Meet the WAMPANOAG

When the Pilgrims arrived at what is now Plymouth, Massachusetts, they met native peoples who had lived in the area for thousands of years. Their name, Wampanoag, means “People of the First Light.” This name was chosen because they lived on the east coast and they received the light of dawn before anyone to the west.

In the 1600s, the Wampanoag Nation had about seventy thousand people living in 67 villages. This map shows some of them. The large print shows the Wampanoag name of a village. The small print gives the modern name.

MAP CHALLENGE
Can you find the region shown on the map at right on a U.S. map?

Find It!

Give each person at your Thanksgiving feast a page of the newspaper. See who can find each of the following in his or her paper:

- An odd number
- The word “thanks”
- Something to be thankful for
- A delicious food
- A Thanksgiving event
- A good place to visit

Corn Confusion

The arrival of colonists from Europe was seen differently by different groups of people. The Wampanoag were cautious and unsure about these new people. The colonists were relieved to be done with their long voyage, but afraid of what might lie ahead.

In November of 1620, exploring colonists found corn buried in the ground. They called corn “Indian wheat.” Here are two viewpoints on this same event:

The Wampanoag Viewpoint

“What kind of people would steal what isn’t theirs? The corn was a family’s seed for planting next spring, as well as food to carry them through until harvest.”

The Colonial Viewpoint

“While exploring, we discovered many places where Indian wheat was buried. We dugged it up and took away as much as we could carry. We saw none of the Indians, but we will pay the owners if we can find them.”
