Giavotella's double lifts Angels

By JOE RESNICK

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Johnny Giavotella hit an RBI double in the ninth inning and Mike Trout homered, leading the Los Angeles Angels to a 4-3 victory over Seattle on Wednesday night and their second walk-off win in a row over the Mariners.

One night after Carlos Perez punctuated his major league debut with a home run in the bottom of the ninth against Dominic Leone, Giavotella got his first career game-ending hit. It scored Erick Aybar, who bunted into a force play after David Freese drew a leadoff walk from Carson Smith (0-2) and was replaced by pinch-runner Taylor Featherston.

Huston Street (2-0) was credited with the win after his first blown save in 10 opportunities this season. He gave up a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Dustin Ackley in the top of the ninth.

Angels' left-hander C.J. Wilson pitched seven innings, allowing two runs and seven hits while striking out four and walking none. It was the fifth time in his first six starts he held an opponent to fewer than three runs.

Wilson, who beat the Mariners 2-0 in his season debut April 7 at Seattle with eight innings of two-hit ball, handed a 3-2 lead to the bullpen.

Seattle lefty Roenis Elias gave up three runs and six hits in seven innings in his third start since joining the rotation following Hisashi Iwakuma's injured right shoulder.

The Angels took a 3-0 lead in the third with three consecutive one-out hits — a triple by No. 9 hitter Collin Cowgill, a double by Kole Calhoun and Trout's seventh homer, which cleared the trees in center field by plenty and was estimated at 441 feet.

Kyle Seager, who was 3 for 37 against Wilson coming into his second at-bat of the night, got two runs back in the fourth with his third homer after a one-out single by Robinson Cano. Until then, Wilson had allowed one home run in his first 36 1-3 innings this season.

Freese made two nice plays at third base in the seventh. He charged in to cut off Logan Morrison's leadoff grounder toward shortstop before throwing him out, then made a diving catch of a line drive toward the hole by Justin Ruggiano.

One batter later, Trout made a sensational diving grab in right-center against Chris Taylor that had Giavotella jumping up and down.

Oregon adds veteran guard

Albany Democrat-Herald

EUGENE — Oregon coach Dana Altman solidified his backcourt for the coming season with the announcement that Dylan Ennis would join the program as a graduate transfer.

Ennis, a 6-foot-2 point guard from Brampton, Ontario, played for Villanova the past two seasons.

He announced his decision on Twitter on Wednesday afternoon: "Officially an Oregon Duck!"

Ennis also visited Baylor and Illinois as he explored his graduate transfer options.

During the 2014-15 season, Ennis started all 36 games for the Wildcats, who earned a No. 1 in the NCAA tournament. Ennis averaged 9.9 points and 3.5 assists per game for the team, which went 33-3 before falling to North Carolina State in the round of 32.

Ennis played in 30 games in the 2013-14 seasons, all as a reserve, averaging 5.1 points and 1.7 rebounds per game.

He is the older brother of Milwaukee Bucks guard Tyler Ennis, who entered the NBA draft after his freshman season at Syracuse.

Dylan Ennis signed with Rice University out of high school. He was named to the Conference USA All-Freshman Team after averaging 8.5 points per game for the Owls.

PENDLETON 6, THE DALLES 2 — At Pendleton, the Buckaroos took losses in the top matches but still managed a league duel victory over the Riverhawks Wednesday.

For just the second time this season and this second this week, sisters Keziah and Keren Hampton fell in doubles play. They lost for the first time this season in a tournament in Bend. This time it was Anna Miller and Johanna Wilson who did the deed. The pair were out for blood after a narrow loss earlier in the season and a district dismissal last year. They beat the Hampton sisters 6-3, 6-2 using an aggressive attacking style that centered around net play.

"I think they came in hunting for bear," Pendleton coach Rocky Dillenburg said. "They deserved to win."

Marisa Cianci of The Dalles dispatched of another Buckaroo top-singles contender, beating Meagan Flanagan 6-4, 6-4. She defeated fellow Italian exchange student Matilde Cittadini in The Dalles last month. Cittadini defeated Robin Pashek 6-4, 6-4 in the No. 2 match.

Pendleton swept the remainder of the singles and doubles matches. Only the No. 3 doubles tilt between Sam Bixler and Jenna Senter of Pendleton and Rebekah Kohltfaber and Ellie Trojillo of The Dalles required more than two sets.

The Buckaroos play next on Monday in Hermiston. The district tournament is set for March 15-16 in Hermiston.

KNIGHTS: Both players to become first in family to attend college

out of a small school," Landeros said by phone Wednesday. "Coaches can't overlook us."

Doing so seemed unfathomable to many, Romero said. Growing up former Knight ball players dismissed his dreams to become the first, calling it "impossible."

"I remember being in eighth grade people saying that you couldn't do it. I just took it as a challenge," Romero said.

"(I'm) incredibly proud of their dedication in the classroom and the hardwood," Irrigon coach Mitch Thompson said.

The connections won't stop there. When the pair set foot on the respective college campuses this fall, they'll be the first to represent their families as college students.

Romero plans to study physical therapy.

"I just feel extremely proud," said Romero, who was the Class 2A state Player of the Year the last two seasons. "All of my life my parents pushed me to go to college. Eventually that became my dream as well and now I've reached it."

As brothers to younger siblings, they each hope to provide the carrot on the string for further college admission.

"I hope it gives her a want," Romero said of his 13 year-old sister Jazlyn.

"I hope it shows them that

Landeros

your dreams can come true," added Landeros, who has a younger sister Arianna (16) and brother Alex (12).

Landeros' relationship with the Timberwolves basketball program goes back three years. As a sophomore, the 5-foot-10 guard participated in open gyms in Pendleton put on by the T-Wolves staff. This spring following yet another championship season, Landeros once again played in front of BMCC head coach Adam Ellis. His play was to the veteran coach's liking.

Ellis extended the opportunity to play for BMCC, and after Landeros weighed his other options with coach Mitch Thompson, the T-Wolves were the clear choice.

"I felt something with Blue Mountain," he said of the NWAC school. "I just think it's going to work really well."

Landeros was drawn to the fact that Pendleton is within driving distance of his hometown.

"I didn't want to go too far away and be by myself, that might kind of overwhelm me," he said.

That's one place where the two's decision varies. Romero embraced the opportunity to attend college in Portland. A campus visit in March sealed the deal.

"I've been here my whole life I wanted to get out and explore. Portland is a place that gives you the chance to do more," he explained. "I loved the campus. Right when I walked on I was like I could live there."

Lewis and Clark competes in the Northwest Conference in the NCAA D-III level. They finished 16-11 this season and 10-6 in conference play. Connections with Pioneer coaching staff Dinari Foreman and Joe Schaumburg clinched things.

"When they talked to me. They were real. They didn't sugar coat it for me. I thought 'these could be friends,'" Romero said.

Romero and Landeros brought Irrigon its second banner on March 7 with a 65-53 victory over Toledo. It was the exclamation mark to four special years together.

"I've been playing with him since seventh grade," Romero said. "Our chemistry has always been there. We always know where the other is going to be. That connection won't be there. I hope to create more connections like that with other guys."
