School district to conduct second bond survey

East Oregonian

Hermiston School District is looking for a second round of opinions before deciding whether to place a $104 million bond on the May 2017 ballot.

The Nelson Report will conduct a telephone survey of registered voters on behalf of the district during the first week of October. The questions will gauge community support of a $104 million bond that would cost property owners approximately 90 cents per $1,000 of assessed value.

The district completed an initial community attitude survey in April 2016. The results showed that after being informed of crowding and security issues at local schools, 63 percent of community members supported replacing Rocky Heights and Highland Hills Elementary Schools, expanding Hermiston High School and conducting district-wide improvements such as new roofing and HVAC systems at Sandstone Middle School.

Results of next week's survey will be shared with the school board as they prepare to make a final decision on whether to place the bond on the May 2017 ballot. On Monday the board looked at conceptual drawings for some of the new buildings, available on the East Oregonian website.

For information about the bond or to schedule a presentation from the school district about it, call the district office at 541-667-6000.

MISSION

Investigation shows secretary used tribal resources for personal gain

Confederated Umatilla Journal

A preliminary report issued Friday, four days before a recall election, shows that David Close, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation used a key-card in an attempt to enter the Office of Legal Counsel and Tribal Court after hours.

The BOT is expected to take up the issue on Monday at its regular 9 a.m. meeting in the Council Chambers at Nixyaawii Governance Center on the Umatilla Indian Reservation.

The report also showed that Close, who faces a recall election on Tuesday may have violated CTUIR election code by using tribal resources, including his office computer, e-mail, cell phone and tribal office phone.

Reading from the report, tribal attorney Naomi Stacey said, "this initial review reflects a pervasive pattern of work on tribal computers, networks, demands of staff assistance and response, litigation costs and significant Board time to address these disputes. Most activities occurred during regular working hours."

Following the 40-minute report, which you can read on the Confederated Umatilla Journal website, Secretary Close made remarks that led to a somewhat quick but heated exchange with BOT Chairman Gary Burke and Eric Quaempts.

"As Secretary of the BOT and the custodian of the BOT files and records I want to initiate an investigation of this Board that has spent an inordinate amount of time to get me out of this office," Close said.

Said Burke, who sits next to Close, "Point of order. This is about you, not us."

"I'm going to investigate you guys," Close said.

Then Quaempts, "I'm tired of getting threatened by you."

The Board went into Executive Session with Close excluded from the proceedings.
