AUXILIARY PLEDGES AID TO LEGION MEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 18.—The American Legion Auxiliary is of primary importance to the American Legion's plans for civic and patriotic legislation because women now have the ballot. Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, president of the auxiliary, told 45 state adjutants of the Legion at the opening session of their recent conference there.

"Old-line politicians have found that they must deal with women these days and it is not the most pleasant news in the world to them. Women are especially interested in those broad measures which are designed to work toward the betterment of the social state of humanity. The Legion can rely on the Auxiliary to the limit for the furtherance of these purposes."

Dr. Barrett stated that she was for adjusted compensation for reserve men "first, last and all the time."

Service to veterans, cooperation with other organizations in civic and worthy enterprises and effective propaganda were named by Claude A. Brown of Little Rock, adjutant of the Arkansas department, as the "best tools" in an address on "How to Sell the American Legion to the Public." Mr. Brown said that "publicity is the T. N. T. of the American Legion" and urged that the Legion establish closer relations with the newspapers of their communities. The speaker praised the American Legion speakers' bureau as an effective medium to bring the Legion's message to the public.

Father William P. O'Connor, Legion national chaplain, recommended a concentrated effort to enroll every chaplain in the Legion, stating that the great influence wielded by the clergy would result in a great increase in Legion membership.

"The small community is the backbone of the Legion," Perry Faulkner, commander of the Indiana department, stated in an address of welcome to the visiting adjutants. He urged that every ex-service man be enrolled in the various communities and stated that the Legion state adjutants were the persons who did the real work for the Legion.

A visit to national headquarters of the Legion and a dinner and theatre party held by the Indianapolis chamber of commerce completed the program for the adjutants for the first day of the conference.

WANT TOKIO PALACE FOR PRINCE REGENT

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—(A. P.)—The younger officials of the Household department are advocating a plan to make the Alhambra detached palace, where the Prince of Wales resided, a permanent dwelling for the Prince Regent. They propose to remodel this palace along lines similar to Buckingham Palace, appropriating half of it for the Regent's use and the other half for reception of guests. A Japanese building would be added for Princess Nagako and her attendants.

The older officials think that although the Palace was intended by Emperor Meiji for the Crown Prince, the Kasumikagaki Palace, where the Regent now lives, is more suited to his wishes for simplicity and example of economy to the people.
