

Angels complete comeback as Cishek blows save

SEATTLE — C.J. Cron homered in the eighth inning and hit a two-run bloop single with the bases loaded in the ninth to lead the Los Angeles Angels to a 7-6 comeback win against the Seattle Mariners on Friday night.

The Angels snapped a six-game losing streak despite being down four runs after six innings and trailing 6-3 going into the eighth.

Ketel Marte hit a three-run triple and Nelson Cruz and Chris Iannetta each hit solo home runs for the Mariners, who ended a three-game winning streak.

Cron's solo homer was his third of the year, and Jefrey Marte added a run-scoring double in the eighth to cut Seattle's lead to one.

The Angels loaded the bases with one out against Seattle closer Steve Cishek (2-2) in the ninth, and Cron's short fly dropped in behind shortstop to score two runs.

Joe Smith (1-2) got out of a bases-loaded jam to pitch a scoreless eighth and earn the win, and Fernando Salas came on in the ninth for his first save.

Seattle starter Nathan Karns gave up three runs on six hits in 6 1/3 innings. He cruised early, then gave up two runs and three hits in the seventh inning, the start of Los Angeles' comeback.

Los Angeles starter Nick Tropeano got into several jams, but the Mariners offense had trouble scoring early. Seattle loaded the bases in the second and fourth innings but came away with only one run to show for it — on Leonys Martin's sacrifice fly.

Tropeano pitched five innings, allowing two runs on five hits.

Cruz gave the Mariners a 2-1 lead in the fifth with his seventh homer. In the sixth, Seattle again loaded the bases and this time, Marte tripled to the right-center gap — past diving right fielder Kole Calhoun — to clear the bases.

Karns gave up one run and three hits in the first six innings, but gave up singles to three of the first four batters in the seventh and left with the bases loaded and one out. Calhoun drove in a run with a sacrifice fly, then Trout's run-scoring double cut the Seattle lead to 5-3.

Iannetta's homer in the seventh was his fourth home run of the season and second in two games — Iannetta hit a game-ending home run in the 11th inning of the Mariners' 6-5 win against Tampa Bay on Wednesday.

Heat force Game 7

By TIM REYNOLDS

MIAMI — The Miami Heat went small, and came up big.

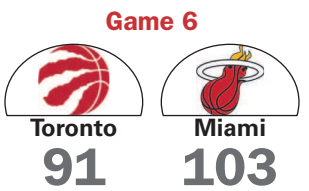

With that, another Game 7 awaits.

Goran Dragic scored a postseason career-high 30 points, Dwyane Wade added 22 and the Heat rode a small lineup to a 103-91 victory over the Toronto Raptors on Friday night, tying their Eastern Conference semifinal series 3-3.

“Last year at this time we were all on vacation,” Miami coach Erik Spoelstra said. “So often in this business people tend to want to search for the easy route. There’s usually not an easy way in a seven-game series, certainly not with a second and third seed going against each other. This is the path ... and now we’ve pushed it to a Game 7.”

It comes Sunday in Toronto. The winner will head to Cleveland for Game 1 of the Eastern Conference finals on Tuesday night. Both the Heat and the Raptors won a Game 7 in the first round.

DeRozan added 23 for the Raptors, but their teammates combined to shoot 14 of 34 from the floor and manage 32 points.

“We came here to try to win the game,” Raptors coach Dwane Casey said. “We didn’t come here with a seven-game series in mind. It’s been a great series, they’re a championship-caliber team, well-coached team, but we came in here to try to win the game. We didn’t come in here wanting a Game 7.”

Joe Johnson had 13 points, Justise Winslow added 12, and Josh McRoberts scored 10 for the Heat.

Dragic shot 12 of 21, Wade blocked a game-high three shots and the Heat — despite some serious size deficiencies with injured starting center Hassan Whiteside still out — only lost the rebounding battle 43-41.

Day has 3-shot lead in suspended Players

By DOUG FERGUSON

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. — The sky was getting so dark that Jason Day could barely see the flag on the 14th hole, much less the small crowd that waited out a two-hour storm delay Friday at The Players Championship. The way he was playing, he sure could hear them.

His 5-iron from 190 yards into a strengthening wind rolled to the back of the green and settled 2 feet away.

“A great shot,” said Day, who can be stingy with self-praise.

