

ROAD TRIP 395

Weekend, July 2-3, 2016

1C

4 Mile 43.9 - A truck drives south along on Highway 395 near Lake Abert.

The first day of summer is also the longest day of the year. A perfect opportunity for a road trip through Eastern Oregon.

EO photographer E.J. Harris set out at dawn from the California border on June 20 and documented his trip along the 350 miles of Highway 395 to Pendleton with photos and video.

More photos online

If you've never traveled the lonely stretches of highway through one of the last frontiers in the United States, consider this a guided tour. A map on Page 3C will show you each place E.J. stopped, and he'll explain his mission in further detail. A time-delay video at eastoregonian.com will also take you through the 14-hour journey, including more than 60 stops to snap pictures, in a little over 25 minutes.

Take a few minutes to enjoy the natural splendor and remote beauty of Eastern Oregon. All photos are also available for print in a variety of sizes and formats at our store through the online gallery.

2 Mile 14.7 - The cowboy on a "Welcome to Lakeview" sign on the outskirts of Lakeview on Highway 395.

1 Mile 0.0 - Brick and stucco on the side of an old store in New Pine Creek at the Oregon-California border on Highway 395.

1 Mile 0.0 - An old brick store in New Pine Creek at the Oregon-California border on Highway 395.

3 Mile 37.9 - A dog sits near some fuel pumps at a gas station in Valley Falls on Highway 395.

5 Mile 47.2 - A shaft of light shines through a draw illuminating some rocks on the shores of Lake Abert on Highway 395.