Coastal Carolina capitalizes on Texas Tech errors

By ERIC OLSON
Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb. — Light-hitting David Parrett had three RBIs in his first College World Series start and Coastal Carolina converted three Texas Tech errors into six unearned runs in a 7-5 victory that eliminated the Red Raiders on Thursday night.

Coastal Carolina (51-17) will play TCU in the Bracket 2 final on Friday night. The Chanticleers, in the CWS for the first time, would have to beat the Horned Frogs in that game and again Saturday to reach next week's best-of-three finals.

Texas Tech (47-20) committed seven errors in three CWS games, and seven of the 12 runs against them were unearned.

Mike Morrison (8-1) pitched a season-high 4 1/3 innings of relief for the win, and Bobby Holmes earned his fourth save. Erikson Lanning (3-4) took the loss.

Morrison, who relieved freshman Jason Bilous with one out in the third inning, is usually the Chanticleers' closer. He didn't give up a run until Hunter Hargrove's sacrifice fly and Michael Davis' RBI single pulled the Raiders to 7-5 in the seventh.

Holmes struck out pinch hitter Ryan Long to end the seventh and got out of the eighth when, with two men on, he knocked down Tyler Neslony's hard comebacker and got the ball to first just in time. He pitched a perfect ninth.

Coastal Carolina's Zach Remillard reaches to score around Texas Tech catcher Tyler Floyd (16) as the ball gets away at home plate in the third inning of an NCAA College World Series baseball game in Omaha, Neb., Thursday, June 23, 2016. Remillard was safe.

Golf

Rahm takes early lead at Congressional in professional debut

By STEPHEN WHYNO
Associated Press

BETHESDA, Md. — Jon Rahm couldn't remember a single shot he took in a professional debut to remember. Ernie Els recalled shots he hit on the same course 19 years ago.

Rahm shot a 7-under 64 on Thursday at Congressional to take the first-round lead in the Quicken Loans National, Tiger Woods' annual tournament that started two hours late because of rain.

The soft course, with a fox lounge on the edge of a bunker and darting around with little care for the golf going on around him, allowed players to attack fairways and play aggressively. Rahm took advantage of that with seven birdies in a bogey-free round.

"I was anticipating this moment," the 21-year-old Spaniard said. "I'm working on it a long time that I kind of blacked out a little bit. I don't remember a single swing I made all day or any putting stroke or anything. I just remember the ball flying or rolling."

The former Arizona State star was the only amateur to make the cut last week in the U.S. Open, tying for 23rd at Oakmont. With momentum from the U.S. Open, Rahm tried to temper his expectations and relied on advice from golf great Jack Nicklaus.

"What he told me is to just never do more than what I can do," said Rahm, who cited not looking at social media as another key to his success. "Try not to risk too much. And that's certainly something I did today."

The long-hitting Rahm had a one-stroke lead over Jhonattan Vegas and a two-stroke advantage over a pack that included Els, who won the 1997 U.S. Open at Congressional. Rickie Fowler and Vijay Singh were among those at 68.

Els turned pro five years before Rahm was born.

NHL

Leafs' overhaul continues with 1st pick in draft

By JOHN WAWROW
Associated Press

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Auston Matthews will have to wait another 24 hours before learning whether the Toronto Maple Leafs are going to select him with the first pick in the NHL draft.

General manager Lou Lamerello

on Thursday said he's going to keep everyone guessing — including the Arizona-born, 18-year-old Matthews — until it's time for the Maple Leafs to announce the selection Friday night.

"I think we know who we're going to pick," Lamerello said. "No dissension."

What he declined to do was reveal who that player will be for a team preparing to add a significant piece in its bid to restore relevance to one of the NHL's most recognized franchises.

Matthews, who played professionally in Switzerland last season, is ranked first by NHL Central Scouting. He has the chance to be the seventh U.S.-born player selected No. 1, and first since Patrick Kane by Chicago in 2007.

The next two rated players are Finnish-born forwards Patrik Laine and Jesse Puljujarvi.
