Raw sewage spills into Willamette River in Albany

ALBANY (AP) — The city of Albany says its contractors accidentally last week sent about 3,000 gallons of raw sewage into the Willamette River downstream of Bowman Park.

The city announced the spill on Friday. It happened Wednesday as workers were cleaning and doing maintenance on the sewer system in the area.

The Democrat Herald reports that workers dislodged plugs in old sewer lines that drain into the river, releasing sewage for about two to three hours.

City wastewater superintendent Kristin Preston says crews immediately plugged the old lines to prevent more sewage from spilling. Signs have been posted to warn the public of potential hazards of coming in contact with the water.

The city says bacteria that may have entered the river should be flushed out of the area within a few days.

Man accidentally shoots self while showing off gun

MEDFORD (AP) — A Medford man has been arrested after he accidentally shot himself in the hand while trying to show his revolver to a convenience store clerk.

The Mail Tribune reports that the 22-year-old was charged with carrying a concealed handgun without a permit and two counts of endangerment.

Police say the man was carrying his loaded revolver in the same pocket as his wallet. When he went to the 7-Eleven counter Saturday evening, he had to pull out the gun in order to pay. Police say the clerk commented on how nice the gun was, and the man tried to unload it so the clerk could get a better look.

When the man unloaded the gun, it discharged into his hand, sending a bullet by the clerk's head.

Driver of 1969 Corvette dies in rollover

CHILOQUIN (AP) — Oregon State Police say a man died when he lost control of his 1969 Chevrolet Corvette while trying to pass slower traffic on Highway 97 north of Chiloquin in Klamath County.

Lt. Bill Fugate says the car rolled multiple times, ejecting the driver — 64-year-old Robert Johnson of Bend. He died at the scene late Sunday afternoon.

Johnson was alone in the car, and no other vehicles got caught up in the crash.

The investigation remains active, but police say speed was a contributing factor.

Highway 97 was closed for 30 minutes and reduced to one lane for several hours.

Officers say man choked police dog

SALEM (AP) — Authorities in Salem say a man was arrested for choking a police dog nearly to the point of unconsciousness.

Salem Police Sgt. Tony Moore says the man was treated for dog bites Saturday, and the dog was taken to a veterinary hospital.

The incident began when officers responded to reports of a man acting strange and going up to houses. Officers arrived and learned the man had an arrest warrant.

Moore tells the Statesman Journal that the man fled and was chased by a police dog. The man fought the dog until three officers were able to subdue him.

Officer Debbie Aguilar says the dog, Duke, received no major injuries.

Reports of Oregon elder abuse rise as population ages

SALEM (AP) — Oregon is seeing an increase in reports of abuse of the elderly as the population of older Oregonians continues to grow and people get better about reporting.

A state report issued last week found a 10-percent increase in the number of investigations conducted into the abuse and mistreatment of vulnerable people. That includes older adults and people with disabilities.

Some of the increase is due to more reporting, researcher Joe Merrifield of the Oregon Office of Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations told the Statesman Journal.

In 2014, more than 38,000 cases of possible abuse were reported, up from 35,000 in 2013. In both years, the most common type of abuses were financial exploitation and neglect. The number of cases that were investigated rose 10 percent to 18,185.

Many of the abuse reports come from people such as bankers and financial service workers who are not required by law to report suspected abuse. Census data shows that since 2010, more than 50,000 Oregon residents have turned 65 annually, Merrifield said. The annual growth of aging baby boomers is expected to continue for another decade, adding nearly 300,000 older adults to the state's population.

"Obviously, not everyone over 65 is vulnerable," Merrifield said. "Many are living longer, healthier lives, but it's likely we'll continue to see an increase in the number of cases reported as well as the number of cases investigated and the number of vulnerable adults abused as a result."

Rebecca Fetters, the quality assurance and prevention coordinator at OAAPI, said financial exploitation tends to be more common in the community, where vulnerable adults might be isolated in their homes and not have family or other social support systems nearby.
