Owing to the recent increase in the prices of foodstuffs, the Boston restaurant, the Oregon Restaurant, the Hong-Kong Cafe, the California restaurant and the Queen Chop House, which places have heretofore been charging 20 cents for their regular meals, have advanced the price to 25 cents.

It will be the first use of the Boardman site for aircraft engine tests. Rocket motor tests have been conducted there since 1965.

25 Years Ago From the East Oregonian Oct. 29-30, 1991

A week ago, the temperature in Pendleton was 75 degrees and folks were watering the grass. Today the mercury dipped to 26 and residents were shoveling snow. Old Man Winter jabbed quick and hard. He dumped three to four inches of snow in the region and caused traffic snarls up and down the freeway. It was the earliest measurable snowfall in Pendleton in 30 years. OSP and Umatilla Tribal Police teamed up to stop eastbound traffic at about 7:30 a.m. just east of town near Arrowhead Truck Plaza because the lanes were jammed at points four miles and seven miles further east up Cabbage Hill. Westbound lanes also were closed for short stints while tow trucks worked feverishly to clear cars and trucks piled up in both lanes of the freeway.

A jet engine will be moved from Seattle to the Boeing Company's 100,000-acre test site at Boardman for a noise-suppression research program. The program, to involve a dozen Boeing employees, will begin in about four weeks and continue until the end of the year. Using a present-day jet engine, the research program will investigate noise-suppression systems for possible supersonic transport use, but the information gained also will be applicable to other aircraft.

Town tries to rein in rowdy turkeys

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Leaders of a California college town are working to relocate turkeys that have been harassing people on the streets.

In this Oct. 26 photo, a wild turkey wanders through Davis, Calif. The Davis City Council voted this week to approve a wild turkey management plan that includes trapping and relocating many of the birds and possibly killing some of the more aggressive ones.

The Sacramento Bee reports that the Davis City Council voted this week to approve a wild turkey management plan that includes trapping and relocating many of the birds and possibly killing some of the more aggressive ones. Davis residents are fond of urban wildlife. They built a tunnel for toads and protected jackrabbits from construction, but the well-known turkeys wandering the streets are too much. Police Chief Darren Pytel says his department has fielded calls from people accosted by turkeys, including a man who was pinned against the wall of a bank by a bird.

scratch-off ticket instead. Blackwell said she was trying to show her husband that no one ever wins and buying tickets is a waste of money. Now she's eating her words — and enjoying every bite.

The 57-year-old Blackwell says she's going to use the $415,500 lump sum after taxes to buy a home and pay for her granddaughters' college.

Woman calls lottery a waste of time - until she wins

LEICESTER, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina woman who bought a scratch-off ticket to show her husband that lottery tickets are a waste of money has won $1 million.

Glenda Blackwell of Leicester tells WLOS-TV that her husband asked her to buy two Powerball tickets from a Quik Mart last Saturday, but she bought a $10 Carolina Millions

DEAR ABBY

Three-time divorcée realizes she's better off on her own

Dear Abby: I'm a 55-year-old woman, divorced for a year and a half. I was married twice before and have three grown children.

JEANNE PHILLIPS Advice

I own my own home, have a job I enjoy and a loving family. I do what I want when I want and how I want. I control the remote, the thermostat and my money. I have no desire for male companionship or a "social life," and can honestly say I have never felt happier or more content in my life.

I wonder why society places so much emphasis on men and women forming romantic relationships. I also wonder how much angst I could've saved myself, my former husbands and my children by realizing years ago that marriage is not for me. I don't know why it took me so long to realize that I will never meet a man whose company I enjoy more than my own.

I just want to tell your readers — at least any who feel the same way I do — to be happy with themselves and stop letting friends, relatives or society dictate to them how to feel or what to do. There's nothing wrong with an independent woman or man being, well, independent. These days I call myself ... Emancipated And Happy

Dear Emancipated And Happy: If I had to guess why society places so much emphasis on marriage and romance, it would be because that's the way society perpetuates itself. After three divorces, it is not surprising that you are happier on your own.

I'm sure many people wish they were as independent and resilient as you. However, most people crave some degree of closeness and intimacy — which may be why women and men search for romance. Today, more than half of adults in the United States are single. For those who are not "coupled up," I'm sure your message will be meaningful.

Dear Abby: I am the luncheon chairperson for a large fundraiser that will be held in six weeks. I know my question is one shared by many. How can a brilliant person be advised to keep his remarks short and not like he's preaching to the choir without seeming rude? — Doesn't Want To Offend

Dear Doesn't Want To Offend: Here's how. Run your event like a commanding general. Tell all your speechmakers and honorees how much time they are ALLOTTED. Insist they submit their remarks in enough time before the event that you can review the length — and keep "reminding" the speakers what time the event MUST end.

If you bravely and diligently do this, your event will be a hit. And YOU will be regarded as brilliant because not many people are courageous enough to be this assertive.

Dear Abby: What should a person do when their children and grandchildren don't like to talk on the phone, and text you only? — Lonely Grandma In L.A.

Dear Lonely Grandma: Learn to text!
