Breakfast with Santa kicks off season

East Oregonian

With Thanksgiving officially in the rearview mirror, the Pendleton Parks and Recreation Department held its first Christmas event — Breakfast with Santa.

Families were invited to the Pendleton Recreation Center Saturday morning to eat a pancake breakfast prepared by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 922 and have children make Christmas-themed arts and crafts projects, get their faces painted and have a picture taken with the big man himself.

People came from across the region to get a snapshot with Kris Kringle, including Holly Dempsey and her 5-year-old daughter Kayser, residents of Ellensburg, Wash., who were in town for a wedding.

where,” Holly said.

The ages and distractibility levels varied, but each kid left their photo op with St. Nick with a piece of candy and a

The photos may have looked similar, but the requests made of Santa Claus reflected the wide variety of tastes.

Eight-year-old Marilla Holden wanted a Barbie RV, while her 10-year-old sister, Elizabeth, wanted a blue camera to help nurture a hobby she’s eventually hoping to turn into a profession.

Other attendees had grander ambitions.

In addition to accessories for her American Girl dolls, 7-year-old Gracie Hemphill wants a horse for Christmas.

Four-year-old Liam Pennington was so excited to furnish Santa with his request that he practically dragged his mother, Shaindel Beers, across the room.

After his early exuberance, Pennington was shy when asked about his Christmas wish after his photo with Santa, but Beers helped coax it out of him — a large, skeletal Tyrannosaurus rex toy.
