Bank donation feeds Altrusa project

Altrusa International of Pendleton's Feed the Child program received a recent boost.

A charity drive held during the holiday season at the Pendleton branch of Community Bank resulted in a donation to the project that sends food home with needy students. Randee Bronson, branch manager, recently presented a check for $336.31 to Janet Loughary, Altrusa's project coordinator, for Feed the Child.

Money was donated by bank customers and employees, which was then matched by 50 cents per dollar by Community Bank as part of its annual charity drive pro-

Altrusa's Feed the Child project serves all nine schools in the Pendleton School District. It currently provides food bags for 160 students each week. In addition to the food provided, the Altrusa Literacy Committee includes a book once a month for students in kindergarten though fifth grades to feed their "stomachs and minds," Loughary said.

Watch for more information about an upcoming wine and brew tasting event that will help raise money for the project. For more information about Feed the Child, contact jeptloughary@msn.com.

Sunset Apartments receive cash, clean-up help

Sunset Senior Apartments in Athena received help with the project through donation of time and money.

YOUR EO NEWS

The donations assisted with the completion of a 4-unit handicap accessible addition

According to Tim Albert, board chairman of Sunset Housing, Inc., the project is appreciative of the efforts of Ashley Florence and her landscaping class at Weston-McEwen High School. They volunteered time for bark distribution and general property clean-up.

Also, the Watts Memorial Trust made a donation and an Awere Grant provided needed funds for a security

The new unit includes one bedroom apartments that are fully handicapped-accessible and furnished with dishwasher, clothes washer/dryer, patio, storage room, central heat/air with access to on-site mail delivery and Community Room. It's located at the corner of South Fifth and East Currant streets in downtown Athena.
