HOOD RIVER — It may not have been the best game put together by the Hermiston boys basketball team on Friday night, but the Bulldogs still managed to end the regular season on the right foot.

Hermiston jumped to an early 15-2 lead over Hood River Valley on Friday, but were outscored 36-28 in the second half as the Bulldogs barely hung on for a 60-56 victory. The win wraps up a 16-7 record and a 6-3 mark in the Columbia River Conference for the Bulldogs.

Chance Flores led all scorers with 22 points on 10 total field goals, while Xavier Rambo followed up with 14 points and Hunter Walls with 13 behind four 3-pointers. Trenton Hough led Hood River Valley (7-15, 1-8) with 17 points and Eric Siekinen had 10.

Hawks take two from BMCC

PASCO, Wash. Columbia Basin scattered 29 hits around the ballpark to pick up a doubleheader sweep over Blue Mountain baseball in Friday's season openers.

The Hawks pushed 12 of those hits for extra bases, and won 13-4 in the opener then 11-2 in seven innings in Game 2. Twenty-three of Columbia Basin's runs were earned.

Blue Mountain (0-2) Rodney fielder center Scarver hit a solo home run in the fifth inning of Game 1 that pulled the T-Wolves within 4-2, but the Hawks (2-0) answered with three runs in the bottom of the inning and abused the T-Wolves' bullpen for nine runs total.

After taking the initial lead in both games, the T-Wolves generated just 13 hits in support and starters Brian Howell and Chase Root both went three innings before leaving with a 4-1 deficit.

Not all of BMCC's hitters struggled though, and the top of the lineup was consistent in the opener. Shortstop and lead-off hitter TJ Rea was 2-for-4 with two runs, catcher Chase Labbe was 3-for-5, and third baseman Tate Spivey was 2-for-5 with two RBIs in the

NASCAR seeks boost to steep decline with strong Daytona 500

By JENNA FRYER

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The good news for NASCAR is that all signs indicate Dale Earnhardt Jr. has a legitimate shot to win the Daytona 500.

A victory for NASCAR's most popular driver, in his return to racing after a concussion sidelined him the second half of last season, would be a massive boost for the sagging series. Earnhardt's star power has been one of the bright spots of Speedweeks and his strength on the track has been obvious every time he's behind the wheel of his Chevrolet.

Earnhardt was part of a

Hendrick Motorsports qualifying sweep for Sunday's season-opening race. Chase Elliott won the pole, and Earnhardt will line up next to him on the starting grid. Elliott added a win in a qualifying race, and Earnhardt led 53 of 60 laps in a second qualifying race before he was passed at the end.

So the Hendrick cars have speed, the drivers aren't cowering from the Toyota teamwork that dominated last year's race, and they are ready to go bumper-to-bumper with the Team Penske fleet.

It means Sunday could be a strong opening day for NASCAR, particularly if Earnhardt can pull off his third victory in "The Great Amer• When: Sunday, 10 a.m. •TV: FOX ican Race." He's not ready to call himself a favorite, and thinks he'll have his hands full with the Joe Gibbs Racing group and Penske drivers Joey Logano and Brad Keselowski.

"Watching the last several plate races, I think the Gibbs guys have the market cornered on the favorite," he said. "The Penske guys are really strong. So I think it's their race to lose. The Hendrick cars are going to be up there trying to mix it up.

NASCAR needs Sunday to go off without a hitch.

The series is under heavy scrutiny because of sliding attendance and television ratings, plus the title sponsor deal with Monster Energy came in at a fraction of what NASCAR was looking for when it began shopping the naming rights almost two years ago.

NASCAR celebrated its deal with Monster in a Las Vegas announcement, and has hitched its wagon to the hope that Monster can attract a younger demographic and raise the excitement level at all the events. But there was little signage around the track during Speedweeks, and one of the few indications Monster is the new sponsor were the scantily-clad women around for some of the pomp and circumstance. There's been no television advertising and NASCAR was even the subject of a critical examination in the Wall Street Journal.

NASCAR has countered with a JGR announcement that defending race winner Denny Hamlin and FedEx have signed long-term extensions, while Team Penske locked in Logano and Shell-Pennzoil through

"People are talking about the health of the sport, and this is a watershed moment," Roger Penske said of an extension that took nearly a year to complete with Shell.

Both FedEx and Shell-Pennzoil are major sponsors who spend something close to $20 million a year to brand the race cars and market to the NASCAR audience. "This is a very positive story in our sport, to see the commitment of a very large company like Shell and Pennzoil are and for them to be able to sign up with this team really makes a statement for not only where Team Penske is, but for where NASCAR is as a sport," Logano said.
