SOCIETY HAS MEETING

Bishop Frank H. Tourret, of Idaho, brought to the members of the Union Missionary Society yesterday a message of encouragement to church women in his address "The Rural Sunday School."

"Any methods used in the city Sunday school can be successfully applied to the rural schools," he said. "The five requisites to success under the Christian nurture plan are information, memory, church loyalty, devotional life and Christian service." Bishop Tourret is an inspired speaker and those who attended the meeting declare it was the best in the history of the society.

The society planned a Christmas pageant which will be given by all the pupils of the various Sunday schools of Pendleton, for the benefit of Armenian relief. Another important decision was the establishment of a night school at Bethel, with Mrs. Charles Gerking in charge. Mrs. T. H. Rembolt sang, and also led the group singing. During the social hour, Mrs. Charles H. Marsh, president of the society, poured.

CLEMENCEAU PROVEN NEWSPAPER WRITER

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(A. P.)—Georges Clemenceau, one of the foremost journalists in France, got his first experience as a newspaper man during his sojourn in the United States between 1865 and 1869.

Throughout his residence in America Clemenceau sent contributions to the "Temps," "Letters from America" they were called, and they dealt with all the foremost questions of the day. His articles on the future of the negro race in the United States, written two years after the end of the Civil War, are a model of style and show a clear understanding of this complex problem. They set forth the difficulties and the dangers besetting the relations of the white and colored races in the United States.

Clemenceau wrote them after an extensive tour of the South, and he drew a vivid picture of conditions in that then devastated area. Admirable literary documents, displaying democratic tendencies, political foresight and large philosophical ideas, they show on the part of this young man of twenty-seven nearly all the qualities of the remarkable old man of today.

A New York editor, after Clemenceau's fall from power in 1909, asked him to write a book on America. "It is already written," replied Clemenceau. "Just look through the 'Temps' files for 1867 and 1868."

LONDON MOVIE STARS RESENT ENCROACHERS

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(G. N. S.)—London is rapidly becoming a suburb of Los Angeles, and the British film world, in no uncertain manner, is telling the public that it doesn't like having its jobs grabbed by American "stars."

Unemployed American film actresses, actors, producers, photographers, scenario writers, publicity experts, scene shifters—in fact, the whole miscellaneous collection of workers connected with the movies—are coming across the Atlantic in increasing numbers. The British film industry, however, is in distress on account of unemployment.

British players protest that the Americans make themselves ridiculous trying to adopt a natural British pose when acting.

THEATRES

VAUDEVILLE IN DEMAND
Hirschhorn's Swiss Song Birds are the headline attraction that will appear at this popular temple of amusement. Three young and talented females with an abundance of golden hair and a male singer comprise this quartette, beautifully costumed with special scenery showing the Alps in Switzerland which adds to the offering consisting of harmony songs, godeling numbers, accompanied by the sweet tones of the melodious zither.

Their harmony and vocaling numbers are presented with rich, mellow voices which harmonize perfectly, and one will imagine himself in the mountains of Switzerland. Jack King, a happy-go-lucky boy with an everlasting smile which makes him welcome and at home with any audience, presents a new budget of songs and impersonations of some of the largest stars of the past, present and future, such as Johnson, David Warfield, Eddie Cantor and others. He is also an author of many popular song hits. Russell & Hill in "Dispensers of Mirth," a comedy singing, talking and dancing offering, will furnish entertainment with their many songs and dramatic steps, executed in a graceful manner illustrated in the poetry of motion. The Fitzgerald Duo, an athletic pair of novelty wonders in barrel jumping, chair balancing and other gymnastic feats which show ability and steady practice.

RIVOLI TODAY

The old grinch next door. Everybody knows him—or thinks they know him. But they don't—or he wouldn't be the old grinch next door. He's eccentric and mean and cranky—and won't let the children run across his lawn. All in all he's just about the worst neighbor it is possible to imagine. And yet sweet by all that is holy that if his house burned down and you could save him, you'd let the old crank reside in the flames. Just you wouldn't. You just think so. That's just what Christine Trevor always said she would do. Then one night came the test. The fireman house caught fire. The old man, a hopeless invalid, the only one

His cry for help shrieked above the roar of the flames. There was no indecision—no hesitation—Christine Trevor—the little spoiled flapper, who never did a willing favor for anyone in her eighteen spoiled years, ran into the blazing house. A little girl, dragging a prostrate form of an old grouch, came out just as the fire engines stopped in front.
