OBITUARIES

Dean L. Thompson

Gig Harbor, Wash.
October 24, 1931-November 3, 2015

Dean L. Thompson, 84, died at his home in Gig Harbor on November 3, 2015. He was grew up in Hoquiam, Washington. He received his bachelor's degree in music education from Central Washington College, his master's and doctorate in education from the University of Oregon.

Thompson

He taught band for the majority of his career, primarily in high school. Teaching was his passion. He loved his students and, turn, they loved and respected him. He influenced many to pursue their own careers as performers or teachers in music at all levels. He was a music and performing arts supervisor in Parkrose School District (Portland) and later a curriculum and staff development director for the Umatilla Educational Service District in Pendleton, Oregon. After retirement he became a consultant for the Northwest Regional Labs in the area of school Improvement, traveling to many of the most impoverished school districts in the United States to provide on-site training and assistance to school districts and teachers.

In 1994 he married his soulmate, Claudia (Appell). They loved traveling in the U.S. and abroad, their favorite places being Italy and Mexico. They shared a love of music, education, those who taught, and working together in their garden. Life was fun and full of love for many years.

Alzheimer's attacked Dean and was the cause of his death. Dean is survived by his wife Claudia and his three children, Randall Thompson and Susan Hall (Portland) and Jill Onaindia (Salt Lake City), and four grandchildren.

Thanks to Life Care Connections in Gig Harbor and to many friends and relatives for their support of our family through the tough years. There are no services planned at this time. Contributions in Dean's name may be made to Communities in Schools of Peninsula or the Peninsula Schools Educational Foundation.
