helps," he said. Foy grew up in Anchorage, Alaska and earned an undergraduate degree in finance from the University of Alaska Anchorage. He had been interested in public administration, but after accompanying a friend to a law school fair decided he wanted to attend law school too. He had spent some time in Oregon and said the state was "at the top of my list" for law school.

After graduating from Lewis & Clark in January 2015 he and his wife moved to Hermiston in August. They welcomed their third child in December. Foy said they were excited to purchase their first house after moving around several times during their marriage. "We're making a home now, setting down roots," he said. Foy is also in the Oregon Air National Guard after first joining the military in 2003 with the Alaska National Guard.

Lougee, Denner join East Oregonian staff

EO Media Group

The East Oregonian and Hermiston Herald have added a new member to their Hermiston news reporting team, and the EO will welcome a summer intern Monday.

Alexa Lougee, an Eastern Oregon native, joined the Hermiston office staff on Monday, June 20. She graduated from La Grande High School and received her bachelor's degree in communications at Brigham Young University, with an emphasis in print journalism.

After college, Lougee came back to Oregon and did a brief stint with the East Oregonian and Hermiston Herald circulation department. She met her husband, Eric Lougee, while in Hermiston and took a position with the Pendleton Chamber of Commerce as the communications coordinator. Most recently, Lougee has spent her days as a full-time mom to her two young kids, freelancing in graphic design, and moonlighting as the resident chicken lady among her circles of friends and acquaintances.

She and her family recently moved from the John Day area back to Hermiston where her husband will be an elementary instructor for English language learners.

Will Denner is a 2016 graduate of University of Oregon's School of Journalism and was a reporter for the Pinnacle Award-winning Daily Emerald sports department. He comes to the East Oregonian as part of the Snowden internship program, and his first day is Monday, June 27.

Denner grew up in Portland and his father worked in the advertising department at The Oregonian for many years. Denner recalls always having a newspaper on the kitchen table that he would read before school, and as a senior at Grant High School in northeast Portland he wrote several freelance sports articles for The Oregonian.

Along with daily reporting duties, Denner will write for the 2016 Round-Up magazine, a four-time ONPA-winning special publication of the East Oregonian.

6:07 a.m. - A man reported he was driving east on Kunze Lane, Boardman, near Peters Road, and came upon a smaller dark car heading west, and a westbound pickup had to pass that car "really erratically" as a tall white male in a cowboy hat jumped out, put a rifle on the car's roof and fired one shot to the north into a herd of cattle.
7:40 a.m. - A 9-1-1 caller reported seeing a female sitting, crying and bleeding from the knees in the road at Southwest Eighth Street and Hailey Avenue, Pendleton.

10:13 a.m. - A trespasser at Bolen Farms, 153 N. Ott Road, Hermiston, refused to leave when an owner told him to go. She then told the 30-something man calling himself "Devon" that she called her husband, Devon, or whoever he is, got into a newer gray Ford pickup and left. She also called the Umatilla County Sheriff's Office.
10:15 a.m. - Two weeks ago, a resident of Northeast Third Street, Irigton, told the Morrow County Sheriff's Office, a neighbor's dog bit someone and at the time he told the owners he would report it if the dog was out again. It was out again, he said, thus he was calling.
10:51 a.m. - Pilot Rock police talked to a resident who said he got a call from phone scammers pretending to be with the IRS.
