An employee of Gilliland Construction, 80601 N. Ott Road, Hermiston, reported at 12:08 p.m. a former employee took a Pacific Pride gas card registered to the business and has since charged $4,000 to the card. The caller requested contact with a Umatilla County sheriff's deputy.

A resident of Joy Lane and North Highway 395 reported to the Umatilla County Sheriff's Office at 2:44 p.m. that several people were dumping garbage into his waste container. The caller said he had license plate numbers, addresses and phone numbers of the suspects.

THURSDAY

A man called the Umatilla County Sheriff's Office at 11:31 a.m. to report a welder stolen from his father's shop on Phillips Road, Milton-Freewater. He requested a deputy contact a possible suspect, who was the last person to use the shop.

A resident of East Ridgeway Avenue, Hermiston, reported her son's green Toyota Tacoma stolen sometime the previous night at 2:05 p.m. A Umatilla County sheriff's deputy took a theft report.

The Umatilla County Sheriff's Office investigated the reported theft of a tablet computer, ring, watch and other items from a home on Oro Street, Adams. The homeowner reported the theft at 2:37 p.m. and named a suspect.

A caller at 3:07 p.m. reported hearing two large booms within the last 15 minutes, "louder than fireworks and for sure not gunfire." The caller said he thought the noise came from the Wagon Wheel Loop area, Irrigon. Morrow County sheriff's deputies were unable to locate the source of the explosions.

Pendleton police at 7:44 p.m. received a report from a resident of Pillars Motel, 1816 S.E. Court Ave., who said she received a call from a Ray Glover, whom neither she nor her husband knew. When she told the caller she was going to hang up, he reportedly said, "That would be a very bad idea." At 8:41 p.m., Pendleton police received a call from a resident of Southwest Nye Avenue who said she had been getting calls from a man named Doug at the Pillars Hotel, asking for her, but she does not know anyone by that name or anyone staying at the motel. # Missing American found dead in Mexican mountains

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — Searchers on Friday found the body of an American man who had been missing in the rugged mountains in central Mexico since going on a hike four days ago.

Carlos Mandujano, the civil defense coordinator for Morelos state, said a search team found the lifeless body of Hari Simran Singh Khalsa, 25.

He was found in one of the narrow gorges or ravines that crisscross the rugged mountains in the colonial town of Tepoztlan, not far from where he was last seen in a picture of himself that he sent by cellphone.

"He has been found, but unfortunately, dead," Mandujano said. "We don't know the cause of death yet; that will be determined by the autopsy."

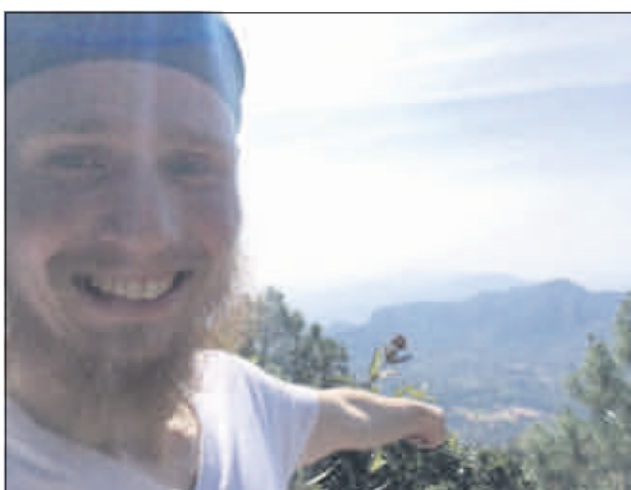

Khalsa's family and friends said in a statement later that he apparently died from a fall. "He appears to have fallen while hiking and sustained a fatal injury to the head," it said.

While helicopters and hundreds of police and rescue workers combed the craggy mountains and cliffs around Tepoztlan this week, it appears Khalsa never went very far.

The body "was in the same wooded area, but the thing is that it is very rough terrain," Mandujano said.

The search began Tuesday after Khalsa didn't return from going on a hike in Tepoztlan, about an hour south of Mexico City, with only a T-shirt, shorts, and little food and water, said his wife, Ad Purkh Kaur.

Tepoztlan that her husband was a yoga instructor born and raised in Brooklyn. The couple have been living in Leesburg, Virginia, but were planning to move back to Brooklyn at the end of the month.

Kaur, whose legal name is Emily Smith, said she and her husband arrived in Tepoztlan for a yoga retreat Dec. 26.

Tepoztlan, a frequent weekend getaway for Mexico City residents, is known for the towering, whimsically shaped cliffs and mountain peaks that tower over the colonial town on the valley floor.

Kaur said she heard from her husband at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, when he sent a picture of himself on a mountain top pointing to the site of the yoga retreat, with the message: "Looking down on you!"

She last heard from him about two hours after that, when he sent a text message.

"I accidentally summited another mountain," he wrote, Kaur said. "Looks like I'll be a little later coming back. Save me some lunch if you can."

Kaur said her husband was an experienced hiker who was just getting into backcountry hiking, though she said he didn't have much survival training as far as she knew.

"He hasn't done a lot of overnight hikes, or a lot of backcountry hikes," she said before his body was found. "He has gone on accidental overnight hikes before and had to come down the next day ... He's very adventurous and strong and smart and capable."

Mom, boyfriend plead not guilty in death of girl

ASTORIA (AP) — The mother of a 2-year-old girl who died Dec. 20 at a Seaside home has been indicted and jailed in connection with the girl's death.

After a grand jury indictment, officers arrested Dorothy Wing, 24, this week on charges of murder by abuse, manslaughter and criminal mistreatment.

Her live-in boyfriend, Randy Lee Roden, 26, was previously arrested on an aggravated murder charge.

Both appeared in court Friday and pleaded not guilty, the Daily Astorian reported.

Evangelina Wing would have turned 3 in January. An autopsy showed she died of blunt-force trauma.

Emergency crews responded to a 911 call that the child was not breathing, but she was dead when they arrived.

Police have not said who placed the call or if a weapon was used to kill the girl.

Wing's two sons, ages 5 and 2, were hospitalized with injuries and placed in state custody, police said. Authorities haven't described their injuries or conditions.

Roden is also charged with several counts of sex abuse, unlawful sexual penetration and other crimes related to subjecting the girl to sexual contact by touching.

Roden was arrested in 2012 in a domestic violence case involving a different woman, records show. He was charged with crimes such as sex abuse, strangulation, kidnapping and unlawful sexual penetration before ultimately pleading no contest to coercion and serving about 10 months. He was released in January 2014.

The aggravated murder charge could carry the death penalty.
