Stranded woman, students keep county search and rescue busy

East Oregonian

The Umatilla County Sheriff's Office search and rescue team had a busy Wednesday night, responding to three calls for people missing in the woods — including two with vehicles stuck in the snow.

The first call came in shortly after 6 p.m. from Lisa Wright, who requested assistance after she became stuck in the snow in her Ford Explorer near Hwy 204 and Tollgate/Spout Springs. Sgt. Dwight Johnson spoke to Wright on the phone and identified her general location, and members of search and rescue responded. They determined a tow truck would be able to reach her and free the vehicle, but Wright reported she could not afford the tow bill, and instead called friends to help her.

The friends did not arrive, however, and at about 11 p.m., search and rescue members drove Wright to the Umatilla County Sheriff's Pendleton office, where a family member picked her up.

At about 7 p.m., Danny Davis reported his friend Mark Gilliland was about two hours overdue after they were mushroom hunting near Government Mountain Road. The two Walla Walla men were hiking and supposed to meet at 5 p.m. Davis' car. Search and rescue began searching for Gilliland and tried to reach his cellphone and other family members to find out if they heard from him. At about 10:15 p.m.,

Davis reported that Gilliland called a friend and said he hiked to Four Corners recreation site, where the friend picked him up.

Just after midnight, Melanie Medina, a resident assistant from Whitman College in Walla Walla, contacted dispatch to report that five freshmen students from the school were overdue from a trip to the Tiger Canyon area in northern Umatilla County. The group did not return before dark as scheduled and none could be reached by cellphone.

At about 1 a.m., search and rescue members began traveling to the area. They determined the group might be near Klicker Mountain Road in southern Washington. At about 2:45 a.m., one of the students contacted

Medina by text message and reported that they were on their way back to Walla Walla and all were safe. The student said their vehicle was stuck in the snow, which delayed them. By about 3:30 a.m., the group had reportedly returned safely to the college.

The Umatilla County Sheriff's Office Search and Rescue Unit provides an organized, mostly volunteer search and rescue team devoted to helping lost and missing people, overdue hunters and stranded motorists. They also provide aid in medical emergencies.

Team members also assist Umatilla County deputies and other law enforcement agencies at major crime scenes, and are available to assist search and rescue units in the northwest.