His second big birdie to end his long day stretched his lead to three shots before it was too dark to continue, and Day stepped into a van for a short drive to the clubhouse. His first task was to check the wind for the morning when he had to finish four holes.

He already was 14-under par. He was on a record-setting pace at the TPC Sawgrass. And he could only think about pushing.

“I’m at 14-under par, I’ve got a good lead going on,

Jason Day, of Australia, follows his shot from the fifth tee during the second round of The Players Championship golf tournament Friday, May 13, 2016, in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla.

I just can’t sit back,” Day said. “I need to keep pushing forward. And the moment that I lose a little bit of focus and make a few mental errors and mistakes, that’s when I let the field back in. And I just can’t afford to do that.”

Shane Lowry had a 68 and was at 11-under 133, a solid round that only got going when he hit a wedge so badly that it didn’t each reach the island green at the par-3 17th. He managed to escape with bogey, and then holed a wedge from about 180 yards on the 18th hole for eagle.

Two tough pars at the end of his round meant he was likely to be in the final group with Day. Not bad for a guy who was hitting it so badly Wednesday that he was dreading the thought of even playing.

“I thought I’d be booking a plane ticket now, how I was feeling on Wednesday,” Lowry said. “Yeah, golf is a funny game. Sometimes low expectations brings good results and high expectations brings no results.”

Jordan Spieth was just hopeful of a Saturday tee time, as was Phil Mickelson.

Spieth, looking frustrated as ever, got to the projected cut of 2 under with back-to-back birdies to start the back nine, only to catch a bad break when a rake kept his ball from rolling into the bunker and stayed on the steep slope leading to the sand. The best he could do was chip over the green and he made bogey, and his tee shot was wild to the right on the 15th when they stopped because of darkness. Spieth was at 1 under.

Mickelson had to make an 8-foot par putt on the par-5 16th to stay at 1 under. He was to return at 9:15 a.m. to play the 17th and 18th, likely needing a birdie on one of them to make the cut.

Defending champion Rickie Fowler shot 71 and was at 1-under 143. He needed help to make the cut.

Greg Norman set the 36-hole record of 14-under 130 at The Players in 1994, the year the Shark made only one bogey the entire week. Day looks just as good and has yet to drop a shot over the 32 holes he has played.

BURNS 15-12, WESTON-MCEWEN 5-2 — At Burns, the Weston-McEwen TigerScots played a sloppy pair of games on Friday, combining for seven errors to lose to the Burns Hilanders.

The TigerScots (17-8, 8-4 SD7) were also hurt by a combined 14 walks in the two games by its six pitchers, which set up the Hilanders for plenty of offensive opportunities.

In game one, the Tiger-Scots were neck-and-neck with the Hilanders through the first four innings and went into the fifth inning trailing 3-2. But starting pitcher Travis Hendley ran out of steam in the inning and the Hilanders finished with seven runs in the fifth and five runs in the sixth to grab the win.

Then in game two, Burns scored six runs in the first two innings to grab the early advantage and eventually run away with the win, holding the TigerScots to just two hits.

Weston-McEwen's top offensive performers on Friday were Brett Speed going 3-5 with three runs and an RBI, Brendan Dearing going 4-7 with a run scored, and Vince Roff picking up two hits and an RBI.

ENTERPRISE 7-9, ECHO 5-8 — At Enterprise, the Echo Cougars were upset twice on Friday by the Enterprise Outlaws, knocking the Cougars out of first place in the Eastern Oregon League.

In game one, Enterprise scored six runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to take a 7-2 lead at the time as Echo starting pitcher MacKenzie Gonzales allowed three hits and two hit batters with two Cougar errors in the inning.

Echo battled back with two runs in the fifth inning and scored one run in the top of the seventh to get withing 7-5. With the tying run at the plate, Echo's threat fizzled out with a strikeout from Kenzie Blankenship and a groundout from Hannah McCarty to end the game.

Then in game two, Echo had just taken an 8-7 lead on the Outlaws with a run in the top of the seventh inning before Enterprise took advantage. The Outlaws had two singles to get runners into scoring position, and then a single to right field scored both runs to give the Outlaws the walk-off win for the sweep.

Erika Parks was Echo's top hitter on Friday gathering four hits, while McCarty added three hits and three runs scored. Cheyenne Hilliard was the leading run-producer with three RBIs.

Echo now falls into second place in the EOL and will prepare for the district tournament next week.
