SEARCH STARTED.

and mucking out the passage way. The diggers were covered with muck and sweat.

Air immediately started to rush through the opening into the Argonaut mine and it is believed to be dispelling whatever poisonous gases might exist on the lower levels. The town of Jackson is thronged with curious persons awaiting word. Relatives and friends of the entombed men, crowd about the mine shaft, expecting news before night, at the latest.

Friends of the entombed miners began arriving at the mouth of the Kennedy shaft shortly after daybreak when the news of the break into the Argonaut flashed over town. The thirty six hundred foot level workmen, the Argonaut miners, were the five thousand dollar prize for the first to break through into the Argonaut mine, according to an announcement this morning when the shift came off duty. Work on the thirty nine hundred foot level was immediately halted. The completed drift is a narrow, crooked passageway wide enough for a wheelbarrow. A man cannot stand upright. Many of the miners dropped from exhaustion working in its construction. No further developments as to the rescue progress are expected until officials are certain the opening into the Kennedy is safe should the creels seeking the entombed men be forced to retreat. Ventilation is an additional problem. Heavy currents of air are sweeping through the two shafts with such force as to blow out the miners lanterns. There was danger of the draft rekindling the fires.

VENDERS AND DRINKERS.

Martin and federal officers secured about 400 gallons of mash and between 20 and 25 gallons of moonshine on the ranch of William Harris, southeast of Pilot Rock. Harris was not on the place at the time, but the officers are confident that the wet goods belonged to him.

Police court in the city hall building was one of the busiest spots in town this morning. Practically all of the cases handled were booze cases.

Jack Linsley was fined $10 on a charge of using abusive language. Jim Clayton paid $10 to the city's account on a drunk charge. H. W. Lington was separated from $15 on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. John Doe is the name on the police docket in the case of a man charged with illegal possession of liquor who forfeited $50 bail. Jesse Anderson forfeited $15 for using obscene language.

Jim West came down from Fremont today, and he proceeded to get busy on booze cases. He arrested Frank Cullen on Main street. Cullen was seated on a bench in front of a business place with a bundle under one arm. When West demanded to see the bundle Cullen is said to have hurled the package to the sidewalk with sufficient force that he broke four bottles into several hundred pieces. One bottle he had in his pocket was not broken, however, and he was held in the city hall.

After arresting Cullen, West went to the man's room where he found a Mrs. Cahler. There were six bottles of moonshine in the room. The officers searched both the woman and the half dozen bottles of liquor. Both were taken to police station. Mrs. Cahler furnished bail for her appearance in court Tuesday morning and was released from custody.

NO BAN ON BOBBED HAIR IN WOOSTER

WOOSTER, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Teachers in Wooster and Wayne county schools may bob their hair without fear of losing their jobs.

"I don't think that school authorities who ask men no questions about smoking have any right to say whether or not girl teachers may bob their hair," declared County Superintendent G. U. Baumgardner, who has been at the head of Wayne county schools five years.

"I am not a crank on smoking," Prof. Baumgardner explained, "but I think that, as an example to pupils smoking is more serious than bobbed hair. We have numerous teachers in the county's schools who have bobbed their hair. I cannot see that it affects their teaching."

City Superintendent C. C. Maurer declared that he has not bumped into the bobbed-hair proposition.

"We had no bobbed-haired teachers last year, and I don't know that we will have any of them this year. I hope not," he said, adding, however, that he is convinced "a good teacher with bobbed hair would be preferable to a poor teacher with locks unshorn."

HOME DEMONSTRATION IDEAS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Buying Clothes

Be sure that the garments you buy are made of durable materials. This is important because it is upon the durability of materials that the length of life of a garment depends to a great degree.

Look for good tailoring and workmanship in garments. It is the details of good tailoring that make garments hold their shape.

Study the style tendencies and keep up with the fashions of the season, not the fads of the hour.

The fad of the moment should not be bought for it will soon go out of style.—V. D.

OREGON HEN MAY BREAK EGG LAYING RECORD

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Sept. 18.—A world record for white Leghorns may be made by a bird of Oregon Agricultural College according to word received from Santa Cruz, Cal., where the farm bureau egg laying competition is in progress. Alexander Stewart's white Leghorn hen Number 38 had already laid her 300th egg up to the last of August, with a month to go.

Number 25 was bred from stock obtained from the college. Three years ago Mr. Stewart bought two sittings of eggs from which he hatched 24 chicks. He raised 12 pullets and five cockerels from the hatch. The 12 pullets averaged 210 eggs each their first year, two birds laying more than 400 eggs in 21 months. Stewart obtained a male bird from the college in 1920 and another last year. From this stock he bred the hen that is leading the California contest, and hen number 28, a member of the pen, now making such a remarkable record.

GIRL FALLS FROM WINDOW ON SHOULDERS OF MAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Falling from a second floor window of her home, at No. 247 East Fifty-seventh street, Miss Martha Barnes, twenty-four, landed on the shoulders of Oliver Huber, of No. 427 East Fifty-seventh street, who was passing at that moment. Huber broke the young woman's fall and perhaps saved her from serious injury, but both were taken to Flower Hospital suffering from contusions and lacerations. After being attended they were able to go to their homes.

OSBORN, Md., Sept. 18.—Percy Rogers, a farmer living near here, noticed something bright in the fields he was plowing. Picking it up he found it to be a watch. He cleaned the dirt off the outside, wound it up and it started running.

He discovered it was a watch he had lost twenty years ago.
