Health fair offers free screenings

Teddy Bear Clinic returns after two-year hiatus

By TAMMY MALGESINI
East Oregonian

The popular Teddy Bear Clinic is seeing patients again.

After a two-year hiatus, kids can again have their teddy bears diagnosed as the Teddy Bear Clinic takes patients during the S.E.A. of Health, which offers free medical screenings and health activities.

Sponsored by Good Shepherd Medical Center, S.E.A. stands for Screening, Education, Awareness. The free event is Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Hermiston Conference Center, 415 S. Highway 395.

The Teddy Bear clinic provides a simulation of what it's like to go to the hospital. Kids will take their stuffed animal through the steps of being admitted — from having a identification wrist band attached, medical testing, diagnosis and discharge. The exercise assists in reducing anxiety that sometimes accompanies a child's visit to the doctor.

All vendors will provide a health screening and/or health and wellness education and information. S.E.A. of Health features health screenings, one-on-one interaction and coaching with healthcare providers. Also, you won't want to miss opportunities to engage in exercises and learn more about healthy cooking.

"The goal is to provide a variety of screening opportunities for people of all ages, as well as important health information in a fun, relaxed setting," said Ina Abercrombie, Good Shepherd's health & safety coordinator.

Everything from blood pressure checks and dental screenings to colorectal cancer screening kits to virtual dementia tours are included during the event. Participants can get vision exams by Casey Eye Institute and hearing exams by Hermiston Hearing Center.

Diabetes information and foot checks will be provided by the hospital's diabetes educators and a Good Shepherd occupational therapist will share fall prevention information. There also will be cardiac risk assessments, skin cancer checks, BMI & body composition analysis and lung function testings.

Representatives from Domestic Violence Services will present In Her Shoes, a domestic violence simulation exercise. And representatives from the Senior Health Insurance Benefits Assistance program and the Oregon Health Plan will be on hand. In addition, information about veteran's benefits will be available.

People can gain additional information from healthcare professionals during Ask a Medical Question and Ask a Pharmacist. Also, mental health professionals will provide depression and suicide screening.

For more information, contact Abercrombie at 541-667-3472 or iabercrombie@gshealth.org.

The free event is Saturday from 11 a.m. to noon at the Pendleton Public Library, 502 S.W. Dorion Ave. Those attending are encouraged to wear costumes.

For more information, call 541-966-0380.

Film shares about Red Tent movement

PENDLETON — An award-winning documentary film that shares about the Red Tent movement will be screened in Pendleton.

"Things We Don't Talk About: Women's Stories from the Red Tent," is a 72-minute movie that chronicles The Red Tent movement, which is changing the way women interact and support each other.

The screening is Saturday at 4 p.m. in Pioneer Hall Room P132 at Blue Mountain Community College, 2411 N.W. Carden Ave., Pendleton. The suggested donation is $5-$20. A $25 donation provides entrance to the movie, Woman's Way Red Lodge membership, a music CD and a chance to win a copy of the film.

The event serves as a fundraiser for Woman's Way Red Lodge, a nonprofit group that seeks positive change in communities. For more information about the group, visit www.womanswayredlodge.org. For more about the movie, visit www.redtentmovie.com.

Seniors host Halloween dance

PENDLETON — For a chance to win prizes and have fun during a Halloween dance, people of all ages are invited to attend the Pendleton Senior Center event.

Costumes are optional for the Sunday dance. People can kick up their heels from 1-4 p.m. at the center, 510 S.W. 10th St., Pendleton. The cost is $3.50 for dancers and $2.50 for non-dancers. Those who attend are asked to bring finger foods to share.

Lexington Grange throws pumpkin picking party

The event is Sunday from 1-4 p.m. at 66296 Marquardt Road, Lexington. The cost is $5. The event also includes pumpkin bowling, haystack diving, candy corn bean bag toss, boo bowling and more.

There will be chances to win prizes and, of course, candy. Adults can enter to win a fall-themed basket.
