Children's Museum closed during renovation project

By TAMMY MALGESINI
East Oregonian

The Children's Museum of Eastern Oregon is working on its Roads to Discovery Project.

With the project including replacing the flooring, the museum is closed through Saturday, Sept. 19.

The new flooring will feature a new educational feature. The damaged carpeting is being replaced with an industrial durable tile that will simulate a roadway to the exhibits in the museum.

Some sections of the flooring will display what is under the road. Those sections will include a presentation of pipes and geological displays for children to explore.

"The new industrial durable tile provides the best option for durability, cleanliness and cost, while still leaving room for creativity," said Executive Director Heidi Anderson.

The project opens up approximately 5,000 square feet for the museum to further utilize as an educational feature. The idea is to teach children about their surroundings, Anderson said. Staff at the museum hope the new feature sparks an inherent curiosity in visitors to discover and explore what is around them.

The project is made possible through help from a number of foundations, including the Pendleton Foundation Trust, Union Pacific Foundation and Northwest Farm Credit Services.

The Children's Museum magnifies the power of play, and how it goes hand-in-hand with learning and development. The unique facility offers a place for children and adults to grow and play together.

The museum's regular hours are Monday through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It's located at 400 S. Main St., Pendleton. Regular admission for those without memberships is $4. In addition, admission is free on the first and third Tuesday of each month for Terrifically Free Tuesday.

A grand re-opening celebration and thank you to the foundations will be held in conjunction with the museum's annual block party. The event is Friday, Oct. 2 from 4-7 p.m. in the 400 block of Main Street, Pendleton. The event features kids carnival games, bouncy houses, face painting and live music.
