BRIEFLY

Milton-Freewater Chamber of Commerce director to retire

MILTON-FREEWATER — After more than a decade and a half with the Milton-Freewater Area Chamber of Commerce, director Cheryl York is ready to become Milton-Freewater's "most well known visitor."

While she's looking forward to visiting friends and family after she retires July 6, she's proud of her accomplishments with the chamber.

York said her most important contribution to the job was her attention to detail, which helped her organize the now defunct Muddy Frogwater Festival, the chamber's annual award dinner and a bevy of other annual events.

"You just have to pull all the threads together and make it happen," she said.

York joked that she was retiring because she was "old and tired," a combination of a persistent medical condition and her desire to see someone younger take over.

"It's just time for a change," she said. (The chamber) needs new energy. It needs new ideas. It needs new people."

York said the board hasn't yet selected her successor.

Community foundation seeks grant applicants

WALLA WALLA — About $350,000 will be awarded as discretionary grants from the Blue Mountain Community Foundation.

The grants are intended to improve the health of the community and to help low-income, traditionally underserved people overcome poverty.

Nonprofit organizations or public agencies that serve the community in several regional counties, including Umatilla, are eligible to apply. Last year grant recipients included projects in Hermiston, Pendleton, Athena and other parts of Umatilla County.

The application deadline is Friday, July 1 by midnight. To submit a proposal, visit www.bluemountainfoundation.org and click on the "Apply Now" button. The foundation is only able to consider online applications.

The grants will be announced in late September. For more information, contact 509-529-4371 or bmcf@bluemountainfoundation.org.

Family holds memorial service for baby Dominic

DAYTON, Washington — The family of infant Dominic Freel will hold a memorial service Sunday at 3 p.m. at the First Congregational Church-UCC, 214 S. Third St., Dayton, Washington.

Dominic and his teenage parents lived in Milton-Freewater. The Umatilla County District Attorney's Office charged Dominic's father with murder and criminal mistreatment in the boy's June 8 death. He was 5 months old.

Abby Smart, 17, Dominic's mother, is residing with family in Dayton.

There will be a potluck style dinner following the service.

Library district discontinues language program

The Umatilla County Special Library District Board recently adopted its 2016-17 budget, which resulted in cuts to services provided.

After reviewing the usage levels of Mango, the online foreign language learning database, the board decided not to renew it for the upcoming budget year. It was determined the program wasn't being used to the level to justify the expense.

Formed in 1986, the library district supports public libraries in Umatilla County in providing services, programs and educational opportunities.

Corrections

The June 24 article "Bridge to somewhere" misstated the quality of the streets transferred from Umatilla County to the city of Pendleton. They are not up to city standards.
