But first, Walden will hold a town hall meeting at the Port of Morrow in Boardman to answer questions from residents. The meeting is open to the public, and will begin at 8:45 a.m. at the Riverfront Center, 2 Marine Drive.

Later in the day, Walden will arrive in Hermiston for a round table discussion on opioid abuse in Oregon. Drug prevention advocates, physicians, law enforcement and families will meet with Walden at 1:45 p.m. at Good Shepherd Medical Center. UmCo to host economic development summit

PENDLETON — The first Umatilla County Economic Development Summit will take place next Thursday.

The summit will include a presentation of the results of the workforce needs study commissioned by the county in February.

The presentation will be by Susan Bower of Eastern Oregon Business Source, who has been compiling survey answers, focus group responses and interviews from businesses large and small throughout Umatilla County. The goal was to determine what skills, education and certifications employers are looking for most in order to fill positions at their companies.

As those answers become clear, the county hopes to find new ways to support workforce development in Umatilla County without duplicating efforts already being made in the school system and elsewhere.

Before Bower's presentation, county commissioner Bill Elfering, county planning director Tamra Mabbott and senior planner Bob Waldher will provide context by discussing recent economic development initiatives and activity in the county.

After Bower's presentation of the workforce needs study, the county plans to engage the summit's attendees in a "Where do we go from here?" roundtable discussion.

The summit is scheduled for 3-5:30 p.m. Thursday, May 5 at the Pendleton Convention Center. An RSVP is requested by Monday, May 2.

Briefs are compiled from staff and wire reports, and press releases. Email press releases to news@eastoregonian.com
