Hermiston bomb hoaxer pleads guilty

HERMISTON — A Hermiston man who claimed he was trying to prank a relative pleaded guilty to possessing a hoax bomb.

Umatilla County Circuit Court records show David U. Ponce, 23, of Hermiston, is serving two years of court probation for the stunt. Possession of hoax destructive device is a Class A misdemeanor in Oregon.

Hermiston police on the morning of Nov. 30, 2015, responded to 217 East Beebe Ave. for a report of a bomb inside a garbage can, according to Hermiston police Chief Jason Edmiston. Officers arrived and met with an employee from Sanitary Disposal who found a cardboard box displaying the words "this is a bomb."

The cops then questioned Ponce, who lives at the address, and he admitting to trying to play a joke on a relative, according to Edmiston.

The chief also reported Hermiston police had cited Ponce 62 times and arrested him 29 before that day.

The police department asked for help from the Oregon State Police bomb squad to examine the box. All it contained, according to Edmiston, was a beer bottle. He also said the gag kept cops on the scene for about three hours.

Hermiston couple takes plea in mistreatment case

HERMISTON — A Hermiston couple pleaded guilty to theft and avoided a trial where they also would have faced 16 counts of first-degree criminal mistreatment. They now have to pay back more than $70,000.

The state accused Allen G. Iverson, 41, and his wife, Charlotte Iverson, 39, of Hermiston, of robbing Iverson's elderly stepfather, Robert Lee Friend, from January 2012 through April 2013. The Umatilla County Sheriff's Office investigated the case and search warrant affidavits for bank records show sheriff's detective Kacey Ward put the theft total at more than $100,000.

The Iversons took a deal Feb. 24 and pleaded guilty to theft, according to Umatilla County Circuit Court Records. Circuit Judge Eva Temple sentenced both to three years probation and ordered them to not contact Friend.

The judge also ordered the Iversons to pay Friend $71,068.

20-year-old turns to plea deal in sex abuse case

HERMISTON — A California man turning 21 this month plans to change his plea on committing sex crimes in Hermiston when he was a teen.

A Umatilla County grand jury in September 2015 indicted Luis Alberto Ramirez of Oxnard on two counts of first-degree sodomy and eight of first-degree sexual abuse, according to court records. The crimes involved three victims and took place in 2010 and 2011. Ramirez pleaded not guilty to the charges in October.

Court records show a psychological evaluation in February determined Ramirez could participate in his own defense. His defense attorney then filed a motion for a change of plea.

That hearing is Wednesday morning in Hermiston in the courtroom of Circuit Judge Eva Temple.

PUBLIC SAFETY LOG

on — or Jake Brake — when he noticed noises and smoke, according to Oregon State Police.

He stopped on the shoulder of the highway, and others stopped to help him put out a fire in the engine compartment.

Their efforts, though, were not enough. The fire reached the cab and destroyed it.

The trailer, which contained barrels of "food product," state police reported, only sustained minor damage to wiring and brake lines.

Police closed down both lanes of the westbound freeway for about 45 minutes to an hour while firefighters doused the blaze, and a Pendleton contractor responded to clean up diesel fuel.

The semi driver was uninjured.

16:50 p.m. - A Milton-Freewater woman reported she had a county surveyor determine the true property line, she has the paperwork to prove it and is going ahead with cutting the trees for the next few days. Her neighbor, though, has been unhappy about it, she said, and law enforcement should be aware.
