

CHiPs star Erik Estrada to host live game show at Wildhorse

By TAMMY MALGESINI
East Oregonian

Eastern Oregon residents have an opportunity to meet one of People magazine's sexiest bachelors in the world from 1979. Erik Estrada is serving as the live host during this weekend's "America's Greatest Game Shows" at Wildhorse Resort & Casino.

Best known for his role as Frank "Ponch" Poncherello from 1977-83 on NBC's "CHiPs," Estrada is enthusiastic about the live game show that guarantees more than $35,000 in cash and free game play.

"It's a blast up there," Estrada said. "Plus, someone will have a chance to win $100,000."

"America's Greatest Game Shows" is Saturday at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Rivers Event Center at the casino, which is located near Interstate 84 at Exit 216, Mission. Tickets to be in the audience must be won through game play at the casino. Contestants will be picked from the audience for a chance to win cash and game play.

Erik Estrada is the live host for "America's Greatest Game Shows." People must win tickets to be in the audience for a pair of Oct. 29 shows at Wildhorse Resort & Casino. Contestants will be picked from the audience for a chance to win cash and game play.

People can earn entries into the show all week long. Drawings for audience seats are Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

From a young age Estrada wanted to be a New York City policeman. However, he got sidetracked when a girl in the school's drama club caught his eye.

"The next thing you know, I started chasing the acting career," Estrada said. "Then I got lucky to play a cop on TV."

As a result of his fame, the actor has had additional opportunities to help kids. Downplaying being a role model, Estrada said, "It's my passion."

Among the programs Estrada has been involved with are the Safe Surfin' Foundation and the Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force. The projects aim to protect children from sexual predators who prowl chat rooms and social media sites in search of their next victim.

"They will take time to groom kids ... the bad guy is only a click away on your phone or computer," Estrada said.

The man who once played a cop on TV has worked with many law enforcement agencies to help keep kids safe online. Recently, he was sworn in as a reserve officer with the St. Anthony Police Department in Idaho.

When he was a toddler, Estrada's mother kicked his heroin-addicted father out of the home. Shortly thereafter, Estrada's mom started dating a police officer.

"That's how I got introduced to cops," Estrada said. "Because of that, my first passion was law enforcement."

Estrada has been involved with "America's Greatest Game Shows" for a couple of years. It features many of the game show classics — with a twist. Contestants and audience members will have fun, Estrada said, with "The NOT So Newlywed Game" and "Dancing With Yourself."

And, the best part, Estrada said, "Everyone wins."

One-fourth of U.S. cancer deaths linked to smoking

CHICAGO (AP) — Cigarettes contribute to more than 1 in 4 cancer deaths in the U.S. The rate is highest among men in Southern states where smoking is more common and the rules against it are not as strict.

The American Cancer Society study found the highest rate among men in Arkansas, where 40 percent of cancer deaths were linked to cigarette smoking. Kentucky had the highest rate among women — 29 percent.

The lowest rates were in Utah, where 22 percent of cancer deaths in men and 11 percent in women were linked with smoking.

"The human costs of cigarette smoking are high in all states, regardless of ranking," the authors said. They analyzed 2014 health surveys and government data on smoking rates and deaths from about a dozen smoking-linked cancers. Lung, throat, stomach, liver, colon, pancreas and kidney cancers were among those included, along with leukemia. The researchers estimated how many cancer deaths were likely attributable to smoking, and compared that with deaths from all cancers.

Results were published Monday in JAMA Internal Medicine.

While U.S. smoking rates have been falling, 40 million U.S. adults are cigarette smokers and smoking is the top cause of preventable deaths, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The study found that at least 167,000 cancer deaths in 2014 — about 29 percent of all U.S. cancer deaths — were attributable to smoking. A government estimate based on different methods says 1 in 3 U.S. cancer deaths are linked with smoking, and the study authors acknowledge they may have underestimated the true burden posed by cigarettes.

Most of the 10 states with the highest rates of smoking-attributable cancer deaths were in the South, while most of the 10 states with the lowest rates were in the North or West.

Among men, where smoking is generally more common, the cigarette-linked cancer death rate was highest in blacks at 35 percent, compared with 30 percent for whites and 27 percent for Hispanics. Among women, whites had the highest cigarette-linked cancer death rate — 21 percent, compared 19 percent for blacks and 12 percent for Hispanics.

The researchers say nine of 14 states with the least comprehensive smoke-free indoor air policies are in the South. The average cigarette excise tax in major tobacco states, mostly in the South, is 49 cents, compared with $1.80 elsewhere. The tobacco industry heavily influences these policies and most of the U.S. tobacco crop is grown in the South, the researchers said. The region also has relatively high levels of poverty, which is also linked with smoking.
