

OUT OF THE VAULT Juniper Canyon gold claim foiled by snakebite

Anderson cauterized the bite with a white-hot iron and came immediately to Pendleton, where he had a home, to recover from the attack.

Anderson cauterized the bite with a white-hot iron and came immediately to Pendleton, where he had a home, to recover from the attack.

Anderson claimed to have discovered gold in the sands of Juniper Canyon. A prospector for many years in Alaska, Anderson gathered a bottle of gold grains from the coarse sand of the canyon, which he displayed as proof that the area was richer than anything he saw in the north country. One of the nuggets found by Anderson was worth more than $20.

In the meantime, Conlan rushed to the recorder's office at the Umatilla County Courthouse and filed a placer claim on the land, 40 acres near his homestead at the foot of Juniper Canyon. Conlan claimed he discovered gold in a stream that runs into the Umatilla River from the canyon. He immediately posted a notice on his claim, staked out the corners and high-tailed it into Pendleton to have the claim recorded. Anderson was informed of Conlan's claim when he read the story in the East Oregonian.

Anderson said he formed a partnership with a Philadelphia man, J.W. Grier, and began prospecting the Juniper Canyon area with the help of James Conlan, who he and Grier employed as a driver. Anderson struck "pay dirt," but before he could do more than an initial survey of the property he was bitten by a rattlesnake while gathering gravel.

Asserting his prior right to the claim under the mineral laws, Anderson planned to contest Conlan's filing.

100 Years Ago From the East Oregonian Oct. 22-23, 1916

After being out for nearly 24 hours the jury in the damage case of Bledsoe vs. O.-W. R. & N. reported to the court yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock that it was impossible to reach a verdict and the court dismissed the jurymen from further consideration of the case. Mrs. Bledsoe was suing for $10,000 for the death of her son, John Milton Morgan, and she alleged he was kicked from the train on which he was "beating his way" by brakeman James MacMahon. Her principal witnesses were the three companions of her son, but her case was weakened when the defendant brought out that one of these witnesses was an escape from a reform school. Defendant's principal witness was MacMahon and his testimony to some extent was discredited. Whether or not the case will be retried has not yet been announced.

The wind and the Vikings were both howling in Umatilla yesterday afternoon as Umatilla rolled to its third straight Umatilla-Morrow

League victory by blasting Wasco County 25-13. Ken Matlack counted twice for the Viks as he slipped off tackle and raced 27 yards to open Umatilla's scoring, then later grabbed a Dave Kruse pass to add the final six from the four. Matlack also tallied Umatilla's only PAT by snaring a Kruse pass. The longest TD run was by Larry Anderson in the opening quarter, as he sped 87 yards for the Viks.

A Maryland company hopes to build and operate a 220-megawatt natural gas generating plant near Lamb-Weston's potato plant at Hermiston. U.S. Generating Company, based in Bethesda, said the $200 million plant would be ready to operate by January 1997 and would permanently employ about 25 people. Another 150 people would be employed during construction. The process, known as co-generation, would provide enough electricity for 200,000 homes in the Northwest and provide steam to the Lamb-Weston plant, which makes french fries and other frozen potato products.

Guinness declares massive Michigan ice cream sundae a world record

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Guinness World Records says a roughly half-mile-long ice cream sundae that was gobbled up in Michigan this June was the longest ever.

Erin Lefre/Muskegon Chronicle-MLive
In this June 11 file photo, an ice cream sundae is completed during for the longest ice cream dessert along eight city blocks in Ludington, Mich.

The Ludington Daily News reports that the sundae measured a little over 2,970 feet in length and fed thousands of people lining eight blocks in the Lake Michigan town.

House of Flavors organized the ice cream event in Ludington, 100 miles northwest of Grand Rapids.

According to Guinness, the previous longest ice-cream dessert was created in 2015 in Manurewa, New Zealand, and it was 1,957 feet and 1 inch.

Ludington's record may be short-lived, however. MLive.com reports Moo-ville Creamery and others in Nashville, Michigan, tried to break the record Sept. 17, making a dessert that spanned 3,656 feet.
