislaid "bank." The negro apparently had transferred the dime to his pocket and closed the box, but he denied that he had the money. He was so sure he offered to bet a roll of bills against Roda's watch, and the second negro held the stakes, and Roda opened the box. The dime was glued to the bottom.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY COMMUNITY CLUB

(East Oregonian Special)

WESTON, Mt., Aug. 23.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Weston Mt. Community Club Saturday night a fine program was put on by eight high school students of Weston, all former students of the Weston mountain school. Following is the program:

Musical, violin and guitar accompaniment. Orval and Theodore Walden: Song, Long Ago, Pastime and Helen Rayburn, Dorothy Bowers and Dorothy Tweedy: Recitation, Marjorie Bowers, music, Violins, Ray Jones and Chester Ferguson: recitation, Myrtle Ferguson; dialogue, Women's Rights, Dorothy Bowers, Pauline and Helen Rayburn and Dorothy Tweedy; song by same girls, Out Where the West Begins.

While the refreshment committee were preparing refreshments, Ray Jones and Selma Thompson delighted the audience with many beautiful violin selections.

Roy Walden had the misfortune to have a brake on the bundle wagon fly back, striking him in the eye. While very painful the eye is not seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hodgson and Mrs. Joe Hyatt were Walla Walla visitors last week. Verne Marr was also in Walla Walla on business.

The board of directors of school district No. 49 met in called session Monday evening for the purpose of hiring a teacher for the coming school year. Mrs. Roy Hyatt's application was favorably passed upon. School will begin Monday, September 3.

The following Weston mountain students will resume their work in Weston High: Freshman, Harry May; sophomores, Dorothy Bowers, Gwen Compton, Wayne Compton, Dorothy Tweedy, Roy Walden; John Wiley, U. S. agricultural agent for the district of Walla Walla, and Mr. Currie, Washington state potato and fruit inspector from Olympia, were in the potato fields of this neighborhood Tuesday, looking into seed potato growing conditions and diseases and expressed themselves as being very favorably impressed. While they did not find them free from disease, Mr. Currie said: "You have as good potatoes as we have in Washington." They intend looking over the fields again in September.

Miss Mary Lansdale is visiting relatives and friends on the hill this week. She teaches again in the Bush school this winter, the third term of her three year contract.

Miss Esther Edwards is assisting in the Mark Henderson cook house this week after a month's cooking in the York cook house in the valley.
