BANKS: Currencies trade nearly 24 hours a day, seven days a week

combined $2.5 billion in criminal penalties for manipulation of currency rates between 2007 and 2013. The Federal Reserve is slapping them with an additional $1.6 billion in fines. Finally, Britain's Barclays is paying an additional $1.3 billion to British and U.S. regulators.

A fifth bank, Switzerland's UBS - which was scrutinized years earlier in a similar scheme — has agreed to plead guilty to manipulating key interest rates and will pay a separate criminal penalty of $203 million.

"Having to enter into a guilty plea, at the parent level by a major financial institution, is not something that they enter into lightly, nor is it something they enter into with any great joy in their hearts," Attorney General Loretta Lynch said.

All told, including an agreement announced last year, the group of banks will pay nearly $9 billion in fines for manipulating the $5.3 trillion currency market.

Attorney General Loretta Lynch, accompanied by Assistant Attor-ney General Bill Baer, Antitrust Division, speaks during a news conference at the Justice Department in Washington, Wednesday, where is was announced that four big banks will pay $2.5 billion in fines and plead guilty to criminally manipulating global currency market going back to 2007.

Still, JPMorgan Chase had $4.1 billion in revenue from its fixed income and currencies business in guilty to wrongdoing. Even in the first quarter of this year alone, while Citi had $3.48 billion.

It is rare to see a bank plead the aftermath of the meltdown, most financial companies reached "non-prosecution agreements" or "deferred prosecution agreements" with regulators, agreeing to pay tens of billions in fines but not admitting any guilt. If any wrongdoing was acknowledged, it was usually by one of the bank's subsidiaries or divisions, not the overall company.

An earlier case against UBS underscores the difficulty of deterring banks from bad behavior.

In 2012, the bank admitted manipulating interest rates and signed a non-prosecution agreement with the Justice Department. But after it became clear that UBS was involved in currency rate manipulation, the government tore up that agreement and imposed new penalties.

"Unlike the other banks, UBS has a 'rap sheet' that simply cannot be ignored," said Leslie Caldwell, head of the Justice Department's criminal division. "Enough simply is enough."

UBS said it received partial immunity from the currency market charges by being the first bank to report the corruption to the Justice Department and cooperate.

Unlike stocks and bonds, currencies trade nearly 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The market pauses two times a day, a moment known as "the fix." Traders in the cartel allegedly shared client orders with rivals ahead of the "fix" and pumped up currency rates to make profits.

Global companies do business in multiple currencies and rely on their banks to give them the closest thing to an official exchange rate each day. The banks are supposed to be looking out for them. Travelers who regularly exchange currencies also need to get a fair price for their euros or dollars.

The number of traders who took part in the currency fixing was small. JPMorgan said it has fired one trader. Citi said it dismissed nine employees. Barclays has fired eight employees tied to "The Cartel," according to New York regulators.

The banks have agreed to help prosecutors investigate individuals who took part in the rigging.

Naked and Afraid: Pop-Up Edition

DISC 10:00 p.m.

Luke from sunny SoCal is paired with survival instructor Alyssa in this new episode. Together, they face dehydration, hunger and dangerous animals as they take on the coast of the Yucatan. This special edition features fun and interesting facts.

Beat Bobby Flav

FOOD 10:00 p.m.

Two more eager chefs battle for a chance to take out legendary chef Bobbly Flay. Musician and chef Eugene Jones is up against rising star Christopher Wall in the first round, which features an ingredient chosen by Flay.

The Comedians

FX 10:00 p.m.

It's Billy's (Billy Crystal) birthday and Josh (Josh Gad) takes him out to celebrate in this new episode. This comedy stars Crystal and Gad as fictionalized versions of themselves, who struggle to find common ground as the stars of a new TV show.

Lost in Transmission

HIST 10:05 p.m.

A 1964 Ford F100 has been at the mercy of the elements for four years, but that doesn't deter Rutledge and George. Cameras capture the action as the car fanatics attempt to transform the bug-infested vehicle into a sweet ride.
