The picture, if a suitable one is furnished, will be used as a cover for the publication. The request will be granted, according to a statement of Secretary C. L. Barr today.

Held for Assault

To beat a man with a water faucet when that man is down is not likely to cause anything more than a lot of trouble for the wielder of the faucet, is a belief held by J. R. McCarty who this afternoon was bound over to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. McCarty was arrested last night after he had beaten Nate Wright over the head with a heavy, hot water faucet. Wright was lying in his room at the Golden Rule hotel lying down, he says when McCarty entered and without any discussion, started decorating the top of Wright's head with the faucet. He made several wounds. The police arrested McCarty, and he was given his preliminary examination before Justice Joe H. Parkes this afternoon. His bond was set at $500.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

The merchants committee of the Commercial Association has approved the pending Salvation Army drive in Pendleton and the following statement in behalf of the army is by Erney Ernest L. Graves. "This year, with the approval of the merchants' committee of the Pendleton Commercial Association, the local Salvation Army places its appeal before the generous minded citizens of this community. The money so willingly given last year has been used economically and wisely for the benefit of the poor and unfortunate of our country. For the benefit of those worthy men we have made dimes do the work of dollars in alleviating sorrow and distress. We have endeavored to make the man who may be down but not out into a happy self respecting citizen. But our work must be curtailed unless your aid is both generous and prompt. With this object in view we are asking the people of Pendleton to assist in raising the sum of $2000 for the support of the work here for the next 12 months. And if this amount is raised it will enable our officers to eliminate the solicitation of funds in pool halls and cafes. And thus enable them to spend more time in visiting the homes of those in sorrow. Sickness or distress."

other national problem—additional relief for agriculture, which he dealt with together with other questions in the regular sessions beginning December 4th. "The subsidy problem cannot longer be delayed," Harding said, "it's attempted solution cannot longer be postponed. Congress failure to act decisively will be no less disastrous than an adverse action."

Harding challenged every insinuation of favored interests and enrichment of a special few at the expense of the public treasury, saying, "I am appealing to save the treasury." He cited tariffs, reclamation and other legislation calculated to aid industry, declaring the subsidy plan to be but a means of legislation to accord the shipping industry that government aid and recognition which other industries now enjoy in a different manner and varied measure. He made repeated mention of the losses to the treasury under the present plan and stressed the necessity of achieving sectional and party viewpoint, declaring United States commercial supremacy to be important to all sections alike.

"When the people fail in national viewpoint and live in the confines of community selfishness or narrowness, the sum of this republic will have passed the meridian and our larger aspirations will shrivel in the approaching twilight," Harding said. "Whatever view is taken, the blunt indisputable fact of $50,000,000 yearly loss under government operation remains."

Harding declared in addition that by partially wiping out this loss the bill offers the only dependable promise of making our wartime ship inheritance a foundation for a great commercial agency in peace, and an added guarantee of service in national defense. He opposed the repeal of such laws as La Follette's seaman's act, designed to raise the standard of labor on American ships, saying that "mercantile justice" demanded their continuance until all the world had been brought to the same level. The shipping interest contended these laws make it impossible to compete with foreign marine.

ested in tax reform and are behind Pierce in any constructive effort he may make along that line and therefore are inclined to heed Pierce's wishes regarding candidates for legislative organization. Moser is not liked by the Eastern Oregon men and they are out against him. By the admission of Eddy's friends as well as by the contention of the Eastern Oregonians, Eddy still has some 10 or 11 votes. The Eddy group consists of Eddy, Stapler, Joseph, Hare, Nickelson, Garland, Mrs. Kinney, who has said she will make the 16th vote and Toomey of Marion, who have said they would get behind the Eddy candidacy for keeps if, and when, he could show 13 signed, sealed and delivered pledges. On the other hand, Brown and La Follette have indicated that they would swing over to the Eastern Oregon column should Eddy fail to raise the 13 solid votes.

All in all, it is a very badly tangled proposition and one that may stay that way for several days, for all hands seem determined to sit tight for the time being, at least, each trying to pry a vote loose from the other here and there or to hang on until somebody gets tired and the ultimate break starts for the band wagon.

GIRL NOW WELL AND STRONG

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M. BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.
