Scarecrow comes to life

A living scarecrow won the best of show during the Oct. 10 Scarecrows on Main event in Echo.

Daniel McClintock, who won a trophy and $50 cash for his efforts, moved as people walked up to him.

“He became a star attraction for people touring the scarecrows, after they recovered from the scare,” said City Administrator Diane Berry.

The Echo Boosters and Gathered Over Time hosted the second annual scarecrow contest. Other first place categories received $25 and other places received ribbons.

The rest of the winners included:

Adult: Connie Fisher, winery; Cindy Jewell and Mark Enright, Echo firefighter “Justin Waiting for a Call,” and H & P Café, skeleton scarecrow.

Best Display: Phyllis Shovelski, “A Sleep on the Job.”

Most Artistic: Echo Station, wooden scarecrow; Melissa MacPherson, “Miley Cyrus and Nicki Minaj.”

Kids: Valen & Kohlvin Wyse, “Leaning on Potato Fork;” Charlei Harwood, “Uptown Girl;” Michele Ryan children, child scarecrow in PJs; Charlei Harwood, cowboy.

Honorable Mention: Sam Wyse, Pingpong ball scarecrow.

The scarecrows remain on display through October in Echo.

Perdas and Hyder sew up people’s choice awards

Marian Perdas of Hermiston and Kathy Hyder of Boardman received people’s choice awards during the 11th annual Boardman Quilt Show, held Oct. 9-10 at the Boardman Senior Center.

Perdas’ piece was a yellow and black quilt with heritage chicken scratch embellishment, while Hyder’s was a red and tan primo star quilt.

The display included 74 exhibits from quilters from Oregon and Washington. The featured quilter was Marge Shankle of Boardman. Organizers were pleased that more than 200 people attended the show.

Another special feature was an exhibit of Quilts of Valor coordinated by J. Marie Norris of Pendleton. On Saturday afternoon of the event, a striking Quilt of Valor was presented to Korean War veteran Melvin Bozarth of Hermiston.

“We felt so fortunate to be able to host this presentation” said Kathy Morgan, show chairwoman.

With no fabric stores in Morrow County, show attendees enjoyed regional vendors who set up for the event. Marilyn and Ben Dalstra of The Sewing Basket in Prosser, Sherry Linoff of Fabric 108 in Kennewick and Cindy and Lewis Webb of Thimbles & More in Pendleton brought new fabrics, patterns and notions to share with local quilters.

This fun show was made possible by many volunteers, including Barb Hemnes, Mildred Baker, Pat Miller, Ron, Kathy and Sonja Morgan, Quentin, Malaki and Aubrianna Johnson, Drake Bingaman, Marsha and George Condie, Keziah and Tegan Birt, Sandy Moroney, Marie Cornell, Kathy Hyder, Glenda and Tammy Bozarth, Nancy Pace, Carol Michael and Cheryl Tallman. And special thanks to Auntie Ida’s Quilt Shop in Hermiston for being a drop-off point for quilts.

The 2016 Boardman Quilt Show is scheduled for Oct. 7-8 at the Boardman Senior Center. Anyone interested is invited to join the Boardman Quilt Group Mondays at 9 a.m. at the Boardman Senior Center, 100 Tatone St., Boardman.

Wildhorse players represent in Vegas

More than 2,000 players participated throughout the summer as Wildhorse Resort & Casino held a series of qualifying slot tournaments leading up to the Aug. 29 finale of the One Million Dollar TourEvent of Champions.

Glenn Lambert of Boise took first place and Beverly Poe of La Grande placed second. Both won all-expense paid trips to Las Vegas, accommodations at the Wynn Resort and their chance to play for $1,000,000 in the National TourEvent of Champions.

During their time in Las Vegas, both Lambert and Poe represented Wildhorse as they played more than 180 other qualifiers from 100 casinos around the world. As the tournament progressed, both Wildhorse representatives qualified into the top 35 ranking players.

“We were thrilled to see our participants not only doing so well in the event, but having so much fun,” said Diane Long, Wildhorse marketing director.

Long along with other members of the Wildhorse staff were in Las Vegas for the Global Gaming Conference and able to watch much of the competition first hand.

“The energy on the floor was palatable,” Long said. “The noise in the casino as people cheered on the top competitors was just incredible. We, of course, were cheering as loud as we could for Beverly and Glenn.”

Poe was eventually edged out, placing 35th and walking away with $1,500. Lambert made his way to the final round. As the two-minute round came to a close, Lambert fell just short of the grand prize and ended up walking away with a seventh place finish and an $8,000 pay day.

Wildhorse is located off Highway 331 in Mission. For more information about its operations and promotions, visit www.wildhorseresort.com.

Pet of the Week

Missey
2-1/2 Yr Old, Spayed Russian Blue

My name is Missey and, as you can see, I am very adorable! I am up-to-date on all my vaccinations, including Rabies, and have been tested and came back negative for Feline Leukemia. My health is normal in all aspects except a partially broken heart. All it would take to heal that would be finding my forever home with you. I would prefer being a "one cat house" but would probably tolerate a companion other than my human. Please drop by the PAWS office and let's get acquainted!
