Umatilla County jail scores high on inspection

East Oregonian

The Umatilla County Jail tied its highest score during a recent jail inspection.

A team of jail inspectors from the Oregon Jail Command Council scrutinized the jail Oct. 20 and 21, the Umatilla County Sheriff's Office reported in a written statement. The jail received a score of 99.2 percent compliant, according to the statement, which "ties the highest score in the history of the facility in 2011."

The Oregon State Sheriff's Association developed the 309 jail standards the inspectors use, which address inmate rules and discipline, staff training, and many other categories and procedures, most of which state and federal laws and rules require.

"This year's score is especially commendable since our jail population is at an all-time high, and significantly higher than in 2011," according to the sheriff's office, which also noted the "responsibilities that go along with managing many more inmates and programs have increased" since Terry Rowan became sheriff in 2013.

Rowan is seeking re-election. Pendleton Police Cpl. Ryan Lehnert is challenging Rowan for the sheriff's post.
