FASHION NOTES

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(U. P.)—Many plain women are considered beautiful simply because they always wear becoming hats. A hat can either make or mar a woman. It is the most important factor in a fashionable woman's wardrobe. This season we have an great an assortment of hats as we have faces but the four types which will predominate are the wide brimmed, slightly drooping shapes which the Parisians have been wearing all summer and are still wearing the draped turbans, the tricorn and the poke effects. The wide brimmed hat is one which should be chosen with discrimination, as few faces can wear it becomingly. A small face is entirely lost under its brim and becomes insipid, whereas a large, wide face often looks like a full moon surrounded by a huge halo. The average woman will find that the medium brimmed hat with a slight droop is more flattering to her, especially if she has passed the first bloom of youth. The modernized poke is an ideal hat of this sort and when trimmed with a band of burnt ostrich or a flounce of black lace the effect is sure to be fascinating and youthful.

Foreigners Are Not Welcome In Germany

By CARL D. GHOTAT.

(United Press Staff Correspondent) BERLIN, Oct. 17.—(U. P.)—Americans and other foreigners will be unwelcome in Germany this winter. At a recent spirit of resentment, especially among the working class, is setting in against what are called "valuta-strons, foreigners." And, part of this resentment it may be said in all fairness is attributable to the conduct of certain traveling foreigners, who have been receiving ever Germany this summer. They have made it difficult for Americans and others whose business requires them to remain in Germany. They have flaunted in the faces of waiters and shopgirls their dollars and their checks, marbles; they have said they would be "glad to get rid of this 'm'—meaning the marks they brought by the bale. The German has seen this; he has seen, too, early of how many marks can be had for a dollar and how country, taking along not only luxuries but necessities. He has heard of the foreigner feasting with caviar, lobster and champagne at rates comparatively low when reckoned in American or British currency. Further, he has observed that many of the foreigners were leading a loose life—wine, women and song. Then he has turned the page, and read how many hundred marks his meat and his butter and his bread and potatoes are costing and will cost. He has reckoned that up in terms of a weekly wage running between 2000 and 4000 marks at present and has come to the conclusion that the economic situation is all wrong. And, along with it, he has gathered a sullen dislike for the foreigner. The result is a distinct spirit of hostility. A few cases have come to light in the last couple of weeks where persons speaking English on the streets were hissed.

A CASE OF BOLD FAKE IN STOCK PROMOTION

A case of bare-faced misrepresentation by a company engaged in selling oil-stock is brought to the attention of the public by the Director of the U. S. Geological Survey. In the advertising matter of this company, in order to impress the reader with the belief that the government has endorsed the particular enterprise as a "sure thing," a map of this region published by the Federal Geological Survey is said to be reproduced. On the map as printed in the rather elaborate prospectus a route of supposed oil drainage extends from the St. Lawrence river, in Canada, southward across the Adirondacks and the intervening states to a point on the Mississippi river. Another route of presumed oil drainage is shown as extending from Lake Superior from the region across Wisconsin, Illinois and southward along the Mississippi. A third route of drainage is mapped as extending from the Canadian boundary, in western Montana, through the Yellowstone park, and heading in a bee-line, for eastern Louisiana. As is usual in stock promotion literature where such bogus maps are used to beguile the small investor, the three purported drainage routes unite exactly in the area where the company properties are located, which are in this particular instance lies on the east side of the Mississippi river in Louisiana. The title of this map reads "United States Geological Survey map showing center of the oil drainage of United States." On another page of their pamphlet under the heading "What Uncle Sam says about it," the promoters say "Look at the map which shows the result of the United States Geological Survey. The map was made from Plate I, United States Geological Survey, 1914. This survey shows the oil drainage of the United States. As you can readily see, our holdings are right in the center of it. * * * The government geologists are unprejudiced and their conclusions are always regarded as authentic and final." So far as the last sentence is true, Director Smith of the U. S. Geological Survey states without prejudice that his "final conclusion" is that the authors and makers of this prospectus are plain crooks. There is no resemblance or connection between the government map specifically referred to and the oil map of the promoters. Nor did the Geological Survey or any other authority ever publish such a "drainage" map. It is not only fraudulent and untruthful in every respect but absurd to the extreme. Judged by their advertising matter alone, the promoters are either crude crooks on their own account or the simple-minded dupes of their "experts." In either case they are not trustworthy advisers of the small investors to whom they make their appeal.

ATTEMPT TO HUSH UP HAZING AT ACADEMY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—(U. P.)—Powerful influences have been brought to bear to hush up and forestall the work of navy officials in probing the latest hazing scandal at the United States naval academy, an academy high official charged today. "We could not let the hazing if outsiders would let us alone," this official told the United Press.

75 MILLION MEN IN ARMIES DURING WAR

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Seventy-five million men were mobilized by all belligerent nations during the world war, according to statistics issued by the German authorities. This in more than the entire population of Germany, which amounts to about 65 million. Germany alone had 13,250,000 men under arms, of which no less than eight millions fought in the fighting lines up to the last minute. When the armistice was concluded the complete strength of the Germany was 190 infantry divisions and five cavalry divisions. The army then had the following war material at its disposal: Light machine guns, 32,218; heavy machine guns, 27,134; heavy guns, 2,082; mine throwers, 8,845; field guns, 2,482; field howitzers, 2,158; naval guns (long ranges), 1,747; air defense guns, 1,121; horses, 751,241. Eighty-five per cent of this material has been destroyed under the provisions of the Versailles Treaty.

BRITISH WOMEN ASK VOTE AT AGE OF 21
OXFORD, Oct. 17.—British women plan a new campaign to get the vote at the age of twenty-one. At present a woman has to wait until thirty before expressing the franchise.
"This will not be a militant campaign, nor will it be as noisy as the last," says Miss Ethel Beaumont, secretary of the Society for Equal Citizenship and leader of the movement.
"We shall just quietly agitate until all persons, at the age of twenty-one, get the vote."
"If we don't chain ourselves up against railings or smash windows or break through barred gates of parliament and burst in upon Parliament, our agitation will be none the less effective."
"Young women of twenty-one are considered old enough to be married, manage homes and rear children. Why should they not be thought old enough to have the vote?"
