THE CHANGELESS

(From the Kansas City Star.)

Dream-enfolded, with a longing ever drawing me,
Go I roving in the gloaming where my playmates used to be,
 Oftentimes they seem to meet me, all so blithesome, fair and free,
 And with cheerful voices greet me—radiant maidens, brave boys bold—
 And I play with little children who can never now grow old.

Men and women gray and weary, toll-worn, wrinkled, blanch'd by tears,
 Who with me have shared the dreary, common drudgery of dull years—
 They seem ghostly, sad and lonely. All they used to be appears
 Real—the actual shadow only. Warm within my soul I fold
 Bright and happy little children who can never now grow old.

Even aging time that changes more than death must leave me these:
 Where my foolish fancy ranges dwell immortal memories.
 Fresh among the flowers of Maytime, charmed by all rich harmonies,
 Glad as when the years had playtime, still in autumn twilight cold,
 Smile the wretched little children who can never now grow old.
 Here forever rests a splendor, the enchantment of old days,
 And I dream amid soft, tender visions haunting youths sweet ways—
 Soreery of far and olden beauty present pain alway,
 And restores ideals golden which my bosom used to hold,
 While I play with little children, who can never now grow old.
 —Stokely S. Fisher.

WHY THE SCANDAL GANG IS BUSY

MR. OLCOTT and Mr. Kay as members of the state board have approved of split loans from the school fund of the same type as the one made to Walter Pierce during the Chamberlain administration. How strange, "Fraudulent" is the word Mr. Ingalls has applied to the Pierce loan and the Telegram has scandalized that transaction to the skies. Yet if fraudulent, how much more guilty the state board members who make the loans. The board members are the custodians of the fund, not the borrowers. If such loans are wrong the state board should not make them.

Of course there is nothing fraudulent, illegal or irregular about such loans. It is good sense and good business for the state to keep the irreducible school fund out at interest. It is as its name implies, an irreducible fund and only the interest may be used. If no interest is collected the schools get no money from this source. Mr. Pierce paid the interest on the loan and paid off the loan in due time as other farmers do. He committed no wrong in 1903. His offense is of more recent date and consists in his advocacy of tax reform so that one-fourth the wealth of the state won't have to bear the entire tax burden. He speaks for justice to the farmer and home owner and his plans do not appeal to those who have been escaping their share of the load. As a result a $25,000 slush fund was raised in Portland to "fight Pierce" and their campaign of defamation and slander is on. We are told that Mr. Pierce is a demagogue, a "weeping Walter" a radical, a bolshevik—everything but a murderer. All because he advises that Oregon get out of the rut and secure prosperity by adopting enlightened tax methods followed in other states.

The attacks upon Mr. Pierce are a shame and a disgrace to the state. There is not an ounce of sincerity back of those charges and their perpetrators know it. They privately regard Mr. Pierce as a strong and able man whose integrity is not open to question. He is president of the state taxpayers' league and he was so highly regarded that a republican governor named him as a member of the tax investigation committee.

The mud squad's attacks are not directed against Pierce the man; they are directed at Pierce the champion of tax equalization. He is viciously assailed because he is making a courageous, upstanding fight for justice on the tax subject. His critics squeal and foam because they fear his election will mean the dawn of a new day in Oregon, a day when the farmer and home owner will get fair play. "Let well enough alone" is the slogan of the Olcott cohorts. The big tax dodger is satisfied with the status quo. He wants no change and there will be no tax reform worthy of the name if Mr. Pierce is defeated.

The lines are clearly drawn and the division is not along partisan lines. The man who fails to support Mr. Pierce in such a crisis as this has a poor conception of the economic needs of this region and of the state as a whole.

The mayor of New York has been called down by the husband of a woman to whom the mayor wrote and signed himself "Sincerely yours"; we'll have to take that up with Walter Trumbull.

Many a man has been strengthened in public esteem when subjected to vicious unfair attacks by parties having an ulterior motive.

If those who rub soap on windows on Hallowe'en had to wash it off it would not be so funny.

RECITAL AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH, MUSICAL TREAT

One of the most unique and thoroughly pleasing recitals ever given in Pendleton was presented last evening at the Christian church by Harvey Hindemeyer and the Dunn Sisters. The recital was an artistic success in every respect, and The Warren Music Company is to be congratulated for securing these capable and charming artists for an appearance here.

It had been rumored that Harvey Hindemeyer would sing in unison with his re-created voice and that the audience would not be able to tell the difference between re-created and living voice. Needless to say, many persons were skeptical. Attempt to match that glorious voice with a device of mere wood and metal. Impossible! The skeptics were soon convinced, however, for, in Mr. Hindemeyer's initial number, on the program his lips ceased to move, but his song went on. Slowly it dawned on the mystified audience that the artist was no longer singing, though his voice came forth as clear and sweet as before. Again, he sang, but the audience only knew it was the living Harvey Hindemeyer by the motion of his lips. His authority stated today.

lips. It seemed as if there were two artists on the stage—two singers, but only one voice. The tones emanating from the New Edison were identical with those of the living artist, and it was impossible to detect any difference. The instrument produced not an ech or copy, but the real thing—Harvey Hindemeyer's voice, unimpaired by any mechanical transformations—unspoiled by any metallic ring.

After the applause which followed this "miracle" exhibition, the Dunn Sisters shared the stage with their fellow musicians, the New Edison. They sang in unison with the re-creation of their art. Only by watching them could one know when the living artists were being heard alone and when the music came in double measure. The re-creation was absolutely identical with the original in every particular.

Further numbers in which Harvey Hindemeyer and the Dunn Sisters performed with themselves impressed the conviction of one's inability to distinguish between re-created art and its original.
